HOOVER FACING PERSONAL QUIZ; SO'S EVERYBODY

Census Field Force About to Start.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 30.—[Special.]—President Hoover's first caller next Wednesday morning will ask him a number of highly personal questions about himself and his family. And Mr. Hoover will answer each of them with care and precision.

The White House caller will be a census enumerator, whose visit to the home of the chief executive formally will initiate Uncle Sam's decennial jou of gathering statistics of the nation. At the same time in every city, village, and farm district in the country an army of 100,000 other enumerators will begin their house to house canvass, asking questions and jotting down the answers on ledger sheets two feet wide.

Although the official day for taking the census is Tuesday, April 1, the actual canvassing will not begin until Wednesday morning. The whole task is to be completed in the cities in two weeks and in the rural areas in one month.

Chicago Plans Complete.

Reports from the census bureaus today indicated that plans for the census taking in Chicago, the nation's second largest city, are virtually complete. The city has been carved into seven districts, each headed by a supervisor appointed several weeks ago. Under each supervisor will work from 175 to 250 enumerators. This census staff will be aided by the Chicago Association of Commerce and other business groups, which will help assemble business and industrial data.

Under the system in vogue for the 1930 census the supervisors will announce their results locally so that by April 15 preliminary information concerning the population of Chicago districts may be available.

A total of twenty-five primary questions will be asked by the enumerators of each person with nine more questions contingent upon answers to the first ones. Most of the former will concern age, sex, nativity, marriage, and education.

Ask About Home Ownership.

For the first time each family will be asked whether it owns or rents its home, the value of the home or how much rent is paid. Another new question concerns the age of each individual at first marriage, and a third question, "Is there a radio set in your home?" Answers to these questions are expected to furnish valuable new information never before compiled in the United States.

Perhaps the most important new questions relate to unemployment. If you answer "no" to the question "Were you actually at work yesterday?" you will be asked whether you have a job and are merely temporarily out of work, or whether you have no job at all. If you have a job you will be asked: 1. How many weeks since you have worked on your present job? 2. Why were you not at work yesterday? 3. Did you lose a day's pay by not being at work? 4. How many days did you work last week? 5. How many days in a full time week?

Job Questions on List.

If you have no job at all, you will be asked: 1. Are you able to work? 2. Are you looking for a job? 3. For how many weeks have you been without a job? 4. Reason for being out of a job, or for losing your last job.

Getting everybody counted once, at one time, in the place where they belong is one of the biggest problems with which the census bureau will have to contend.

According to instructions which have been sent out from Washington, if a person dies between April 1 and the time the enumerator arrives, he will be counted as being still alive, while children born after April 1 will not be counted, although they may be two or three weeks old by the time the census taker arrives at their home.

Counted Where They Live.

All persons will be enumerated as being residents of whatever place is their "usual place of abode" on April 1, regardless of where they may be when the census taker arrives. For example, persons temporarily absent from home on trips, attending school, or in hospitals, will be listed as being at home. Persons visiting a district, transients, and out of town students, on the contrary, will not be listed. It is not, say the census authorities, a question of where a person votes, pays taxes, or owns property. It is a question of where he lives.

"Sentiment and local attachments are not to be considered," stated the latest census bureau bulletin.

BRITISH REFUSE TO SIGN FRENCH WAR AID PACT

Turn Down Paris' Security Plea.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 30.—Great Britain will in no circumstance sign any pact which will bind her to automatically fight in France's wars. This was the substance of an important declaration made this evening by a British official spokesman immediately after a conference of Prime Minister MacDonald and the British delegation to the naval conference, who met at 10 o'clock, following the premier's return from his country home, Chequers.

"The government of Great Britain is anxious and willing to do all it can for peace and improving the machinery for keeping peace, thus giving security against war," the statement said. "So far as that is concerned, it will do all possible, but any further military commitments are absolutely impossible.

Refuses to Be Tied.

"For Great Britain to attempt to undertake any further commitments would be tantamount to tying her down to engage in military operations without being able to control the situation from which they have arisen. No British government could undertake such commitments. It would be contrary to the feeling of the whole British people."

Keen observers here immediately asked whether this statement was the knell of the proposed five power treaty to limit naval armament and promote world peace.

The statement came on the heels of reports that the British and French experts have disagreed after an all day conference, on the terms of the European security pact, which France demands as the price for reduction of her naval tonnage figures.

Briand Holds the Key.

Chiefs of the five delegations meet tomorrow, when it is expected that Foreign Minister Briand will have something to say. He may still insist on further security pact negotiations. If he does not, it would seem the conference ends then and there, for it is admitted on all sides now its success depends on giving France the security she wants.

The Americans and British still hope some formula may be found which will enable the French to accept a five power pact and reduce their navy to the Rapidan figures. It is unlikely, however, even if the French maintain their present position, that the conference will break tomorrow. There is a plenary meeting called for Friday, and a good deal of fixing may be accomplished in the meantime.

In reply to THE TRIBUNE'S questions, the British spokesman explained that Wright's official declaration does not preclude a formula for defining and clarifying existing commitments arising under article 16 of the league of nations covenant and the Locarno treaty. There is, however, a serious gap, from the French viewpoint, in article 16, which France has tried at various times to close.

Article 16 Defined.

Article 16 of the league covenant, into which M. Briand is now trying to put teeth, provides that any power going to war in defiance of the league covenant or disregarding arbitration, shall automatically be outlawed and economic relations severed. So far that satisfies the French. It is the second paragraph of the article to which they object. This article provides that the league council shall "recommend" what military and naval steps the different members shall take against the aggressor. The present controversy all turns on the word reccommend.

The British take the position that, since the council only recommends, it leaves each nation free to decide whether it shall take any military action or not. What M. Briand asks is that Britain agree to take military or naval action if the council should so recommend, arguing that inasmuch as the council could only act by unanimity, with the exception of the members, engaged in threatened conflict, England would not be taking on new military commitments as England, as a permanent council member, could thus veto the council's decision.

MacDonald, Grandi Confer.

Prime Minister MacDonald entertained Dino Grandi and Sig. Rossi of the Italian delegation at lunch today at Chequers. A brief communique was issued saying they discussed Italy's interest in any new definition of Article 16. Sig. Grandi also took the opportunity to restate Italy's position.

PROHIBITION

SEIZE LAST OF CHICAGO BANK SLAYING GANG

Steve Dixon, 25 years old, a colored ex-convict sought by the police as the fifth member of a gang of five gunmen who robbed the Franklin Trust and Savings bank of $1,200 and killed a bank guard on Jan. 18, 1929, was captured last night in Jackson, Miss., according to a dispatch received by Chief of Detectives Stege early this morning. Dixon's four companions in the holdup all have been convicted and three of them are to be executed in the electric chair on April 11.

Dixon was arrested after information of his presence in Jackson had been received by Chief Stege and forwarded to the police of the Mississippi city. He had been living there under an assumed name. Stege was informed that the prisoner intended to fight extradition to Illinois.

The four men convicted of the murder of the bank guard, Martin B. French, a retired city policeman, are Leonard Shadlow, Leon Brown, Lafon Fisher, and Melvin Jenkins, all colored. Shadlow, Brown, and Fisher were sentenced to death. Jenkins was sent to the penitentiary for life.

THREE BROTHERS SEEK ADVENTURE FOR THIRD TIME

Moved by the restless spirit of spring, the Clautier brothers, Roy, 13, George, 11, and Prentice, 9 years old, left their home at 638 East 89th street, yesterday on their third annual runaway adventure. While their parents were away the brothers cleaned the ice box for lunches, took their father's pistol and $5 and started forth, leaving a note saying California was their destination.

They got as far as Palos Park, some six miles from home, ate their lunches over a camp fire, and as darkness settled in the woods, decided home was the better place. They arrived home at 9 p. m., just as the parents and Burnside police were beginning to fear their disappearance might be something serious.

A cocktail bar and a separate smoking room are among the novel features of the new planes, each of which will carry 40 passengers and travel at an average speed of 100 miles an hour.

The air liners will be all metal, propelled by four engines, and equipped with all the latest comforts.

Farmer Slain by Dry Raider; Shot in Back

Richmond, Ky., March 30.—[Special.] — Prohibition raiders shot a farmer in the back in the presence of his wife and two children today at Owsley Fork, a hamlet twelve miles southeast of here. The victim, Ambrose Williams, 35, died almost instantly.

Sheriff Albert Bogie, Deputy Lloyd Lane and a federal agent, Boyd Sandlin, started out this morning from Richmond, the Madison county seat, to search the Williams' farm in the sparsely settled southeastern corner of the county.

Sandlin, who instigated the raid, later asserted he was empowered by a search warrant, but did not produce the document before the magistrate to whom Deputy Lane surrendered after the shooting. It was Lane who fired the fatal shot.

Victim Flees His Home.

The raiders reached the Williams' place at 11 o'clock. As they approached the house, the farmer ran out the front door and down the slope. His wife and children were on the porch as Deputy Lane gave chase, shouting at Williams to halt.

Williams, the fleeter of the two, was gaining in the race when the deputy drew his pistol, halted to take aim, and fired once. The farmer staggered and fell. When the officers turned him over on his back, asking him if he was badly hurt Williams was dead.

While the widow and children knelt beside the body, Sandlin and the sheriff searched the house. They found a small still and drained from the coils a gallon of moonshine.

Deputy Admits Shooting.

With this evidence, the officers went to the home of County Judge John B. Goodloe at Richmond. Deputy Lane admitted the shooting and the judge remanded him into custody of the sheriff. A preliminary hearing on a homicide charge was set for 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

None but the officers was present at the informal hearing before the county judge. Sheriff Bogie and the deputy refused to discuss the case afterwards and Sandling could not be reached." Judge Goodloe said, however, that no mention was made of a search warrant when Lane was brought before him.

THREE ARE DEAD FROM BATTLE IN KENTUCKY FEUD

Brownsville, Ky., March 30.—(AP)—Three men were shot and killed in a gun battle at Bee Springs, about eight miles north of here, this afternoon. The dead are Isaac Duvall, 35; his younger brother, Floyd, and Jim Stroud Meridith. Information here was that the two Duvalls shot Meridith, and the latter's companion, Curley Johnson, shot them. Johnson was arrested.

EDGE REFUSES TO BE SIDESHOW FOR FRENCH CAFE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NICE, March 30.—Scores of the Riviera's social elite, who had flocked to Frank J. Gould's Palais de la Mediterranee and spent $3.20 to see what fork an American diplomat uses on his cavair, got the disappointment of their lives tonight, when he discovered he was billed for the principal attraction and demanded a private room.

Ambassador Walter E. Edge, who is ending his industrial tour of France, arrived here at noon today. The town was plastered with posters announcing he was appearing officially at the Palais de la Mediterranee and urging all comers with $3.20 to eat with him. An inquiry revealed that the local chamber of commerce, which had planned the banquet in honor of the American ambassador, is broke and was unable to meet the big advance by the Palais.

To save the chamber embarrassment, the Palais offered to cut the rate, provided that Mr. Edge would eat in the main dining room. Mr. Edge, however, demanded a private room, which was granted. He entered through the most obscure entrance and left early.

Negroes Call for True Bill in Polls Death

Senator Deneen and State's Attorney Swanson were accused of unfairness toward Negroes at a mass meeting of colored voters of the 2d and 3d wards yesterday at the Wendell Phillips High school. A resolution was adopted demanding immediate action by the state's attorney to indict John Pampinella, who was held by a coroner's jury as the slayer of William H. Slaughter, a colored anti-Deneen political worker.

State Representative William E. King opened the meeting with a series of charges against Deneen and Swanson. "Two years ago Deneen and Swanson said Chicago was misgoverned and they raised $300,00 to do some prosecuting," the colored assemblyman said. "Since then they have indicted four of our leaders. They indicted Oscar De Priest and Dan Jackson, but later dismissed the indictments.

Points to Carey Indictment.

"The Deneen reformers said the civil service board was corrupt. The board contains three members, two white and one colored and only the colored member, Bishop Archibald Carey, was indicted.

"Senator Deneen came from Washington for the funeral of a colored man (Octavius Granady), who was killed in 1928 as he was exercising his right of suffrage. Then Senator Deneen made political capital out of the killing. When, finally, some men were definitely accused of the murder Swanson said he wasn't going to have anything to do with prosecuting them.

Describes Slaughter Case.

"In the murder of Mr. Slaughter in the 42d ward last registration day conditions were similar. But did we have a United States senator standing over the bier and saying this man died in a common cause? The man who was killed was a regular Republican and the man who is charged with killing him belonged to the Deneen faction.

"Did they raise a fund of $300,000 for prosecution in this case? No, and the prosecutors acted as defenders.

"Now they are calling our aldermen before the grand jury and asking who is hauling the garbage from our back doors. They are trying to force men to go along with Deneen, but at the primary the Deneen faction will not receive our votes."

Attorney Rufus G. Sampson, who served on the coroner's jury that ordered Pampinella held to the grand jury, told the story of the slaying. Slaughter was the father of five children, Sampson said.

History of the Slaying.

The history of the "Slaughter case" was given as follows:

Slaughter, a colored preacher, was slain in an alley near Sedgwick and Division streets on March 11 while he was assisting in the registration of voters. Pampinella was arrested and Richard Prendergast, Deneen leader of the 42d ward, came to his assistance. The police said Pampinella was a worker for Prendergast.

In the police court Pampinella was released on bonds when assistant state's attorneys stated there was no evidence against him. The inquest was continued indefinitely. The case came up in court last Wednesday and Pampinella failed to appear. The police had their witnesses in court and sought to take them immediately before the grand jury but the prosecutor's office did not agree to this procedure.

Coroner Bundesen then reconvened the inquest on Thursday and two witnesses testified that they had seen Pampinella shoot Slaughter in the back of the head. The coroner's jury ordered Pampinella held on a charge of murder. Since then the prosecutor's office has taken no action.

Swanson Makes Statement.

Last night State's Attorney Swanson issued the following signed statement:

"The Pampinella case in the 42d ward appears from the facts to be an ordinary murder case with no political aspects whatever.

"The matter has been under investigation by one of my most competent men and every effort has been made to ascertain the facts. The evidence secured by the police department will be presented to the grand jury in its regular order, which means as soon as the evidence taken by the coroner's jury has been delivered to my office. Any person who is interested and who has any information or evidence will be welcomed at my office."

Exhausted Air Traveler Finds 17 Story Refuge

An unregistered guest, who arrived by air, penniless and exhausted, was fed and housed in the Blackstone hotel last night. Confused by the high buildings, the lost flyer blundered into an open window on the 17th floor of the hotel, where employes gave him a meal of peanuts, toast crumbs and water. Pigeon fanciers are notified that the metal tag on one of the traveler's legs is inscribed, "AIR—28—CHI."

G. O. P. BATTLE SWINGS INTO ITS LAST WEEK

Deneen's Record Is Made Issue.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The senatorship campaign between Ruth Hanna McCormick and Senator Charles S. Deneen roared full tilt into its final week yesterday. Mrs. McCormick "blew the lid off" a day ahead of the time set by the Deneen managers for that ceremony. Noon today will see the contesting camps moving on the loop in downtown luncheon hour rallies, the Deneen group at the Grand Opera house and the McCormick campaigners at the Apollo theater, with prospects that, for the windup, the "lid" may be tossed into the lake.

Senator Deneen at Carmen's hall yesterday afternoon dwelt upon the tariff as "protector of the American wage scale." He enumerated labor legislation enacted during his régime as governor and spoke upon hard roads and the Illinois waterway, which started during my administration at Springfield."

Mrs. McCormick on "Alliances."

Mrs. McCormick over the radio and at meetings last night took for the title of her address "The Record of 12 Years in Politics." She spoke of "changing alliances," the "Deneen-Lundin alliance," the "Deneen-Cermak alliance," and she declared the record "entitles the senator to be chairman of the switchmen's union of politics."

"My opponent's record as a regular 100 per cent Republican," said Mrs. McCormick, "reminds me of the old song:

Where were you yesterday,
Where are you now, today,
And where will you be tomorrow, say?

"The Four Horsemen" was a subhead in Mrs. McCormick's address.

"I am sure," she said, "my friends will not allow their attention to genuine issues to be diverted by the din the four horsemen make in riding onto the platform at the noonday meetings this week.

The Four Horsemen Named.

"Possibly I should say three horsemen, for we find Fred Lundin and the senator astride the same milk white charger, Mr. Litsinger on a steed as black as coal. The fourth horseman stands sentry outside the theater, in the wet. He is Tony Cermak. He belongs to another clan and his horse is a tired and hungry donkey."

In opening her address Mrs. McCormick said she is "detached" from Cook county factional alliances and has "no entanglements."

"But how different," she said, "is the situation in which Senator Deneen finds himself. In addition to being a United States senator he aspires to be a leader of his party in Cook county. He is head of a Republican faction and as such is presenting a slate of candidates.

Recalls Last 12 Years.

"When he tells his audiences about my indorsements and my imaginary alliances, does he presume upon the short memories of the people, or has he forgotten his own long career? I am going to give you briefly his record from the daily newspapers covering the last 12 years.

"In 1918 Senator Deneen befriended the Thompson-Lundin forces in the February primary in Chicago. In 1920 Senator Deneen was opposing Thompson and Lundin. In the April 14 primary in 1920 'Diamond Joe' Esposito, of the bloody 19th ward, was the only Deneen man to be elected ward committeeman on the Deneen list in 35 wards.

"In 1921 Deneen joined the Democrats in electing a coalition judicial ticket. In 1922 civic organizations condemned the Deneen slate on the ground that he was again tied up with Thompson and Lundin. He opposed Crowe in the primary election of that year, but in the November election he and Crowe were together.

1923 Operations Cited.

"Deneen and Crowe worked together in 1923 and Fred Lundin came out for Deneen's candidate for mayor. In 1924 Deneen and Lundin were fast friends. In 1924 Deneen was opposing Crowe, but was working with Thompson. Later in the year Deneen and Lundin were again in an alliance and Lundin's sample ballots recommended Deneen for senator and Small for governor. The Deneen group at that time was known as the Thompson-Lundin-Small-Deneen organization.

"In 1925 Lundin split with Thompson and the senator's machine [illegible] known as the Deneen-Small-[illegible] group. They had a joint slate judicial election in that year. Small helped Deneen win the senatorship in 1924 and four years later Deneen helped to defeat Small for governor. In 1927 Lundin was with Deneen in the mayoralty contest.

"Deneen supported Thompson in February, 1927, and sat on the platform with Thompson at one of the late meetings in that contest. After the election Thompson and Deneen split the patronage. In November, 1927, Deneen was negotiating with Small and Thompson preparing for the April, 1928, primaries.

The Primary of 1928.

"Deneen, however, deserted Thompson and Small in the 1928 primary, and this year he is in partnership once more with Fred Lundin in the Lundin-Deneen machine. Senator Deneen meanwhile sings an occasional friendly halloo to Tony Cermak on the Democratic side of No Man's Land.

"I have given this interesting picture of the senator's changing alliances in the hope that it will help you to understand the senator's situation here.

"I have given you only twelve years of the senator's political record, although we might go back even to the gay '90s and cite his relationships with William E. Lorimer.

"In the 1928 campaign there was one candidate who had shifted his allegiance with different factions so frequently that the newspaper reporters referred to him as the president of the switchmen's union. It seems to me, in view of the foregoing record, my distinguished opponent should at least have the honorable position of the chairman of the board of this union."

Deneen Addresses Wards' Rally.

Senator Deneen, at Carmen's hall, at a rally of the 25th, 26th, 27th and 28th wards, pointed to his record as governor upon the concrete road system, the waterway and legislation designed to protect the wage earner.

"I've just completed a tour of 98 counties in the state," he began, "and I noted with pride our system of concrete highways. When I was governor of Illinois I advocated such a network of highways to connect each county seat in the state and despite much opposition a number of experimental roads were built. That work has taken fruit in the present great system.

"Illinois is the natural center of the country for a noteworthy system of water transportation and I have always striven to advance the interests of the state in this direction. We have taken the lead in planning waterways and we will push those plans with energy. The waterway from the lakes to the Gulf of Mexico is one necessary to restore the equilibrium in business to Illinois and the Mississippi valley."

Points to His Labor Record.

The senator then enlarged upon his record as governor in effecting labor legislation. He said that he sponsored numerous laws for the better protection of men and women engaged in many lines of industry. He said:

"The workmen's compensation act, providing compensation for accidental injury or death, was one of the measures passed during the time I was governor. Another was the act providing for a 10 hour workday for women.

"When I became governor there was not a dangerous machine or working place in the state of Illinois that was guarded in such a way as to protect the employés from the risk of injury or disease, or to compensate them for industrial injury or occupational disease except in those rare instances where the employer assumed this economic burden. There was no law in this state requiring the employer to furnish the employé with safe or sanitary or healthful work places and conditions.

"During my administration some thirty-five laws of this general character were enacted."

Discusses Tariff Issue.

Taking up the tariff, Senator Deneen contrasted the American wage scale with those of foreign lands.

"Let us contrast," he said, "the average wage in the United States of $4.32, as given by the census bureau, with the average wage in European countries.

"In Italy wages are about one-fourth of what they are in the United States. In the Florence district, figures for 1928 showed unskilled labor made an average of 95 cents to $1.08 a day. Bricklayers received $1.89, cement workers $1.68 a day.

"In Czecho-Slovakia the women in the textile and shoe industries received from 4.8 cents to 6 cents per hour. Bricklayers receive $7.50 per week and the skilled workers in textile plants receive 10.5 cents per hour.

Wage Conditions in Germany.

"In Germany the skilled laborers in the leather and shoe industries receive 22 cents per hour and unskilled laborers 19.5 cents per hour. In Greater Berlin in January, 1929, the average wage earned by male workers was 26.2 cents per hour and for females 23.1 cents per hour. Wages in other sections of Germany were much lower.

"In France the average hourly wage for the city of Paris in October, 1928, for all occupations for males was 20.6 cents per hour and for other cities 12.5 cents. For women outside of Paris the average was 7.7 cents per hour.

"In Great Britain in 1928 the minimum rate of wages per week for males in the boot and shoe industry averaged between $12.15 and $13.61. For women the average was from $5.89 to $8.26 per week. In London carpenters and plasterers receive 45 cents per hour. In agricultural occupations the minimum wage rate law on Jan. 1, 1928, made laborers receive from $7.29 to $8.51 per week.

"The wage scale has steadily advanced in the United States. These facts create the competitive conditions between the United States and Europe and the less favored parts of the world. The protective tariff is set up to protect American industries and labor in all its branches from the competition of less favored people throughout the world. Behind these tariff walls the American worker and producer, in competition among themselves, determine the American standard of living.

"The American standard of living is the best that men have yet achieved, and every effort should be made to preserve it and advance it."

The Brundage group on the north side continued its indorsements of Mrs. McCormick yesterday. The Forty-fourth ward Republican organization, of which Thomas O. Wallace, Circuit court clerk, is chief, adopted McCormick resolutions, which were introduced by Herbert W. Auw, Brundage candidate for state senator in the Thirty-first district. The resolutions were seconded by Oscar Reum, a Lincoln park commissioner. The Nettelhorst organization in the Fiftieth ward took similar action a fortnight ago.

ELECTION BOARD FIRES NEW BLAST AT SWANSON QUIZ

Prosecutor Denies He Is Playing Politics.

A charge that State's Attorney Swanson's official stationery is being used by Deneen headquarters in the Morrison hotel to forward complaints to the board of election commissioners was made yesterday by Fred V. McGuire, chairman of the election board.

A controversy between the state's attorney's office and the election board was caused by the announcement on Saturday that the grand jury would begin an investigation today of many complaints of fraudulent registration. The election board immediately issued a statement charging that the state's attorney was "playing politics" and produced another statement last night "further answering the charges that fraudulent names have not been erased from the books."

New Statement Issued.

After quoting records to show that fewer names are on the poll books than two years ago, notwithstanding Chicago's growth in population, the statement continued:

"The state's attorney's office has been requested to submit to this office any facts warranting the removal of a judge or clerk of election.

"One letter on the state's attorney's official stationery was delivered to this office on March 28, 1930, to the effect that two persons appointed as election officials in the 22d precinct of the 2d ward were not qualified.

"An examination of our records showed that those persons had never been appointed to serve in that precinct, whereupon the messenger from the state's attorney's office telephoned through our switchboard to Deneen headquarters in the Morrison hotel and then advised us that the Deneen headquarters had said that their typist had erroneously written 22d precinct when the 32d precinct was intended."

Swanson Issues Reply.

State's Attorney Swanson in a signed statement late last night denied Mr. Maguire's charges, made on Saturday, that politics was at the bottom of the prosecutor's registration investigation.

"It seems to me that Mr. Maguire would welcome the cooperation of any citizen, and especially the chief law enforcing officer of the county, to purge the registration lists and help assure an honest election," says the statement.

"The appointment of election judges and clerks expires, it has been held, on Dec. 31 of each year. The announced policy of the election commissioners has been to appoint all the old judges and clerks who have served honestly. A school has been evolved to train the election officials in the performance of their duties and the taxpayers' money has been spent freely along this line.

Charges Law Is Ignored.

"In spite of the fact that the board has had almost three months to make the appointments of judges and clerks, we find that many old boards which have served faithfully and well have been destroyed (after their expensive training) and on registration day we find temporary appointees of those officials. The law provides for no such appointments.

"In the list of judges and clerks of certain wards requested by my office and furnished last Thursday we find as large a list of unconfirmed judges and clerks as we do those who have been properly appointed under the law. The law requires those appointments to be made sixty days before election in order that the County court could confirm such appointments thirty days before election. This is in order to provide an opportunity to protest the appointments. Why was this law not complied with?

"Mr. Maguire complains because an election fraud department has been created prior to election when (as he says) no offenses had been committed, although dozens of complaints had reached my office covering padded registrations and many other irregularities.

"He also complains because certain facts will b laid before the grand jury before election. Why? Does Mr. Maguire wish to have thousands of persons left on the registration lists, permitted to vote, and the result of the election determined before the state's attorney takes any action?

Says Ellers Are Favored.

"Mr. Maguire's office appears to have made available information and records to the Ellers and others in the 20th ward rrom sources which were closed to all other wards. He has limited to 50 to a precinct the number of applications to erase names from the registration lists when our investigation shows fraudulent registrations as high as 150 in a precinct.

"The state's attorney has a right to expect, when a matter is under investigation and where evidence of overt acts is presented, to call upon every public officer in whose department the matter arises for coöperation. Mr. Maguire's charges are unwarranted and unfair in view of the large number of frauds already uncovered by our investigation."

FILIPINO SENATOR DROPS 'FREEDOM' AS ISLAND'S BATTLE CRY

MANILA, March 30.—(AP)—Senator Juan Sumulong, minority party leader, at a banquet tonight in honor of the departure this week of the Philippine independence commission, said there was no immediate hope of Filipinos obtaining their independence and urged that they accept a compromise. This was the first public expression in the Philippines of a leader's willingness to give up the traditional demands of immediate, absolute, and complete independence from the United States. The speech created a storm of conflicting comment among leaders.

Sumulong heads a permanent commission going to the United States to give vigor to the long standing campaign to persuade the American people to give early consideration to the status and station of the Philippines.

"We are forcing the independence issue," said Senator Sumulong, "but our stand should not be so rigid that it would prevent the possibility of acceptance of any compromise measures in the end."

ANTI-THOMPSON SIGN HOISTED BY TOM WALLACE

A new sign was added yesterday over the front of the Forty-fourth ward Republican headquarters of Thomas O. Wallace. It reads:

STOP THOMPSONISM NOW!

The meeting place at 846 Center street already carried signs for Wallace, who is a candidate for reelection as ward committeeman, and for Herbert W. Auw, the Brundage-Wallace candidate for the state senate.

"We put up the new slogan," said Wallace, "because the battle in this section of the city is to put into office good men who won't be used to build up Thompson's candidacy for a fourth term as mayor. There are Thompson candidates in several of the north side wards where the Brundage strength lies and we're out to beat them in order to stop Thompson now."

Bishop Griswold Leaves Hospital; Much Improved

The Rt. Rev. Sheldon M. Griswold, bishop of the Chicago diocese of the Episcopal church, returned to his home at 1314 Hinman avenue, Evanston, yesterday, after a month's illness in the Evanston hospital. Dr. Dwight Clark, the attending physician, said that Bishop Griswold's condition is greatly improved and that the prelate will leave soon for the south.

TAX REVALUATION CHANGES FIGURES ON SMALL HOMES

Effect in Wage Earning Districts Shown.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, lives at 3421 Parnell avenue. That is in the 11th ward, where a large part of the residents are wage earners.

Under the old tax assessment the assessed valuation on Mr. Fitzpatrick's residence was $5,024. Under the reassessment the valuation is $2,637—a cut of $2,387.

Immediately to the north of Mr. Fitzpatrick's place is a home without a street number. This property under the old assessment was valued at $808; the reassessment makes the figure $405. The valuation on the next house north, 3405 Parnell avenue, has been reduced under the reassessment from $1,600 to $798. The valuation on the home at 3403 Parnell avnue has been cut from $1,500 to $705, and that on 3401 Parnell was dropped from $2,500 to $1,493.

The Remainder of the Block.

To the south of Mr. Fitzpatrick's residence, at 3423 Parnell avenue, the assessment has been cut from $7,524 to $4,777. The valuation on the next home, 3425 Parnell, was cut from $10,134 to $4,319. The northeast corner of Parnell avenue and 35th street is vacant. The assessed valuation of the lot has been lowered from $2,000 to $406.

To summarize, these eight properties in Mr. Fitzpatrick's block were put in the tax books under the old assessment for an aggregate of $31,460. The reassessment figure is $15,526—a reduction of $15,934. Unless the rate is increased the taxes on these properties will be reduced 50 per cent.

Another glimpse of the reassessment in its relation to the homes of wage earners was obtained by a comparison of the old and new assessed valuations in the 1200 and 1300 blocks of North Mason avenue.

Victor Olander's Home.

Victor Olander, secretary of the Illinois state federation of labor and a member of the Strawn citizens' committee dealing with the financial difficulties of the local governments, resides at 1336 North Mason avenue. Under the old assessment the Olander residence was on the books for $3,320. Under the reassessment the valuation was reduced to $2,504. The saving in taxes paid would be $39.65 at the old rate, while on the Fitzpatrick home the saving would be $105.76.

The homes along Mason avenue in Mr. Olander's neighborhood are principally one family dwellings—cottages, bungalows, and houses—and two flats. Mr. Olander's next door neighbor to the south, at 1332 North Mason avenue, was given a reduction in assessed valuation from $3,320 to $2,837. The next house, at No. 1330, was cut from $3,320 to $2,625. No. 1328 was cut from $3,270 to $2,696, and No. 1324 was raised from $2,720 to $2,850.

61 Valuations Compared.

This increase prompted a comparison of assessments, old and new, on 61 other homes in the neighborhood, that a fair view might be obtained of the effect of the reassessment. The following table shows the street numbers on North Mason avenue, the old 1927 assessment, the new 1928 assessment, and the increase or decrease for each of 31 properties, which give a fair impression of the other 30:

Street No.	Old [1927]	New [1928]	Increase	Decrease

1255....	6,440	5,365	.....	1,075
1257....	8,545	6,246	.....	2,299

Altogether, 69 assessments in the neighborhood were investigated. The aggregate old assessment on all of these properties was $268,560, while the new assessment is $239,893. That is a net reduction of $28,667, or approximately 10.6 per cent.

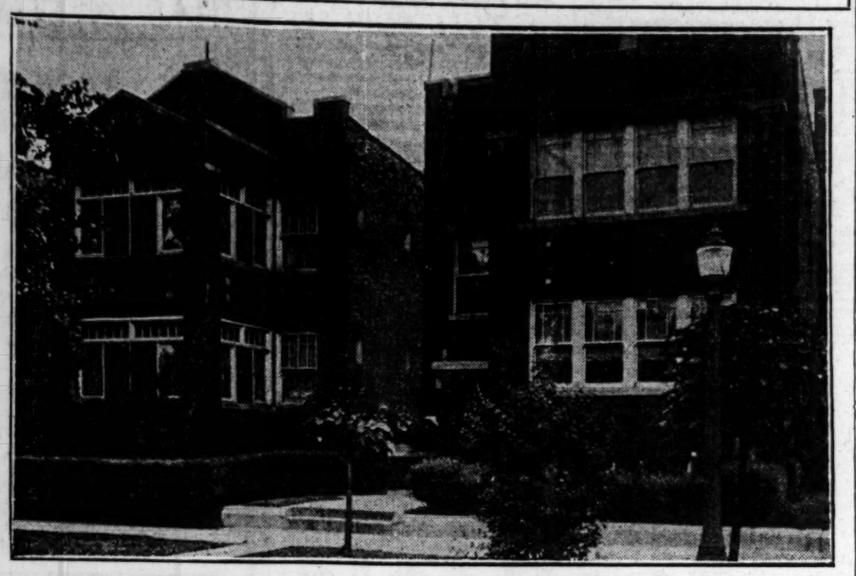
Fifty-two Homes Get Reductions.

Seventeen of the 69 homes received increases, the others got reductions. The average increase was $553, while the average reduction was in excess of $732. The aggregate reductions were $38,072, and the increases $9,405.

The increases varied from $4 on one home to $2,180 on another; while the decreases varied from $3 on one home to another of $5,673.

The list of 69 properties indicates there was comparatively little "adjustment" on taxes in this neighborhood, and all of it related to building values rather than land values. One building was on the old assessment list for $1,500 which the appraisers for the board of assessors valued at $10,485. Another building, also at $1,500 under the old assessment, was appraised at $8,000. Another down for $1,200 on the old books was appraised at $6,522.

REASSESSMENT WIPES OUT INEQUALITIES



Picture first printed in The Tribune July 28 after the order of reassessment was issued. It shows two almost identical buildings. The building at the left, 8118 Loomis street, owned by Thomas Morgan, was valued at $1,000 by the assessors. The one at the right, 8114 Loomis street, owned by James Durkin, was valued at $6,000. Now the one at the left is valued at $3,614, while the one at the right is put at $4,325. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

SKULL OF 'PEKING MAN' FREED FROM SHELL OF STONE

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

PEIPING, March 30.—After several months' labor the skull of the "Peking man" has been freed from its stony matrix and was on view at the annual meeting of the Geological Society of China yesterday. Much delicate work with dentists' drills and special tools was required to cut away the mass of hard travertine wherein the skull was embedded.

The process revealed the absence of the facial part of the skull, but heavily developed superorbital ridges remain and the cranium is complete except at the base. Dr. Black stated study of the cleaned skull was not yet begun and there was nothing fresh to say on the subject except that the skull showed a peculiar shape and condition of the ear region and very unusual expansion of the tymphanic bone from which—after examination—important conclusions might be reached.

During the meeting it was stated geologists had made the interesting discovery that volcanoes in the Tatungfa coal area in north Shanghai had ejected quantities of lava which covered sands and clays formed approximately during the same period as the Choikoutien deposits wherein the remains of the "Peking man" were found.

The discovery of the "Peking Man's" skull in a quarry near the old capital of China is considered of first importance by paleontologists. It is hoped it will shed interesting light on the origin of early man. This fossil is the most complete as well as the oldest ever unearthed.

HOLD BROTHER OF EXECUTED YOUTH FOR AUTO THEFT

Edward Walz, 17 years old, 2811 La Salle street, one of whose brothers was put to death in the electric chair and another slain in a gun battle with policemen, was being held at the detective bureau last night charged with stealing an automobile.

Walz's brother, Charles, was only 18 years old when he was electrocuted in February, 1929, for the murder of Policeman Arthur Esau during a drug store robbery, and William was 19 when he was shot to death in 1925 by Policeman Daniel Mullane in a gun battle in the Walz home, where the police were searching for stolen property.

Edward was arrested yesterday with Michael Rogelick, 18 years old, 609 West 32d street, by Sergt. Charles Stein of the Central station when they were found in a car stolen from William Cleary, 4043 Washington boulevard. The youths had taken the car from Wacker drive and Randolph street and had driven only a block when the engine stalled, and their actions in trying to start it aroused the policeman's suspicions. They will be arraigned in the Boys' court today.

STABBED IN WEST SIDE BRAWL.

TURKISH WOMEN WIN RIGHTS TO MUNICIPAL POSTS

ISTANBUL, Turkey, March 30.—(AP)—The Angora parliament today passed the law giving women the right to vote in municipal elections and making them eligible to hold office as municipal councilors and presidents of municipalities.

The newspaper Milliett, government organ, in Angora, says that in 1932 the government will give women the full franchise with the right to sit in parliament. It added that Turkish women's ability was one of the most important factors in the nation's progress, and the enfranchising law effaced the last vestige of the old régime's tyranny and ignorance.

On the other hand, the Turkish woman author, Kadrie Reshad, published a statement asserting that 99 per cent of the Turkish women had no idea what the suffrage movement was all about.

3 GUNMEN FIND HOLDUP IS ERROR; GO EMPTY HANDED

Three well dressed gunmen were lying in wait in the vestibule of the apartment building at 1356 Hyde Park boulevard last night when George Skakel, president of the Great Lakes Coal and Coke company, and his wife returned from a loop theater.

"I have $30," Skakel said. "Take it, but please don't shoot."

"We won't shoot," the leader of the bandits replied, "but we want the jewelry."

Finding only a wedding ring on Mrs. Skakel's finger, the robber appeared bewildered for a moment, and then he said to his companions:

"We've got the wrong people. Let's duck."

They fled without searching Skakel.

JUDGES JARECKI AND HORNER RUN ON LONG RECORDS

Services Are Approved by Bar Association.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Two veteran Democrats hold important judicial offices in Cook county for which nominations are to be made on April 8. Neither has opposition in his own party and their vote winning power in past contests with Republicans has been such that the Republican factions are giving only second importance to their own nominations for these two places.

Henry Horner has been judge of the Probate court of Cook county since 1914. In other words, he has been elected for four successive terms of four years each. During that entire period his record has been approved by the lawyers, the most recent report of the Chicago Bar association saying that he is "exceptionally well qualified for the office."

Jarecki Elected in 1922.

Edmund K. Jarecki has been county judge of Cook county since 1922. In that year he won a victory over Frank S. Righeimer, the city hall candidate, and in 1926 he won a similar victory over Joseph P. Savage, the candidate of Robert E. Crowe, then at the height of his power as state's attorney. These heated battles were due to the fact that the county court controls the election machinery of Chicago and several of its suburbs.

With these records behind the incumbents, private confessions from headquarters say, both the major Republican factions encountered difficulty in their slate making when it came to arousing enthusiasm among their followers to go out and give battle to Judges Horner and Jarecki. Several lawyers of high standing coupled with political judgment are reported to have said they wouldn't care to run against either of the Democratic incumbents.

Point to Bar Vote.

Another reflection of this same situation was found in the recent primary of the Chicago Bar association. Every member who cast a ballot was entitled to vote for both Republicans and Democrats. But the total vote cast for three Republican candidates for Probate judge was only 933 out of a total of 2,311 ballots—a 40 per cent vote. The highest candidate received only 353 votes in contrast to the 1,990 cast for the top liner among candidates for the Municipal bench. Under the new rule of the association requiring at least one-third of the total vote for approval, no Republican was indorsed for the probate judgeship.

The highest Republican candidate for county judge in the same primary received 974 votes and therefore was indorsed. But here there were 317 ballots not marked for any of the three Republican entries.

Other Candidates Young Men.

The Deneen and Snow entries are both young men—in fact, of the same age, 33 years. One, Lloyd C. Moody, Deneen, has practiced law less than three years, having been admitted to the bar in 1927. The Snow candidate, David H. Brill, who started out for himself and later was picked up by the organization for lack of a candidate really its own, was admitted to the bar in 1919. Judge Horner, the Democratic incumbent, is 51 years old and was admitted to practice in 1899.

When it took up the county judgeship in its slatemaking the Deneen group is said to have approached several of its members with suggestions of making the race. It finally selected William E. Helander, now a Municipal court judge with four years yet to serve. He consented to have his name go on the ballot, and it was he who received the indorsement in the bar primary.

Edward J. Hess, Snow candidate, was not far behind him with his 815 votes, which passed the one-third mark, a fact attributed to the finding of the bar association's committee on candidates that he is "courageous and upright and qualified for the office." He has practiced law since 1909 and was an assistant district attorney for several years under Edwin A. Olson. He comes from Chairman Snow's own ward.

There is a third candidate for each of these offices, Irving Breakstone, who has practiced law in Illinois for about four years, for the Probate judgeship, and William C. Greatman, admitted to the bar in 1919, for the County court. The bar association committee said that both lacked the requisite qualifications.

Youth Seriously Wounded in Restaurant Quarrel

Samuel Gottlieb, 17 years old, 1254 South Union avenue, was shot in the chest during a quarrel and perhaps fatally wounded last night in the Union restaurant, 14th street and Union avenue, by another youth, who fled. Gottlieb, who was taken to the county hospital, named his assailant as Frank Deler, alias Dwyer, reported to live in the vicinity of 34th and Halsted streets.

PHYSICIAN NABS FLEEING ROBBER OF RESTAURANT

Fleeing from a restaurant which he had just robbed, a young bandit was captured early this morning by a physician whose automobile he tried to steal to complete his escape. The prisoner is Glenn Durham, 21 years old, 2904 Jackson boulevard.

Durham walked into Peterson's restaurant, 1810 Ogden avenue, with pistol in hand shortly after midnight and compelled the cashier, Miss Wanda Moose, 22 years old, to hand over $25. Then he ran south a block to the county hospital, where the automobile of Dr. August F. Daro, 1153 Madison street, Oak Park, was standing.

As Durham wrenched open the door of the car and started to jump in Dr. Daro emerged from the hospital on his way home. The physician seized Durham, subdued him after a tussle, and held him until Sergt. Arthur Murphy and his police squad arrived. Miss Moose identified Durham as the restaurant robber.

G. O. P. CONTEST FOR SCHOOL POST IS SEDATE ONE

One of the Republican state-wide contests which is moving along sedately is over the place of superintendent of public instruction. Francis G. Blair, who has been superintendent for twenty-four years is running for his seventh term. He has one opponent, L. W. Hacker, a professor at the State Normal university, an ex-service man who has a plank of two words, "Better Schools."

"While Illinois ranks seventh in per capita income," says Mr. Hacker, "she ranks 21st in high school enrollment, 22d in illiteracy, 22d in education, 23d in education, 24th in length of rural school term, 25th in teacher training, 29th in rural teachers' salaries."

Meantime, many presidents and professors of colleges and Normal schools are sending in indorsements of Supt. Blair, extolling his standing and record as an educator in the last quarter century. Mr. Blair, who has served since 1906, has been president of the National Council of State Superintendents and Commissioners of Education, and in 1926 he was elected president of the National Education association.

There is only one Democratic candidate, Eva B. Batterton of Springfield.

TILSON DEFENDS G.O.P. PROGRESS UNDER HOOVER

Misrepresentation Is Laid to Democrats.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 30.—[Special.]—Smarting from continued attacks by Democrats upon the Hoover administration, the Republicans have finally commenced a defense of its record. Representative John Q. Tilson [Rep., Conn.], house majority leader, in a statement issued today through the Republican national committee, asserted that the Democrats have engaged in a "studied effort at misrepresentation."

Tax reduction, farm relief legislation, a public buildings bill, a good roads bill, a bill continuing the life of the radio commission and a reapportionment bill were enumerated by Representative Tilson as legislative proposals recommended by President Hoover and passed by congress.

Business Helped, He Says.

"Most of these measures have their direct reflection upon business conditions, and more especially tax reductions and the buildings and roads bills," said Mr. Tilson. "These last two measures represent the government's own part of the very comprehensive program which President Hoover so promptly and energetically set about after the stock market crash last fall as a means of restoring confidence and alleviating unemployment in the country.

"The tax measure reduced the nation's tax bill by 160 million dollars through a 66 per cent reduction on smaller incomes, a 4 per cent reduction on larger incomes and an 8 1-3 per cent reduction in the corporation tax.

"The public buildings measure increases by 230 million dollars the sums available for the construction of federal buildings.

Work for Many Men.

"Even before this measure was enacted the administration outlined plans for launching $92,000,000 for new construction, in addition to expediting the $46,000,000 worth of public buildings already under way. This program will furnish employment to many thousands of skilled workmen."

The public roads program, Mr. Tilson said, will help to relieve unemployment by its increased appropriations for federal aid roads.

The farm relief act, Mr. Tilson contended, "has already brought help and courage to agriculture."

The writer of this letter is a Dutch schoolmaster, head of a rural school in the southern part of the island of Sumatra, in the village of Soeban Djerigi, near Moeara Enim. He is doing his part in maintaining the influence of The Netherlands in Sumatra, where the Dutch have been in control since the end of the sixteenth century, when they drove out the Portuguese, who were the first Europeons to establish trading posts on the island.

Sumatra is close to the south and west of the Malay peninsula and is the westernmost and, next to Borneo, the largest of the Great Sundra islands of the Malay archipelago. It has an area of approximately 160,000 square miles and a population of 6,000,000. Timber, coffee, tobacco, spices, copra, rubber, tin, and gold are among its chief products. To the average man Sumatra is best known for the name it has given to standard cigar wrappers.

PEPPER DEBATES WITH LEVINSON ON WORLD COURT

George Wharton Pepper yesterday brought to Chicago his fight to keep the United States out of the world court except under the reservations adopted by the senate in 1926, when he was a Pennsylvania senator.

Former Senator Pepper declared there is danger in adhering to the world court under counter propositions submitted by European powers—substitute amendments which, he said, have the support of President Hoover and the state department and on which the senate soon is to act. He said these counter propositions purport to mean the same things as the senate's 1926 amendments, but, in fact, constitute a "menace to the United States and a danger to the peace of the world."

Debates with Levinson.

Mr. Pepper spoke in a debate before the Chicago Forum in the Adelphi theater yesterday afternoon. His opponent in the debate was Salmon O. Levinson, Chicago lawyer, who is credited with doing pioneer work for the Kellogg peace pact and last summer was a collaborator in the revision of the world court statute at Geneva.

Mr. Pepper took the position that the United States should enter the court only under the 1926 reservations, thereby, he said, protecting the United States and preserving the quality of the court as a purely judicial body.

Mr. Levinson's position was that the United States should enter the world court. The document containing the counter propositions of the European powers and omitting the senate 1926 reservations, already has been signed by the American representative at Geneva. Mr. Pepper is fighting to prevent the senate from ratifying it.

Pepper States His Case.

"The facts as they now stand are simply these," Mr. Pepper said. "The senate four years ago voted to join in the world court upon certain conditions. These conditions were not acceptable then to some of the other powers. Now these powers have changed their minds, it seems. They appear to believe our terms were reasonable and appear willing to accept those terms, but they are not willing to accept the United States' language of those terms—they want the liberty of expressing our thought in their language."

Mr. Pepper gave the language of what he termed the senate's principal and most important reservation as follows: "That the court shall not . . . without the consent of the United States, entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest."

He previously had explained that the court had two "dissimilar" functions, as follows: first, "the court sits as a court to determine controversies of an international nature, submitted by disputing nations—purely a judicial function"; and, second, "the partly legal, partly 'political' function of giving advisory opinions to the league of nations, on any questions which might be submitted by the league.

What It Means to Him.

In view of these, Mr. Pepper explained, the counter propositions now in the protocol give the United States the right to "protest, and the right of the league of nations to serve the United States notice of a request for advice; and the right of the United States to withdraw its support from the court 'without any imputation of unfriendliness'."

In addition to using the language of the 1926 senate reservation, Mr. Pepper said, the amendment as it now stands adds: "In the exercise of its advisory function the court shall further be guided by the provisions of the statute which apply to contentious cases to the extent which it recognizes them to be applicable."

"All they ask," Mr. Pepper continued, "is that they may set down their 'changed' ideas in their unchanging language. Exactly what does it means? It means that after all exchanges of politeness have been indulged in, the court may still give its advisory opinion or decision and the United States can take its dishes and go home.

Urges U. S. to Stand Pat.

"I say that the advisory function of the court is inconsistent with and potentially destructive of the court's judicial functions. I say that it is only when you put in reservation 5 of 1926 that the court can be the kind of a tribunal it ought to be—one modeled after the Supreme Court of the United States.

"The United States should not recede one inch from its position of four years ago—for four years they have kept us waiting at the gate. It is because I have wanted to see a court of international justice disassociated with anything political that I have worked and am working now."

The debate was broadcast over W-G-N. The theater was crowded.

AX COMMISSION ASKS NEW BASIC LAW ON REVENUE

nnual Report Urges 30 Changes in System.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Thirty changes in the tax, budget-y, and revenue systems of the state e recommended by the state tax mmission, headed by William H. Ma-e. The first chapter of its annual port was made public yesterday.

The report suggests that the reve-e article of the state constitution e entirely rewritten, that its terms completely liberalized and that the iform rule of the general property x system be eliminated from the con-tution." The commission desires ad powers lodged with the legisla-re, " that provision be made for the option of adequate budgetary pro-dures, and that further consideration given to public indebtedness, debt itations, and referenda upon bond ue proposals."

Cites Desired Powers.

The purposes of the changes are set rth as follows:

" It is suggested that the taxation wers be sufficiently broad so that e legislature may frame a proper x system for Illinois without further nstitutional change. The legislature ould be enabled to adopt, in its dis-etion, such measures as the classi-d property tax, the low rate tax on tangibles, the income tax, and simi-measures without the necessity of rther constitutional amendment."

All of the other recommendations e suggestions on statutory changes, me of which may involve the sug-sted constitutional amendment.

The first of the recommendations is hat assessments be put on a full lue basis by 1931."

Outline Full Value Needs.

The assessed valuation in Cook unty, under the reassessment, is 37 r cent of the full value, which 37 r cent represents the average ratio tween full value and assessed value other counties as estimated by local ssors.

The recommendation for full market luation, the report asserts, " will quire the establishment of a scienti- or appraisal assessment system, the aking of a comprehensive land sur-y, and the preparation of tax maps r every county and taxing district the state." That is the system ich Harry S Cutmore has aimed to tablish in Cook county under the 9 reassessment.

Subsidiary to the first major recom-ndation are several others as fol-ws: The commission desires that the islature reduce all tax rates, so at when full tax valuations are in ect, taxes will not be increased. It ges that debt limitations be reduced, that local governments will not ve greater borrowing power when x valuations are increased. It sug-sts that salaries and fees contingent on assessed valuations be adjusted that excessive compensation will t be provided.

Would Require County Visits.

The commission desires the power require a meeting of all local as-sors annually, and power to compel eir attendance. The commission uld prepare and distribute a manual taxes to each assessor, such as has n devised in Cook county. The mmission asks that a member of it its staff be required to visit every nty yearly.

The state commission would have legislature require that equaliza-tion of taxation be made on the basis of " sales data."

The commission asks for power " to raise or lower the valuation of any class of property or of any individual taxpayer in any assessment district upon due notice to the local assessor and to the parties concerned and after a public hearing." Another added power asked by the commission is the authority " to order reassessments made by its own appointees, or by local assessing officers, as the state tax commission shall direct."

The commission would abolish the township assessor system and have a county assessor who would hold office during efficient performance of duty, but could be removed for cause by the state tax commission.

Another major recommendation of the commission reads: " It is recommended that the dual system of assessment administration embracing an independent board of assessors and board of review, as found in Cook and St. Clair counties, be abolished."

GOTHAM SPEAKEASIES VOTE FOR REPEAL; GRAFT TOO COSTLY

New York, March 30.—[Special.]—In a survey of New York City speakeasies, conducted by reporters for the New York World, it has been found that the proprietors are 20 to 1 in favor of repeal of national prohibition. This result, the World says, is rather surprising, since the speakeasies presumably should profit from prohibition. Graft expenditure is the main cause of this hope. The liquor dealers declare that extortion is practiced by the federal men, the police, the gangster, and the hi-jacker.

RINGER DENIES BOARD PLANS TO OUST CUTMORE

Assessor Charles Ringer gave out a statement yesterday denying any intention of discharging Harry S. Cutmore, director of the reassessment. Ringer is secretary of the board of assessors. He said there has been nothing offered to the board in the way of a suggestion or a move to oust Cutmore.

" I want the public to know that insofar as I am concerned I will during the remainder of my term as a member of the board of assessors insist that rules that have proved good in practice established by Mr. Cutmore will be continued to be observed by the board," Ringer's statement said.

" Further than that, Mr. Cutmore will need have no fear for the continuation of his employment as long as his work is handled in the future as it has been in the past."

RECALLS EARLY CHICAGO ON HIS 85TH BIRTHDAY

Molesworth King, pioneer Chicagoan of 399 Fullerton parkway, yesterday celebrated his 85th birthday anniversary at a family dinner. Mr. King was born in England, reared in Ireland, served in the British army and came to Chicago in 1870.

In those days fireplaces were one of the principal means of heating, and an invention of his, the double draft fireplace, was widely used. The Palmer house was among the hotels that adopted it, he said, and Mrs. Potter Palmer was one of the first to install it in her home.

Mr. King recalled that Palmer house guests were asked if they wanted a room with or without a fire, and if they wanted it, a fire was laid at the cost of an extra dollar, he said.

" I read without glasses and feel very fit," Mr. King said. " I attribute that to the fact I've never had a drink, and never smoked. When I was 12 years old the women's society of an Episcopal church in Dublin gave me a medal when I took the pledge for abstinence. I lost the medal, wrote the church society recently, and the officers of it sent me another medal."

Four of Mr. King's ten children and two of his 33 grandchildren celebrated the occasion with him. The children are Mrs. Charles Erbstein, with whom he lives; Mrs. Robert Zorge, Mrs. Martin E. Hon, and Mrs. James Barton Bradwell. Charlene Margaret, 10, and Olivia Frances, 16, daughters of Mrs. Erbstein, are the grandchildren.

Identifies 2 Held Here as Indiana Holdup Men

Hugh Stevens, a barber of Knox, Ind., came to the detective bureau yesterday and identified two prisoners, Robert Rhinehard, 29 years old, 2833 West Madison street, and Ivan Godwin, 45, of 8259 Evans avenue, as members of the party of four who robbed him of $28 in his shop Saturday night. One of the robbers, arrested at Winnemac, Ind., confessed and named Rhinehard and Godwin, who are facing extradition for trial at Knox.

HELD FOR STABBING INQUEST.

Thomas Wallace, Negro, 25 years old, 450 East 46th street, was being held by the police last night for the inquest into the death of Ralph Alexander, 29 years old, 5938 Calumet avenue, who died on Saturday after accusing Wallace of stabbing him.

12 WOMEN ON ONE TICKET OUT TO BEAT 12 MEN

Altamont, Mo., March 30.—(AP)—Altamont has two new political parties, one called "Women" and the other "Men."

At the recent caucus a man nominated another's wife and that started a campaign of retaliation. Finally, the women's ticket had to be pared down to an even dozen to oppose the twelve male nominees for the five places on the village board of trustees.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dulin, both candidates, are in opposite camps.

Men folk have dominated public office at a monthly salary of fifty cents each as long as the oldest of the 349 inhabitants of the village can remember.

The election is to be held Tuesday. Urbandale, Mo., elected women trustees three years ago.

Jewish Societies Protest Alien Registration Bill

A resolution protesting the "un-American nature" of the alien registration bill pending before congress and favoring the passage of laws which would "humanize" immigration regulations, was adopted by more than 750 delegates from Jewish organizations in Chicago who met yesterday in the Masonic temple. The meeting was sponsored by the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid society.

CIVIC FEDERATION URGES DEFEAT OF TWO BOND ISSUES

Two of the five bond issue proposals which will be submitted to the voters on primary day, April 8, should be defeated, the civic federation declares in a bulletin issued yesterday. The bulletin urges the voters to reject the Ogden avenue bond issue amounting to $5,400,000, and the airport bonds, totaling $450,000.

The three street bond issues, totaling $18,970,000, which will be used to pay judgments in connection with improvements of Ashland avenue, Western avenue, and La Salle street, should be approved, the federation declares. The amounts submitted represent judgments actually confirmed by court order and are debts which ought to be paid, the bulletin says.

The completion of the Ogden avenue improvement should be delayed until more confidence can be placed in city officials, the bulletin goes on. It says the airport bonds should be rejected because it is proposed to use a large amount of the money for improvements of a nonpermanent character. Such items should be paid out of current corporate funds, according to the federation.

BRITISH REFUSE TO SIGN FRENCH WAR AID PACT

Turn Down Paris' Plea for Security Pledge.

which is that she is agreeable to anything which suits the rest, so long as she is granted parity with France.

M. Briand went motoring. Mr. Stimson remained at Stanmore all day and entertained Ambassador Dawes at lunch. Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, who remained in London, was reported to be very busy talking to members of the American and other delegations.

STIMSON NOW LEADER

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 30. — European delegates frankly declared that the American delegation saved the London naval conference from imminent collapse last week by its timely concession to a measure of American participation in European affairs.

There is widespread comment on the far reaching effect of the leadership in conference negotiations suddenly assumed by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson when all hope of the conclusion of a five power naval limitation treaty seemed dissipated.

Parley's Turning Point.

Mr. Stimson's promise in behalf of America of consultation when European war crises arise is regarded generally as the turning point of the conference, and by many as a turning point in world history if this step eventually leads to the complete abandonment of America's policy of "splendid isolation."

The conference atmosphere was surcharged with gossip about mysterious moves behind the scenes which culminated in Mr. Stimson's resurrection of the consultative pact, which he had officially pronounced dead less than a fortnight before.

The most generally accepted version of the episode is that the reversal of the American delegation's attitude was brought about by the ingenuity of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow in planning the tactics adopted by Mr. Stimson. The Morrow strategy held out to Great Britain and France the American acceptance of a consultative pact as a prize to be gained by settling their differences on security guarantees and naval tonnage demands. At the same time he brought the consultative pact back into the picture in a setting designed to divest it of a character of quid pro quo for a reduction of the French navy.

The Bond Issue Argument.

A variation of this version is a report that Premier Turdieu of France was influenced to send the Paris delegation back to London by advice from representatives of the J. P. Morgan banking house, in which Ambassador Morrow was formerly a partner, that the forthcoming flotations in America of German reparations bonds, of which France is to be the chief beneficiary, would be a adversely affected by the parley's failure as the fault of France.

Whatever may be the true version, it is evident that Mr. Stimson's promise of a consultative pact was responsible for the revival of an effort to produce a five power treaty.

It was stated any consultative pact must be limited, but to what degree is unclear. One explanation is that America is to consult in an European war crisis only when the interests of the European signatories to the treaty —Great Britain, France, and Italy—are involved. America would not be called on to consult in a row between nonsignatories.

Another version has it that America will consult only when America's interests in Europe might be at stake.

Youth Is Playing Lesser Role in Crime in Chicago

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 30.—[Special.]—Youth appears to be playing a diminishing rôle in the Chicago crime situation, according to a study of delinquency among boys over Juvenile court age just published and issued today by the children's bureau of the United States department of labor.

While there have been great increases in the numbers of arrests in Chicago during the eleven year period studied 1915 to 1925, the report showed a decrease in the ratio of cases in the Boys court of about 41 per cent. It concludes, therefore, that adult males commit the greater proportion of crime in Chicago and that the city is becoming a better place in which to rear children.

Age of Legal Majority.

The Chicago Boys court was selected by the bureau for the study because it was the first court in the country to concern itself exclusively with boys between Juvenile court age and the age of legal majority, namely, 17 to 21 years of age. The court is a branch of the Chicago Municipal court system. Its first year of operation was 1915.

"Less than 12 per cent of the total arrests for males in any year are arrests of boys 16 to 20 years old and only to 2 to 6 per cent of the total cases in the Municipal court are handled in the Boys court," the report stated.

An Analysis of Charges.

"While the total number of cases in the Municipal court greatly increased and the ratio of these cases to 10,000 population of the same age and sex almost trebled from 1920 to 1925, the cases of boys 17 to 20 decreased numerically from 7,500 in 1915 to 5,409 in 1925, a ratio decrease of about 41 per cent during the 11 year period."

The number of the boys' offenses against public health and safety dropped from 921 to 446 and violations of prohibition and gambling laws from 287 to 157, while crimes of violence and sex offenses increased slightly. Robberies and burglaries changed very little.

The cases of 909 boys were studied in detail, many involving personal interviews. The case histories, according to the report, "shows a comparatively small proportion of hardened criminals among groups dealt with by the Boys court," adding: "Complicating factors in the delinquencies of many were broken homes, poverty, lack of home guidance, school difficulties, shifting of jobs, bad companions, including gang affiliations, and mental dullness ranging down to definite mental defect and emotional instability."

Make Recommendations.

Under the heading of recommendations the report urged more individual study and scientific treatment, although not too much "sentimental leniency." Punishment in many cases, it points out, proved futile.

The report sugests that the jurisdiction of the Juvenile court, now limited to boys up to 16, be extended to boys of 17 and 18. It recommends the assignment of one or more full time judges to the Boys court for a period of years; adequate investigation service and increased psychiatric study facilities.

The directors of the Boys court study was Dorothy Williams Burke, who wrote the report under the supervision of Katherine F. Lenroot, assistant to the chief of the children's bureau. The bureau thanked Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court for his coöperation in the study.

More Good News About Konjola

Gained Health and Ten Pounds in Ten Weeks

Would you hear of a typical case of Konjola, the new and different medicine, at work? Then read the statement of Mr. John S. Erickson, salesman, 4925 Wrightwood avenue, Chicago, remembering that Konjola's records fairly overflow with such endorsements:

MR. JOHN S. ERICKSON
4925 Wrightwood Ave.

"Two years ago indigestion developed, and after meals my stomach filled with gas. The pain was so severe that at times I doubled up in agony. I lost weight, and though I tried many medicines in an effort to correct this trouble I found no relief until I found Konjola. My stomach is O K now, and I can eat whatever I like. I took ten bottles of Konjola in as many weeks, and in that time gained ten pounds."

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

BORAH FIGHTS HOOVER ON MOST ALL BIG ISSUES

Votes Against Tariff That Aids His Own State.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 30.—[Special.]—Although one of the most conspicuous of the 1928 Hoover campaign speakers, Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho] will have taken issue with the President on almost all major administration policies by the time the present session of congress comes to an end.

Chiefly influential in inducing Mr Hoover to convene congress in special session for the consideration of farm relief and the tariff, Senator Borah clashed with the President on the export debenture scheme during the consideration of both measures. He criticized the administration farm relief act, from which the export debenture provision was eliminated at Mr. Hoover's insistence. He voted for the tariff bill only because it contained export debenture and flexible tariff amendments to which Mr. Hoover strongly is opposed. When these amendments are stricken out or modified to suit the President Senator Borah likely will vote against the final bill which must necessarily form one of the principal planks in the Hoover platform for reelection.

Vote Against Debt Funding.

Senator Borah voted against the bill embodying the President's 160 million dollar tax cut recommendation and voted against the ratification of the French debt funding agreement as recommended by the President.

Supporting Mr. Hoover in 1928, partly because of the candidate's declaration for enforcement of prohibition, Senator Borah has taken the lead in denouncing enforcement conditions under the Hoover administration. It is known that he rejected an offer of appointment in the Hoover cabinet as attorney general, in which post he would have been in a position to reorganize and control prohibition enforcement.

In sympathy with the President's move for an armament limitation conference, Senator Borah is expected to wind up at odds with the final program. He is prepared to lead the fight against acceptance of the modified reservations to the world court protocol which will be submitted to the senate by the President with a favorable recommendation. He favors recognition of the soviet government, which Mr. Hoover opposes.

What Influences Borah?

Political or economic considerations which may have influenced Senator Borah in forming his opinions on various issues continue to mystify Washington. His colleagues in congress from his home state insist that his policies cannot be accounted for by sentiment among his constituents. Senator Borah voted against an increase in the duty on sugar, although Idaho is a beet sugar state and its citizens have been keenly interested in obtaining a higher duty.

The Mormon church was actively supporting an increase in the duty on sugar and its influence especially is great in southern Idaho. Senator Borah also voted against duties on lumber, which would have been beneficial to one of the leading industries in his state. He voted for a higher duty on wool, which is important to Idaho, but this vote will be nullified if he votes against the final conference report on the tariff bill.

In 1922 he voted against a higher duty on wool and also against the entire Fordney-McCumber tariff bill, although its high rate on wool aided the sheep raising industry in his section of the country. He opposed the equalization fee of the old McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, although the farm organizations of his state were for it.

Not Many Russians in Idaho.

Senator Borah casts his lot ordinarily with the radicals. While one of the early radical movements was launched among the miners in the Coeur d'Alene region in Idaho Senator Borah gained his early fame as prosecutor in the Haywood-Moyer case which resulted from the activities of that radical group. There are not enough Russians in Idaho, it is said, to explain his advocacy of recognition of the soviet government.

Seldom has Senator Borah mixed in local political issues in his home state. He attempted to do so once a few years ago, leading a fight for reenactment of a state primary law which had been repealed by Republican conservatives, who resented the efforts of radicals to wreck their party organization. He met defeat on that issue and conservatives have since dominated the Republican party of that state.

Senator Borah will be renominated in August in a Republican state convention controlled by conservatives. He will have no opposition, the conservative Republicans explaining their support on grounds of state pride in a national figure rather than because of complete agreement with the policies for which Senator Borah stands. One particular event of the last winter which has enhanced his popularity was his defense of the state when it was listed among the "backward states" assailed by Senator Joseph R. Grundy [Rep., Pa.].

Follows No Group Consistently.

Senator Borah has by no means voted consistently with the Norris-La Follette radicals in the senate nor does he follow completely any group for which he speaks. He broke with the radical group when he voted for a higher duty on wool. He went along with part of the group for a duty on hides in a combination that carried with it duties on leather and shoes. When he found that his vote had carried the amendment he switched and defeated it. Although he is known as a leading dry he scarcely is on speaking terms with the officers of the Anti-Saloon league, and although active for agriculture he similarly is indifferent to some of the farm organizations. Chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, he boasts that he never has been to Europe.

RESCUERS FEARFUL FOR SIXTEEN AFTER COAL MINE BLAST

Kettle Island, Ky., March 30.—(AP)—Although fearful that they fought for dead men, rescue squads worked ceaselessly today in their search through the dark reaches of the Pioneer Coal company mine here for sixteen miners entombed by an explosion yesterday.

Fifteen hours of arduous and dangerous effort had brought them to within a thousand feet of the spot where they believe the trapped men would be found. Hope that the sixteen, all but one of whom left families outside, would be discovered alive had lessened steadily as the rescuers penetrated deeper into the corridors of the mine and found with every foot of advance that the air became fouler and more dangerous.

FOES PLOT FALL OF BRUENING TO FORCE ELECTION

New Berlin Cabinet Faces Reichstag Tomorrow.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 30.—President Paul von Hindenburg approved the new cabinet suggested by Dr. Heinrich Bruening with only one slight change. Gottfried Treviranus becomes the minister of occupied territories. Herr Treviranus had kicked up a row in the wee hours this morning over being given a post without a portfolio. He became pacified when handed the position which had been assigned to Minister of the Interior Joseph Wirth as a supplementary portfolio.

The new cabinet will hold its first meeting tomorrow and will present its program to the reichstag on Tuesday.

Hopes for Overthrow.

Opposition to the new government has increased in the last 24 hours. Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, leader of the Nationalists, told a group of his henchmen today to give only lukewarm support to the new government, since, if Dr. Bruening is overthrown, the reichstag will be dissolved and a national election will be called.

In Dr. Hugenberg's opinion a national election would strengthen the position of the Nationalists and also their allies, the Fascists.

Wants Business in Government.

The first public expression of policy by a member of the new cabinet was made by Labor Minister Adam Stegerwald at a massmeeting at Duisburg today. The new labor minister pointed to the United States and England as an example and urged Germany to become more industrial and business minded in its politics. He said that both class warfare and other extreme industrial absolutism must be eliminated by legislation.

EX-FOLLIES GIRL DIES OF INJURIES IN 5 STORY LEAP

New York, March 30.—[Special.]—A sudden relapse, after she had appeared to be out of danger, brought death early today to Allyn King, once one of the most radiant of Ziegfeld Follies beauties, who leaped from a fifth story window of her aunt's home in Greenwich Village Saturday.

Several hours before her death she had laughed and chatted with relatives who visited her in the hospital. In her leap from the window, while in a fit of depression traced back several years to her strenuous efforts to reduce, Miss King fractured a leg, an arm, and her skull.

SICK AVIATOR DIES IN CRASH OF BABY PLANE

Flight Made to Please Crowd Is Fatal.

Hutchinson, Kas., March 30.—(AP)—C. R. Moore, pilot for the Baby Ace Airplane company at Wichita, Kas., was killed at Albright field near here this afternoon in a plane crash. His ship fell 2,500 feet in a tail spin.

Moore was said by field attendants to have complained of illness before the flight and was urged not to take the air.

He insisted on going up, however, in order not to disappoint a crowd which had gathered for the demonstration of the small one seat plane.

Mail Pilot Escapes Death.

Warren, O., March 30.—(AP)—Harry A. Sievers, air mail pilot on the Pittsburgh-Cleveland run, crashed near here today on his last trip with the mails. He escaped alive after a desperate struggle, as ice forming on the wings of his ship forced the craft earthward in a tight spiral.

Sievers jumped as the ship plunged down, but was knocked unconscious when he struck the ground. His only injury was a slight cut over one eye. The ship was wrecked but the mail bags were not lost.

Announced Resignation Saturday.

The pilot had announced his resignation as an air mail pilot on Saturday to becomes sales promotion manager for the aviation division of the Standard Oil company of Cleveland. Weather reports indicated "all clear" as he left Cleveland early this morning on his last trip, but after passing an emergency landing field at Parkman, O., he ran into a snowstorm.

He ducked and dodged, he said afterwards, attempting to get out of the storm. Then, at an altitude of 2,000 feet, the ship went out of control, and spun to earth.

Parachute Saves Aviatrix.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 30.—(AP)—Mildred Kauffman, Kansas City aviatrix and holder of the woman's world record of 46 inside loops, escaped with a few slight scratches and bruises after she was catapulted from her plane at a height of 3,200 feet today at the Buffalo airport. She was attempting to break her own record.

She landed safely with the aid of her parachute while the plane crashed to earth, its motor wide open. The accident was witnessed by several thousand persons.

Miss Kauffman said she was making the thirty-first loop when she was thrown from the cockpit as the ship went into a partial stall. Helplessly she dangled upside down from the plane with her feet caught in the safety strap. After several attempts to right the craft and climb back, the diminutive aviatrix kicked herself free and pulled the parachute cord.

STEAL BAKERY SAFE AND $1,100.

Burglars removed a safe containing $100 in cash and a $1,000 bond from the bakery of Adolph Strauss, 6306 South Morgan street, on Saturday night. An abandoned automobile containing papers belonging to Strauss led to discovery of the burglary. The car had been stolen.

GLIDER TOWED 400 MILES ON FIRST DAY OUT

Tucson, Ariz., March 30.—[Special.]—Capt. Frank Hawks, who left San Diego, Cal., this morning in a glider towed by an airplane on a projected transcontinental trip, landed here tonight.

The flyer, who had made stops at Yuma and Phoenix, cut loose from his plane at 7:45 and glided down safely in the dark. He made 400 miles today.

Sets Glider Boat Mark.

Port Washington, L. I., March 30.—[Special.]—Carrying 400 pounds in addition to his own weight, George M. Pyncheon Jr. held the Peel all metal glider boat aloft for three minutes here this afternoon and established what is believed to be a record for American gliding.

Pick Spring Flowers on Slopes in Galesburg Area

Galesburg, Ill., March 30.—[Special.]—Persons hiking to the woods near here today to enjoy the balmy weather brought back bouquets of spring flowers.

INQUIRY STARTED ON JURY PAY IN SUPERIOR COURT

Assistant State's Attorney John Leonard Murphy, who is conducting an investigation into charges that the county has been defrauded of from $150,000 to $200,000 through the issuance of fraudulent juror vouchers, conferred yesterday with M. S. Szymczak, clerk of the Superior court. So far according to Prosecutor Murphy, evidence of graft has been found only in the Criminal court, but he says the methods of paying Superior court jurors would permit similar irregularities.

"When Mr. Szymczak took office," said Murphy, "he endeavored to adopt the system of the Circuit court and pay the jurors by mail, he told me, but a rule of the judges prevented. Mr. Szymczak is cooperating in a thorough investigation of the jury payment records.

"J. L. Jacobs, county efficiency engineer, informed me that an examination of the Superior court vouchers and records will disclose numerous signatures all in the same handwriting."

LEGGE HERE TO SWAP SEED FOR SURPLUS WHEAT

Hopes Thereby to Cut Down Production.

Washington, D. C., March 30.—[Special.]—A systematic two weeks campaign for wheat acreage reduction in the northwest is expected to be started tomorrow at Chicago at a conference between Chairman Alexander Legge of the federal farm board and Dr. John L. Coulter, chief economist of the tariff commission.

The two government officials will meet to discuss plans for a tour by Dr. Coulter through the wheat belt to sell farmers on a proposal to exchange part of their seed wheat to the farm board for flax, barley, and other seeds for planting this year. Mr. Legge has been in Chicago for several days and Dr. Coulter left Washington for that city yesterday. He explained the purpose of his tour before leaving.

Suggested by Economist.

The tariff commission economist some time ago outlined to the farm board the seed trade suggestion as a practical way to get immediate action on a wheat acreage cut program. He suggested that a reduction of two million acres in Minnesota and the Dakotas would approach the 10 per cent cut urged by the farm board.

If the board would help the farmers get seed to plant one million of these acres to flax and the other million to barley, rye, and oats with alfalfa and sweet clover, he said, the reduction would be accomplished with profit to the farmer and benefit to the soil.

So forcibly did Dr. Coulter's idea appeal to the farm board that Mr. Legge asked the author to loan his services for a two weeks' trip to help put it into effect. He accepted and after meeting Mr. Legge in Chicago tomorrow will proceed to Minneapolis tomorrow night.

Speed Work on Farm Schools.

Dr. Coulter plans to confer as rapidly as possible with state farm school men and agricultural workers in the three states mentioned. He expects to arrange a conference with Dean Coffee of the Minnesota Agricultural college Tuesday and later with Dean Shepherd of the North Dakota Agricultural college. He also will endeavor to enlist the support and quick help of farm papers and organizations, partifularly the big cooperatives, using the radio to carry the program to the farmers themselves.

Prior to his appointment on the tariff commission Dr. Coulter was head of the North Dakota Agricultural college and is familiar with wheat conditions in the northwest.

Just how far the farm board will go financially toward buying and exchanging seeds with the farmers, at a possible loss to itself apparently has not been determined but indications at the Washington offices are that it stands ready to contribute a sizeable sum.

Clews to Seed Store Theft Expected to Bear Fruit

The burglary of the Evanston Seed and Bulb company store at 820 Church street was discovered yesterday by Andrian C. Vanderwiel, 1410 Lake street, Evanston, the proprietor. He said the burglars took nothing but seeds, and the police are waiting for some amateur gardener's plot to bloom forth in just the righ proportion of radishes, pansies, watermelons, gardenias, lettuce, and sunflowers, before they make an arrest.

PERU SEES PERIL TO U. S. AMITY IN CONCESSION ROW

Flays Yankee's Suit as Racket.

BY C. N. GRIFFIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, March 30.—Peruvian papers cite as an outstanding example of irresponsible concession hunting in Latin America, which now and then threatens to endanger the relations between the United States and its southern neighbors, the controversy over the Yurimaguas railway concession, which is now nearing liquidation.

The Yurimaguas concession involved the construction of a 560 mile railway from the Amazon basin to Payta on the coast of Peru, and carried with it extensive land, mining and petroleum grants.

Cancel Yank's Concession.

Several years ago Bertram T. Lee of Michigan obtained the concession to build the Yurimaguas railway. In July of last year the Peruvian government canceled the concession on the grounds that the concessionaire had failed to comply with the terms of his contract.

Mr. Lee, engaging former Ambassador Miles Poindexter as his legal counsel, filed a protest through the United States department of state. As a gesture of friendly consideration to the United States, the Peruvian government in December agreed to arbitrate the controversy.

Peru declared, however, that the arbitration must be held here under the Peruvian laws. Mr. Lee, Mr. Poindexter and their associates have endeavored to secure arbitration in a neutral country under an American or foreign presiding officer. It is reported that the United States department of state supports the Peruvian attitude on the affair.

Ask $600,000 to Settle.

Recently offers have emanated from the American plaintiff expressing willingness to settle the matter for $600,000. In vitriolic Spanish the whole incident has been branded on the floor of the Peruvian congress as a gross example of international racketeering.

Mr. Poindexter's participation in the affair was criticized by congressmen on the grounds that, by becoming involved as special counsel in the case against Peru, he has compromised the confidence reposed in him during his ambassadorship, when he achieved wide popularity throughout the republic.

The arbitration commission is to convene at the ministry of public works at Lima on April 30.

Mr. Lee is a brother of R. N. Lee of Kenosha, Wis. The large acquisition of priceless Peruvian historical manuscripts of the Harkness Memorial library is stated to have reached that institution through Mr. Lee.

According to legal documents and declarations filed or made public here within the last few weeks, 60 per cent of the control of the Yurimaguas concession rests with two groups of local capitalists who have supplied Mr. Lee with cash and other facilities in recent years.

Think over these facts. Elmore's administration of the Sanitary District in 1929 saved the taxpayers over $12,000,000. This means that every home-owner in the district was saved more than $35 in taxes by the economical administration of the affairs of the district. AUSTRALIA TOLD 'DO OR DIE' SPIRIT IS BUSINESS HOPE

Greatest Economic Crisis Grips Commonwealth.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CANBERRA, Australia, March 30.—Australia is faced with the most critical situation in its history, according to Prime Minister James H. Scullin, head of the Labor government. In a lengthy talk the premier made no effort to mince matters or to gloss over any factors. The same argument he uses with reference to the commonwealth applies also to the states. Severe retrenchment on every hand will be necessary, he declares, and the labor question must await the more serious issue of finding the way to make ends meet.

Before the session of parliament opened the premier and others of the government, along with several premiers of the states, met and agreed that Australia is head over heels in debt, and her credit at low ebb in both New York and London. There is only one remedy, according to the prime minister, and that is that the people must produce more and export more, and at the same time borrow less and buy less abroad.

$300,000,000 Loan Is Due.

"The enormous sum of $300,000,000 in loans is falling due this year," said the prime minister, "and it must be paid or renewed. And can it be renewed on any better terms than Australia now pays? This money was borrowed in war time, when patriotic appeals had been made to the people, but the high rate of six per cent had been paid on these loans, and now they will have to be converted at the same high rate.

"Even if we could bring the war debt down to nothing, and Australia's debt was merely what it was before the war, the nation's indebtedness would remain just where it was at the outbreak of hostilities. Even if we lower the interest rate the same as it was before the war, we could talk of making the workingman's condition the same as it was prior to the war. There remains only the old, old story that the masses must make the sacrifice.

"Australia must realize she must export in the next few years as much produce as she can. This means Australia must do with fewer luxuries and with less of foreign made goods. Imports will have to be decreased to balance trade. To balance trade, Australia must export more than $150,000,000 beyond the present figure."

"Pay Interest with Exports."

The prime minister also explained to the state premiers who participated in the Canberra conference, that public and private policy must conform to this program in default of further unemployment and financial difficulty. Of $142,000,000 paid in interest on commonwealth loans, about $55,000,000 is payable annually in London. Of about $170,000,000 payable in interest on the total state debts, the amount payable beyond the commonwealth exceeds $95,000,000. These interest bills must be met by Australian exports, the prime minister maintains.

The results of overborrowing have been aggravated by a falling off in production and also by a sharp drop in prices. Australia's exports of wool for the last half of 1929 declined $56,250,000. A bad season also decreased the shipments of wheat. While imports for the six months ending Dec. 31 totaled $373,475,000 [excluding specie to the amount of $48,410,000], yet exports for the same period totaled but $245,015,000.

"Australia is suffering from the effects of overborrowing and world-wide depression," the prime minister told the premiers. "Australia's difficulties are added to by a poor agricultural season, a smaller wool clip and reduced prices for it in an unresponsive loan market, and at least one serious industrial dispute, the coal miners' strike in New South Wales, which has lasted a year.

Immigration Is Halted.

"The necessity for strictest economies in expenditures, both public and private, are essential. Thirteen per cent of labor is unemployed, and restriction of migration from Great Britain has become necessary. We cannot pay the fares of immigrants while we have an army of unemployed.

"Products suitable for export are necessarily those of the primary industries, the chief being wool, wheat, meat, butter, cheese, ores and metals, dried and canned fruits, skins and hides."

LOOP STORE IS HELD UP.

Two armed bandits entered the fruit store of Louis Kerriges at 31 East Van Buren street yesterday and robbed him of $110.

CRIME GETS SHORT SHRIFT IN CHINA, POLICE HEAD SAYS

The ways of the Chinese are no more inscrutable to Americans than are the ways of the Americans to one who lives in China, according to W. Ewart Fairbairn, an Englishman who has spent the last 22 years in China. Mr. Fairbairn is superintendent of the municipal police reserve unit of the international settlement in Shanghai.

"We in China can't understand why Chicago police have so much trouble with gangsters," said Fairbairn, who stopped off here yesterday on his way to New York, from which he will sail for a visit in England. "We don't allow our criminal element to organize in Shanghai."

Punishment for criminals in China is much more severe than in America, Mr. Fairbairn said.

U. S. INCOME TAXES AFFECT ONLY FEW, BUT GET THE MONEY

New York, March 30.—(AP)—Income taxation, although affecting only about two persons out of every hundred, was listed as the source of 63.8 per cent of the total federal revenue for the fiscal year 1926-'27 in a study made public today by the national industrial conference board.

Great Britain derived 46.5 per cent of its national revenues from income taxes in the same period; Germany, 35.2 per cent; Italy, 24.7, and France, 20.7 per cent. More than 50 nations and a score of states in the Union now levy taxes on either individual or business incomes or both, the survey revealed.

A review of the income taxes collected from 1922 to 1928 by thirteen American states which had such taxes in effect during that period showed an increase from $97,000,000 in the former year to 183 million dollars in the latter.

CHINESE BANDITS SEIZE 2 WOMEN, 1 MAN AT MISSION

SHANGHAI, March 30.—(AP)—It was reported today that Kiangsi province bandits had captured three more foreign missionaries, two women and a man, at Yuanchow, western Kiangsi. Those captured were the Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Porteus of England, who have been in China for almost a quarter of a century, and Miss N. E. Gemmell, an American. Miss Gemmell has been in China since 1919. Three others, two women and a man, escaped by fleeing into the mountains. Those who escaped were two British missionaries and one American, the Rev. R. H. Glazier. Their immediate whereabouts are unknown. The whereabouts of the captured trio are also a mystery.

Yuanchow is approximately 150 miles northwest of Kanchow, Kiangsi, where 16 American Catholic missionaries are believed to be still held. Inability to communicate with Kanchow or other towns of the northern part of the province because of bandit interference with telegraphic facilities has made it impossible to determine their safety.

The bandits are considered to be the same ones who on Feb. 3 carried off and presumably murdered three Finnish missionaries.

THE GANG VOTE IN THE SENATORIAL CAMPAIGN.

Senator Charles S. Deneen and Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, congressman at large for Illinois, the two leading candidates for the Republican nomination for the United States senate, will each receive support from political factions in Chicago and downstate. The Republican party in Cook county is disorganized rather than organized. It is a thing of shifty and shifting alliances. Combinations are made for one purpose and broken for another, and none of these purposes is for the public good.

A candidate needing the votes of these factions for success may say that the situation exists and that it is necessary to take it as it is. It is apparent, so far as information is available, that Senator Deneen will be supported by the elements controlled by Fred Lundin and Len Small, and that Mrs. McCormick will be helped by Mayor Thompson and the politicians associated with him.

A moral distinction between these factions and their leaders would be hard to draw. They represent all that has gone to make the reputation of Illinois and Chicago government notorious. Their public acts have been shameful and they have been shameless. Two years ago the voters of the state and of the city were aroused to action, and in a rage disposed of as many of the gangsters as they could reach then with their votes. The opportunity did not permit a complete house cleaning, but Small was discharged in dishonor by the ballot, and in county and state there was a measurable reform.

It could not at that time penetrate the city hall, there being no election affecting the tenure of the men who were polluting city government there. The elections, nevertheless, had an admonitory effect. Thompson felt the insecurity of his position and ceased to be brazen in the face of public opinion so unmistakably expressed.

It is the experience of gang politicians that reform is spasmodic rather than enduring. They believe it can be outwaited and outsmarted. Gang politics has an enduring purpose. Citizens have closer interests than the needs of government. The gangs wait and, unfortunately, their patience is often rewarded by exactly what they want.

The gangsters are waiting now, Small and his companions out of office, Thompson and his comrades in office. In supporting candidates for the United States senate they will act in this election to advance their purposes in other elections. Small and Lundin will try to return to office through alliance with Deneen, who has accepted these conditions. He did not take any part in the overthrow of Small. It was accomplished in spite of him. He did alienate Thompson, with whom otherwise he might have played politics, to get control of the state's attorney's office. To do that he had to defeat Crowe, Thompson's ally.

This maneuvering for control made Thompson his enemy, although the city hall is always more comfortable when it is on friendly and not unfriendly terms with the state's attorney's office. Mrs. McCormick, it may be expected, will receive the benefit of this enmity between the senator and the mayor. In practical politics she could invite it, but she has not made a bargain for this support, although she may take it without protest against its political morals. There is reason to believe that Senator Deneen has an alliance for the support he will receive from Small.

The situation is not a pleasing one. Mrs. McCormick can say that it has existed for years, and that if she has to deal with it as a candidate she at least had no part in creating it. That is true, and it cannot be said with equal truth of Senator Deneen. The situation is in part of his creating. When he was first a candidate for governor he had a leading part in overthrowing something similar to the influences to which in later years he has submitted. He has changed. The conditions are worse than they were.

The senator says that the Republican group which he heads in Cook politics has been considerate of public interests. There is little evidence of that. Mr. Deneen has not opposed gang rule in city or state, but has made use of it for his political advantage.

The conditions of Republican party management are such that they are prejudicial to any candidacy associated with any faction of the management. Such association contains a threat against government. The situation exists and it cannot be ignored. It is unfortunate, but it will continue until there has been a sharp and uncompromising line drawn between what is regarded as decent and what is known to be disreputable in political action.

A PROGRESSIVE ROAD POLICY.

The state road administration, under Gov. Emmerson, has determinded to go ahead with the road widenings in the metropolitan area without requiring the acquisition of rights of way 100 feet wide as a preliminary. Chicago motorists will appreciate this cutting of red tape. They have paid in license fees and gasoline taxes for adequate roads and at last there appears to be an administration in Springfield which realizes that it owes an obligation to build the roads needed by those who have paid for them.

Gov. Emmerson takes the position that he is not the governor of downstate alone nor of Chicago alone. He is the governor of Illinois. As such he is alive to the fact that while Cook county has contributed half the road funds it has received only one-twenty-fifth of the roads. He proposes now to put an end to the discriminatiqn. In consequence, the number of automobiles and the gasoline consumption in the northeastern corner of the state will increase and there will be a corresponding increase in the funds available for necessary road building in other sections of Illinois.

The principle of acquiring rights of way 100 feet wide for main highways has not been waived. We regard it as certain that the 40 foot pavements now to be laid will in time prove inadequate. The immediate need for construction is great enough, however, to justify postponing temporarily the acquisition of the additional land. The rule that construction follows the acquisition of the standard right of way is easily enforced in rural districts, but it is much more difficult to apply in congested urban districts in which land is held in smaller parcels. Many months, if not years, might be required to obtain title and meanwhile the motorists of Cook county would be deprived of the use of the state's highways.

CONSULTATIVE AND OBLIGATIVE.

Reports from day to day as to the disposition of our delegation at London toward the much discussed consultative pact suggest the pleasant pastime of sentimental youth with the daisy. The pact, they love it, they love it not, they love it, they love it not. The latest reports inform us that a committee of the American delegation has completed a definite plan for American participation in a consultative pact among the naval powers. We have heard from Washington that never, never will our present government consent to any agreement which will obligate us to any action of a bellicose nature, but that it has kept its mind open to the possibilities of an arrangement which will imply no responsibilities for us but will satisfy the fears or susceptibilities of the other conferring powers. It remains to be seen whether this state of mind resembles that of Byron's fair lady who, vowing she'd ne'er consent, consented.

There is plenty of recent experience to support the assertion that "a consultative pact is a security pact in disguise." The very individuals who are all for pacts, conferences, consultations, while assuring us they do not bind us to action, are the ones who would be loudest in demanding the fulfillment of moral obligations alleged to have sprung from agreement. The whole theory of the consultative pact which is being fed to their readers and followers by the press and organizations we have referred to is childish. We are expected to assume that the conference may fail—that is, adjourn—unless the United States enters into an agreement which imposes no responsibilities upon us except to do what we should do without it. We are asked to believe that the French, British, Italians, Japanese are waiting for us to agree to consult and to exchange information. But all nations have a continuous means of consultation in their departments of state and their expensive machinery. What is this machinery for if not for consultation? What obstructions are there to consultation, the exchange of information, and even agreement for common action? To believe that Great Britain or France or Italy or Japan will reduce their naval establishment or their claims because of such a diplomatic figment is to overpass, we should think, even a pacifist's gullibility.

The powers at London will not trade a single ship for such a "pious fraud." If a formula is found for absolving us from obligation, there will be no quid pro quo for any course of action at the conference which cannot or will not be followed without it. But there is no formula which can divorce from implied obligation any agreement to consult which actually or ostensibly has induced any of the conferees to agree to terms they would not otherwise have agreed to. What would happen would be something like this: England, for example, will say: "You were able to reduce your naval expenditures and fix a limitation upon naval building because we agreed to help France, which reduced her claims because we promised to help her. Thus you are obligated to us because we obligated ourselves to France to obtain terms demanded by you." There is no entanglement we ought more carefully to avoid or more firmly to refuse than what is called a "moral obligation."

Editorial of the Day

THEY SHOULD SEE CATTARAUGUS.

[Decatur, Ill., Herald.]

Motor tourists usually avoid the Cattaraugus Indian reservation lying in the west end of New York state. Those that have seen it have reason to wonder not that one of the Indian girls should have inspired the murder of a Buffalo artist's wife, as Liela Jimerson is supposed to have done, but that the whole tribe did not go on the warpath and massacre all the whites in the vicinity.

Lying between the beautifully watered rolling hill country of southwestern New York and the Jamestown region with its lake lies this most desolate stretch of sand and scrub timber where the kindly Uncle Sam chooses to keep some of his redskin wards. It is a veritable land that God forgot.

The civilized Indian is likely to take the white man's vices and reject his virtues. Dirt and ignorance are the outstanding characteristics of the natives. These reservation Indians have tried to farm and the results are pathetic. They live in desolate shacks set down in the midst of weedy fields. Broken machinery and dilapidated automobiles stand in the yards. Everywhere are squalor and ugliness.

Some people picture Indian reservations as forests and streams and meadows reserved in their pristine beauty and tenanted by happy children of nature whose simple wants are supplied about equally by heaven and the Indian agents. They should see Cattaraugus.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

IT'S GOING TO BE A POSITIVE JOY

this week to talk to a government man and have the warm, happy feeling that it will end in neither being nicked for a lot of jack nor going to jail under the Volstead act. Yessir, we're governed so much and so often, and so painfully that when the government comes after us and does us no harm then the reaction sets in and we cackle with happiness. This week they take the census. And it won't cost us a cent. And we won't go to jail. And we answer questions all over the place and talk our fool heads off and nobody is going to snap us up about it.

We can tell our real age, if we're a lady, and that catty Mrs. Chatter-Chatter across the street is not going to know. We can tell how much we really get on our job and the census taker won't give us the hoot and lean back and say, "Why, you big false alarm, you've been braggin' around you got four times that much." And we can say we bought that pearl in London and it ought to be worth a couple o' thousand bucks and the census taker won't say, "Well, you'll have to pay double duty on it and be fined good and plenty for not declaring it."

No, sir, the census taker comes like a friend and a brother. He isn't like a custom house officer or an income tax collector or a prohibition enforcement sleuth or any of the John Laws you usually meet. He'll be a good deal like Aunt Laura when she comes to visit—sort of nosey and asking a lot of questions and snooping all over the shop and prying into everything and putting it all down, but you know perfectly well that he'll keep everything under his hat and that beneath his rough coat there beats a heart of gold.

Welcome, thrice welcome, little census taker. And if we're not home you'll find the key on the window sill just to the left of the kitchen door. And there's a big piece of cake and half a pumpkin pie and some doughnuts on the table and in the ice box—go right ahead, help yourself to anything you see in the ice box; we look upon you as the Uncle Sam of our childhood dreams, the one we love and trust and not the one who is too often made to take on the guise of the mean old wolf that ate up Little Red Riding Hood.

THE STATE APIARIST of North Carolina says the family life of the bee is being broken up by bootleg whisky. The busy little bee finds the moonshine stills where the mash has been thrown out, acquires a quick jag, and goes home, beats up the queen bee, and kicks the honey out of the hive. Quick, reformers, another amendment to the constitution forbidding the bees to drink of moonshine mash. Make the bee beehave.

AND WE GLEAN from Ash Stevens' column that he is hounding Chas. Collins to buy a certain breed of automobile. And we went in and sat on Chas.'s typewriter and said, "Why is Ash so keen about getting you to buy that breed of auto?" And Chas. said, "Oh, because that's the kind he owns." "What," said we, breathlessly, "he owns it and drives it himself?" "Yea," quoth Chas. "Drives it right along on the Boul Mich?" gasped we. "Verily," said Chas. That settles it. We don't want a car any more. Back, auto dealers! back to your shops; there'll be no auto bought by us this day! With Ash Stevens in his nerve racking British tweeds and pearl gray spring hat and gorgeous spats driving down the avenue, we should become so dazzled we'd drive our new car right kerplunk into a lamp post. Of course, we might wear goggles—but Safety First—we won't take a chance.

PREMIER BENITO MUSSOLINI received our Samuel Insull in audience Saturday. All that Mussolini said and all that Sam said was not recorded in the dispatches, but we'll bet you a cookie that after the Duce got through telling all about the royal family and the Black Shirts and the trouble he was having with taxes, France, unemployment, and so on, Sam leaned over and tapped him on the knee and said, "Believe me, Mussolini, you can do it better with gas."

LAGNIAPPE.

THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE bestows its indorsement on one of the congressmen whose trunk leaked when coming through the custom house. The Anti-Saloon league is a never ending delight to us. And the drys will probably retort that it is the man who is running for congress and not the trunk. Ah, when life seems naught but toil and pain one has only to read of some performance of the Anti-Saloon league and burst out into peals of merry laughter.

"CAR SICKNESS," says Doc Lebensohn of Northwestern, "does not come from the eye but the ear." The doc is right. Nothing that we see on the train gives us a pain in the neck; no! It's hearing a raucous voice say, "You play bridge? We're looking for a fourth hand!" Then we get train sick right away.

MY GOODNESS! How the Republican senatorial candidates are hurling hardware, bricks, and stones at each other's heads! And the louder the din of battle rolls the sweeter the smile upon the face of James Hamilton Lewis, the Democratic candidate for senator. We saw James Saturday sailing majestically down North State street, and the cat that has just dined off the canary had no such smile as wreathed the face of James. Every whisker glowed like an incandescent bulb and his face was radiant with Hope, Peace, and Sweet Content. However—us Democrats are often like that before election.

THIS, THEN, is the last day of March! Crash the timbrels! Beat the drum! Sound the bugles! And likewise fire the culverin! March is going. Sing hey! sing ho! sing tra la la la! It may be one of the calendar months, but it's been only a pain in the neck to us. Hey, March, gittel outten here! And we don't care if you never come back.

KIDNEY STONE.

A PERSON who has had one attack of kidney or ureter stone should regulate his life in a way that will prevent repetition, which otherwise may be expected. To do this, whenever possible, he should secure a stone which has caused trouble and have it analyzed. Chemically, these stones fall into three groups, those composed of uric acid and urates; those composed of phosphates, carbonates, and other alkalis, and those composed of oxalates. The diet to be given and the other directions to be followed depend on the predominating crystals in the stone. If a stone passed on one occasion is composed of oxalic crystals, stones subsequently formed will have the same composition, and to prevent them the habits must be regulated on an anti-oxaluria basis.

To prevent oxaluria and the formation of oxalate stones requires several modifications of diet. First, foods rich in oxalates should be eliminated from the diet. Foremost among these is rhubarb or pie plant. This vegetable should not be eaten as a sauce or pie, or in any other way. Among the vegetables rich in oxalates are sorrel, asparagus, and spinach. All of these foods should be dropped. Tea, cocoa, and chocolate also run high in this salt and should be eliminated. The best beverages are the various forms of milk and waters, preferably the mildly alkaline mineral waters. If coffee be taken it should be in limited quantities. Since the fruit acids, such as those of pineapples, lemons, oranges, apples, plums, prunes, apricots, peaches, and cranberries sometimes fail to oxidize well, it is wise to eliminate such fruits and their products. If fruits be eaten at all they should be thoroughly ripened, preferably on the tree. It is generally held that the colloids which serve as a glue to hold the crystals together as a stone are even more important in stone formation than the crystals themselves. Partly to control formation of this colloid material the diet should not contain much of starchy or sweet foods. This includes breads, pastries, cereals, desserts, sweets. Intestinal fermentations are to be avoided.

One of the worst offenders is pepper and the group of alcoholic beverages is another. The food should be free from pepper, mustard, horse radish, and other condiments. No alcohol should be consumed.

Speaking now on the positive side, the diet should consist largely of meats of various kinds [fat and lean], eggs, milk in all forms, a moderate amount of bread, fats and greases, potatoes, cabbage, greens, lettuce, peas, and most vegetables, and ripe, sweet fruits sparingly. Most authorities recommend drinking plenty of mild alkaline water. Some permit carbonated alkaline waters. Others do not.

RECORDS BOWEL MOVEMENTS.

A. K. writes: A record of bowel movements is kept on charts in hospitals. Why not a record at home? The initials of the family members could be marked on the family calendar daily. Parents in this way can watch children and keep check on themselves.

What do you think of the idea? I am trying it out by having calendar next to toilet paper and if bowel movement takes place away from home it is recorded on reaching home.

REPLY.

The idea is all right. Most people are not accustomed to keeping records of any kind.

OLD SULPHUR AND MOLASSES.

M. M. writes: Please advise if that old spring tonic, sulphur and molasses, is harmful to an adult. If not, what is the correct dose and how often?

REPLY.

It is not except for the diabetic, the obese and those who are troubled by sweets. The combination acts as a mild laxative. Molasses has that action. So does sulphur, though it may have some added action. Ordinarily, a tablespoonful before breakfast is the dose. There is no danger of overdosing. For all its reputation, sulphur and molasses as a spring tonic is not equal to home made sassafras tea.

NERVES MAY BE CAUSE.

E. S. N. writes: I just read a question regarding a condition of small blisters between the fingers, itching and later discharging a watery fluid, for which I think I can suggest a remedy. I have had it myself and was told it was a skin trouble of nervous origin. Application of zinc oxide ointment is most beneficial to it.

REPLY.

The state of the nerves is an important factor in many of these cases. In such, zinc oxide ointment is a good local application.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 31, 1865.

NEW YORK.—Information has been received that Gen. Sheridan started on a new expedition on March 27 and is now well on his way toward giving the finishing stroke to the remaining rebel communications with Richmond.

NEW YORK.—The Herald's Army of the Potomac special says: "Sherman on Monday evening reported personally to Gen. Grant at City Point. Later both had an interview with President Lincoln and Sherman gave the President a graphic account of his operations from Atlanta to Savannah and then to Goldsboro, N. C. In the evening a council of war was held, Gens. Grant, Sherman, Meade, Ord and Sheridan being present. On the next morning Sherman returned to Goldsboro in a special dispatch boat."

NEW YORK.—The Richmond Whig of the 25th has an account of a meeting at Wytheville for the purpose of securing contributions of food for Lee's beleaguered army in Richmond. The contributions amounted to about one day's short rations for the army.

NEW YORK.—The Commercial's special says: "In official circles the immediate downfall of the rebellion is considered certain. Most recent advices at the war department give assurance that neither Lee nor Johnston can either retreat or offer battle without the certain destruction of their armies." Secretary Seward left for City Point, where he was preceded by Millard Fillmore, at the suggestion of Jeff Davis, it is understood, and it is believed peace negotiations are going on aboard the River Queen.

CHICAGO.—The following independent ticket was put up for officers of the board of trade: President, W. D. Houghteling; vice presidents, J. C. Dore and C. H. S. Mixer; directors, S. S. Williamson, W. H. Low, E. V. Robbins, J. W. Pptile, and James M. Odell.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 31, 1900.

LONDON.—Boer aggressiveness north of the Modder river roused Lord Roberts to strike sooner than had been anticipated in London. Gen. French was sent ahead with Gen. Tucker and the Seventh division. They met the Boers at Karee Siding, on the Bloemfontein-Pretoria railroad, about 20 miles north of Pretoria, and succeeded in driving the Boers to the kopjes. The British loss is given as 110.

CHICAGO.—Fire starting on the roof of the Columbia theater destroyed the building within thirty minutes. The rapidity with which the flames spread caused many narrow escapes for chorus girls and members of the Iroquois club, which occupied rooms in the building. The Columbia Theater Amusement company, owner of the structure, announced it would rebuild at once. The loss was $150,000.

CHICAGO.—John C. Ambler, secretary of the Citizens' association of Chicago from its organization in 1874, died at his home, 487 Fullerton avenue, after having spent nearly thirty years of his life in advancing the city's interests in all directions. He was 73 years old, and had been in ill health for several years. Pneumonia was the immediate cause of death.

CHICAGO.—At a conference in the rooms of the Civic federation between members of the Citizens' Commission of 100, which has in charge the movement to consolidate the various taxing bodies in the city and the county, plans were discussed for merging the three park boards into one system.

LONDON.—Archibald Forbes, famous war correspondent, died from complications resulting from rheumatism and paralysis at the age of 62. He was at the front during the war between France and Prussia and saw service in some war field during the greater part of the time since then.

LOS ANGELES. — Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks are married, and the cinematographic studios of Los Angeles are buzzing with "I told you so!" The ceremony was performed on Sunday night, March 28, by the Rev. J. Whitcomb Brugher at his home. On the license the bride's name appears as Gladys Mary Smith Moore and her age as 26; the bridegroom gave his name as Douglas Elton Fairbanks and his age as 36. Ever since she obtained a divorce from Owen Moore the first of the month the film colony has been predicting the wedding.

CHICAGO. — Municipal business stopped stock-still while the city council wrangled in vain over the pay increase problem. City firemen announced they will meet this afternoon to consider wholesale resignations to enforce their demands for more money. Meanwhile the strike of the stenographers, clerks, and bookkeepers of the municipal offices turned "Red" or nearly so. Pickets hurried through the offices plucking out the few workers who had not joined the strike for more pay. George Koop, a Socialist orator, harangued the strikers outside the city hall.

CHICAGO.—Herbert Hoover's hat is in the Republican ring for President. He announced formally that he would accept the nomination "if he felt the issues necessitate it and it is demanded of me." He had previously shied at talk of a Democratic offer, so it is made clear that he has chosen the Republican end of it. His headquarters are being established in the presidential row in the Congress hotel.

REDUCING ACREAGE.

Lafayette, Ind., March 27.—As the owner of 540 acres of tillable land, I would like to ask some one who knows why it has been necessary to appropriate millions and more millions of dollars to tell the farmer to reduce production of wheat. I have been planting one-fourth of my ground in clover for years, but I happen to have another business from which I am able to pay my taxes. How does the farm board expect the farmer to let his land lie idle and yet pay taxes upon it? Even non-bearing fruit trees are taxed.

The weather is one very important element in crop production, and supply and demand make prices, but taxes are the most unjust and unequal hardship that the farmer has to bear. When cooperatives begin to talk sales tax and state income tax, then we will be willing to join them. So far, ex-Gov. Lowden of Illinois has been almost alone in having the courage and foresight to mention this real relief for the farmer and he has had very little support over the radio or in print. The Indiana legislature lost its sales tax bill.

FARMER JONES.

FOR MR. FOSS.

Chicago, March 19.—In reading THE TRIBUNE yesterday morning, I noticed that there were some dozen or more candidates who are running for congressman at large who have filed from Cook county. Most of them, of course, are comparatively little known here and less known throughout the state, and yet, on account of the large number, voters will be more or less bewildered unless the press takes up the matter and points out the qualifications of each one so that the people may decide who is the best man to vote for.

In looking over the list, I find that George Edmund Foss is the only one who has had any previous legislative experience and service in congress. He was chairman of the naval committee for a great many years, and did a great deal toward building up our navy and establishing our Great Lakes Naval station. It strikes me that if Chicago is entitled to one of these places, and the Republicans of the state have always accorded her one, that she could not have a better representative and one who understands the duties of the office and could accomplish more for her than Mr. Foss. He certainly has a fine record, and there are no spots on it.

WILLIAM B. AUSTIN.

AGAINST MRS. McCORMICK.

Chicago, March 28. — I see by the papers that Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick is violently opposed to the world court.

And yet this same Ruth Hanna McCormick was elected to congress on a platform calling for a world court. She went up and down the state advocating the adoption of that platform and the election of the candidates thereon, including herself.

If Mrs. McCormick was so dead against the world court, why did she not oppose it then? If I am not mistaken Mrs. McCormick was a delegate to the last two national Republican conventions, both of which indorsed the world court. Why was Mrs. McCormick silent on the world court then and ardently against it now?

It seems to me that Mrs. McCormick is an opportunist. She favors the world court when it is advantageous to do so and she opposes the world court when such opposition seems to be popular.

It seems to me that true statesmanship is made of sterner stuff.

GEORGE F. HOYNE.

FOR HER.

Watseka, Ill., March 26.—The storm prevented Mrs. McCormick from keeping a speaking engagement at Hoopeston yesterday and the disappointment was felt by many. However, it has not lost her any votes.

The feeling in this section among Republican voters against her chief opponent, Senator Deneen, is one of contempt for a man who dragged the dignity of the United States senate in the mire to attend the funeral of a Chicago police character, Diamond Joe Esposito. Of course, his attendance was to curry favor with followers of Diamond Joe. A man of character would spurn such subterfuges for preferment of any kind.

His voting for the Jones 5 and 10 year imprisonment law for having in one's possession a half pint of alcohol savors of savagery and Puritanism of past ages. His vote on the sugar schedule has added to the sugar combine something like $36,000,000; and during his five year term as a senator he has never made a speech or an address of any kind like his contemporaries, Brookhart, Borah, Caraway, Glass, etc.

The senator knows his weakness among men of culture and keeps silent. It is believed, however, that there are enough red-blooded Americans left in the sovereign state of Illinois to retire this machine politician to private life, and the opportunity is anxiously awaited. ALBERT CRAWFORD.

RECRUITING SNOW SHOVELERS.

Chicago, March 27.—The way the bureau of streets and the police department issued jobs to the people was terrible. The place at 12 South Market street, above the police station, is a fair sized hall with two skylights, or three, closed. Lots of benches, a broken down bed, some lumber, ladders, also a life preserver strung all over one corner and benches all around. You come up the stairs, get a card and you're told to come back at 2:30 p. m. (this happened on the 27th) or 4 p. m., as I was told. Having the card, I believed that at the specified time we all would have a job, so we come up to the stairway and a policeman has you show him your card and he tells you to go up. You do, and you land yourself in a hall [a pen, rather] and you find hundreds of all nationalities and colors. A line is formed about six abreast and you fall in, and in the meantime some smart aleck is trying to squeeze in from the side and the crowd roars, "Push him out," and what not. You're all in a bunch like cattle in pens, and all are pushing for no reason at all. About five policemen are in charge and are helpless.

Seeing that no one is being taken in, they let the crowd mingle and assemble more and more till the place is all full of smoke, every one is perspiring and crushing his fellow man. I happened to come up in this hall or pen at 12 noon and was about the 80th in line. We stood four abreast till 5 p. m. or so when along comes up a sergeant or lieutenant and looks the place over, snorts a few cuss words out and takes a club from a policeman and does his daily dozen on the crowd. He wants to form a line of two abreast and doesn't care how long you were in line or who you are. He shoves you on the side or backwards over these boards, benches, bed and what not, and if you don't move fast enough he uses the club, which they sure can use at times handily. It wasn't very long when our club swinger tried his skill and happened to bust it in two and had to get another. Some fellows were tapped on the shoulders or legs or some place or other. He made a remark he was going to use it on their heads. The fellow who was first happened to be last or found himself outside.

I was rushed in a corner where this bed and boards were and four of us were knocked down and the policemen still were pushing, not looking to find out what is back there.

Instead of putting on at 2:30 and 4, as we were told, they took between 5:30 and 6, up to 6:30, and then told several hundred to come back at 5 a. m. tomorrow.

After putting in 6½ hours [some put in more] in that stinking hall, I should come back! No, and a lot more won't. I got home at 8 p. m., partly by street car and walking the balance, and find myself with a sore body and no money.

AN ILL WIND.

Chicago, March 28.—If Chicago could be kept in a blanket of snow for a period of two or three months it would do more to clean up the crime condition than all the police departments that can be employed. No gunmen or gangsters have been taken for a ride in the last few days and this credit can go to the snowstorm, not the police department.

River Forest, Ill., March 25.—Yes, it is rather amusing, Mr. Ashley's comment in today's TRIBUNE on the similarity of bootlegging religion in Russia and bootlegging whisky in the United States. DE VALERA'S AIDS STRUGGLE TO WIN HIM PRESIDENCY

Campaign to Fuse Votes Against Cosgrave.

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Ireland, March 30.—The Fianna Fail, Eamon De Valera's party, is making intensive use of the interval it has until Wednesday, when voting will take place for a president to succeed William T. Cosgrave. He is trying to swing the independent deputies in the Dail Eireann to its aid.

Deputy Le Mass, leader in Mr. De Valera's absence, declared the treaty of 1921 with Great Britain would not be interfered with unless the vote of the people on a referendum was demanded. Last night he said the Fianna Fail would devote itself to the restoration of material prosperity and security.

Surprise Vote Possible.

Regarding what will happen Wednesday, there are observers who see the possibility of unforeseen developments. Rumor speaks of the possible nomination of an independent deputy who voted against the government in the division which overthrew the cabinet last Thursday. To secure an election, however, he should have the support of the Republicans, Labor, and some Independents, which does not seem possible.

More directly interesting is the question of whether Mr. Cosgrave, if elected, will take the opportunity of making changes in the personnel of his new cabinet. There have been many criticisms of individuals, and it is known that Mr. Cosgrave would gladly jettison several members of his crew who do not pull full weight. It was being said tonight that Mr. Cosgrave would, if permitted, willingly pass on the leadership to another. He feels the effects of his eight years of strenuous work. Moreover, although he would get no pension, he is reported to have sufficient private means to live on.

Coalition Is Suggested.

Another aspect of the situation which is much discussed is the possibility of forming a coalition party of the best elements of the opposition parties, to which certain Independents and even the Cuman nan Gaedhael or government party followers might be attracted.

A third presumption is for the elimination of Mr. De Valera and other oppositionists whose personal prejudices are a handicap to a coalition. Such a party would be a real alternative to the Cosgrave party, but it is thought that until some such breaking occurs Mr. Cosgrave will continue in office.

DE VALERA LEAVES CITY WITH $10,000 FOR HIS IRISH PAPER

With $10,000 in cash and pledges for his Irish national newspaper project, Eamon de Valera departed from Chicago last night for St. Paul to continue his speaking tour. The $10,000 was raised Saturday night at the Ashland boulevard auditorium, where an audience of 2,000 cheered the former president of the Irish republic.

"You can depend upon it," De Valera told his followers, reiterating the sentiment to reporters as he left Chicago, 'that if I am elected president of the Dail Eireann on Wednesday it will be because the Cosgrave government has got things in such a state they believe that only failure is possible.

"Ireland today is paying annually to Britain $26,000,000. That sum represents more than the whole cost to date of the entire Shannon project, which has supplied work for hundreds of people over a period of five years."

3 KILLED AND 4 MISSING WHEN 3 BOATS CRASH

St. Helen's, Ore., March 30.—(AP)—Three persons were killed and twelve injured when the excursion boat Swan, returning to Vancouver, Wash., with 286 passengers from Longview, was rammed off St. Helen's on the Columbia river early today by the coastwise steamer Davenport. Four persons missing probably were drowned. The dead:

Mrs. J. E. Hagedorn, Vancouver.
J. E. Larson, florist, Vancouver.
Mrs. Stanley Stone, Vancouver.

The Missing:

Richard Belland Jr., Portland, son of Capt. Belland, owner of the excursion boat.

Jack Mitchell, deck hand on the tug Dix.

Sergt. R. G. Anderson, bandman, 7th infantry, Vancouver barracks; home in Ohio.

Mrs. G. E. Lundy, Vancouver.

The river boat Swan, towed by the tug Dix, was en route to Vancouver from the dedication of the Longview bridge which spans the Columbia river. It left Vancouver early yesterday and after spending the day at the Longview festivities, began the return trip.

Darkness overtook the craft just after leaving Longview and the crash with the Davenport came without warning at the height of merry making. Dozens of persons were thrown into the water and a panic followed.

The Davenport crew rescued most of those overboard. The pleasure boat drifted downstream where it lodged on a sand bar. The tug sank.

SHOT AS HE FLEES POLICE.

Wesley Edwards, colored, 310 East 50th street, was shot in the left leg early yesterday in an alley near Dearborn and Washington streets when he sought to escape questioning by a detective bureau squad.

DUCE MASSES FASCISTS IN WAR ON LIVING COSTS

Wages Economic Battle to Restore Prosperity.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 30.—A "battle of economics," which was launched in Italy last week, will come to a head Tuesday. The final onslaught against the high cost of living will be marked by the supression of internal customs, which will be replaced with special consumption taxes.

Secretary Augusto Turati of the Fascist party has made an appeal to all Italians to join the ranks of the economic battlers in what he said would be a new, decisive and last battle of Fascism.

U. S. Watching Crisis.

It is conceded from all parties from Il Duce down that Italy is now experimenting what is euphemistically called a "delicate" crisis. The Fascist government is hastening to meet this crisis by a series of successive measures calculated to bring immediate relief. That the results of these measures are being closely watched in financial circles, is also attested to by the fact that several American financiers are now in Italy, including Edward H. Simmons, president of the New York stock exchange.

A series of government relief measures began two weeks ago with the removal of all lire exchange restrictions, permitting free dealing in Italian money and export of capital abroad. The Italian treasury now has enough reserves to counteract any oscillations. The permission to place sums abroad is intended to act as a stimulus to foreign trade.

Increase Wine and Meat Tax.

The real crux of the economic battle, however, is the abolition of all internal customs barriers on produce. This was formerly levied at the city gates. It is replaced by consumption taxes which the municipalities will levy on tradesmen. Some of the former produce taxes, however, are not levied as consumption taxes under the new system. Cheese, fish and poultry, for instance, are not taxed, but on the contrary, meat and wine are taxed more heavily, the levy running as high as 50 per cent. Discrimination is thus made against meat eaters and wine drinkers.

Another government measure, somewhat local in character, was the establishment two weeks ago of a free customs zone around the port of Fiume for the next two years.

Fiume Adventure Costly.

Gabrielle D'Annunzio's annexation of this city for Italy some ten years ago in defiance of former President Woodrow Wilson has not proved to be the unmixed blessing it appears to be. The city was thus cut off from the rich hinterland, and furthermore, the southern suburb of Fiume, called Sussak, which was given to Jugo-Slavia by the Rapallo treaty, began to develop its commerce and traffic, while Fiume, which was Italian, lost this advancement. All merchandise and produce will enter Fiume free. It is hoped that this will attract business from Sussak, lower the cost of living, and restore Fiume to its position as a prosperous port.

Unfortunately, however, it is reported that the Fiume free zone has angered Trieste, which sees its commercial advantage now waning, so causing another dilemma.

TRUCKS ANNOY BRIDE; SHE TELLS DRYS AND RUM CARGO IS SEIZED

New York, March 30.—(AP)—The rumbling of heavily laden liquor trucks along the roads of Woodbridge, N. J., which disturbed the slumbers of a honeymoon couple, led to the arrest early today at Keasbey, N. J., of seven alleged rum runners and the seizure of two hundred cases of cognac, valued by federal agents at $100 case.

Early this morning John H. McGill, deputy surveyor of the port of New York in charge of enforcement, received a telephone call from the bride, whose name he withheld, informing him of the noise of the trucks.

Capture $30,000 Rum Ship.

Boston, Mass., March 30.—[Special.]—The 55 foot rum running speedboat Evelyn Ruth, long sought by the coast guard, was captured with her $30,000 liquor cargo when she grounded in Boston harbor early today, escaped again when her captain outraced customs agents in a taxicab after bailing himself out of arrest, and finally was recaptured 90 miles away in Provincetown. Every available coast guard boat from Portland, Me., to Long Island sound had been ordered to catch her.

MONACO MAYOR VICTOR IN BALLOT ON ROYAL ISSUE

MONTE CARLO, March 30.—(AP)—The party of Mayor Eugene Marquet, favorable to the maintenance of the present dynasty in Monaco, today carried the national and municipal elections by an overwhelming majority. Complete official returns tonight showed that 671 of the 810 registered electors voted. Of these, 458 supported the Marquet list, the others being divided among the Bonaventurists and the Aureglians and lesser candidates. There were 11 blanks.

Mayor Marquet's party has been in power for some years in the little principality. Sympathetic to the ambitions of Prince Pierre, recently separated by decree from Princess Charlotte, daughter of the regning Prince Louis, its position has become difficult because under the decree of separation Prince Pierre no longer belongs to the Grimaldi dynasty.

Mayor Marquet was opposed by M. Bonaventure, a lawyer, whose party announced as its platform the return of Princess Charlotte as hereditary princess. The Marquet followers accused the Bonaventurists of really seeking to get control of the government in order to oust the princely family and found a republic.

RED ARMY'S WAR SECRETS BARED IN CAVALRY ROW

Military Experts Study Fighting Methods.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, March 30.—The Moscow Krasniaja Svesda, the official newspaper of the Red army, announces that Gen. Budenny, chief of the Russian cavalry, has won his fight with the communist war college to increase the number of cavalry divisions in the Red army. The debate brought interesting revelations concerning Moscow's idea of what the next European war will be like.

The commander in chief of the army, Clement Voroshilov, kept neutral, but several generals advocated the mechanizing of the Red army, following the example of western Europe and America, whose changes in military technique the soviets have closely followed. They contended that, with the present program of industrializing Russia within five years, the army should also be modernized, and that the cavalry forces be cut to a minimum and relegated to a secondary place in the offensive forces.

Cavalry Debate Lasts 2 Days.

The debate lasted two days. Gen. Budenny defended the cavalry and pointed out that the militant attitude of the comintern and the communist party toward future wars made it necessary for large mobile forces ready for action.

The general's opinion was that the comintern of agitators abroad will have succeeded in forming a large enough force of Red proletariat shock troops to paralyze the effective forces of any country attempting to attack Russia within the next few years. Foreign Reds, according to the inspector general of the cavalry, while engaging in sabotage and fomenting strikes, would also be able to succeed in converting any capitalistic war into a civil war.

"Suppose one of the soviet government's large neighbors [meaning Poland] attacks Russia, what would happen?" asked Gen. Budenny. "First that country's communistic party would declare a general strike, attack mobilization points, wreck trains, and disorganize transportation. The enemy's army would then become powerless to combat interior disturbances and civil war. In order adequately to assist our foreign comrades we need a huge army of cavalry which could sweep through the country, dealing death and destruction to our real enemies, the capitalists and bourgeoisie.

Fighting on Many Fronts.

"The Red cavalry could assist in the organization of the proletarian shock troops and conduct a military campaign, while the soviets would be seizing the government and forming a new soviet country, which would be annexed to Moscow. With the assistance of foreign Reds, fighting would not be confined to any single front and a mechanized Red army is not necessary in our present plan of action."

The war college finally decided to redraft the plans for future campaigns, placing more dependence on the cavalry and the traitorous activities of the foreign Reds.

The discussions of probable wars have been occupying columns of the soviet press for years and the communist party has succeeded in militarizing Russia into a formidable force. The bolsheviks are trying to convince the population that it is only their presence in Moscow that is preventing another world war, but instead of gaining the support of the population the Russian proletariats are eagerly awaiting the next war to begin.

205 POUND COP RUNS TWO MILES; EATS THREE PIES

July Borrela, 29 years old, 228 West Erie street, was the holder of some kind of record yesterday. Borrela, who weighs 205 pounds, resented the implication of other policemen that his talents included only the ability to eat and ride a motorcycle, and he bet four of them that he also could run and eat.

They accepted the wager and Borrela galloped up and down ten times along Milwaukee avenue between Dempster street and the county police station at Ballard road, consuming an apple pie at the start, a peach pie in the middle of the two mile run, and an apple pie at the finish. He completed the run in 22 minutes, collecting for his efforts $2 which the four policemen had posted.

"Anyway, it was worth a half dollar," said Sergt. George Ulrich, one of the four contributors to the pool.

BAWLED BERTRAM the BOUNCER

"My man," reproved the Duchess, "it is seldom that I speak directly to a menial, but those rasping, grinding tones were more fitting for peddling fish than announcing my coach-and-four."

The point where our audiences get out of their chairs

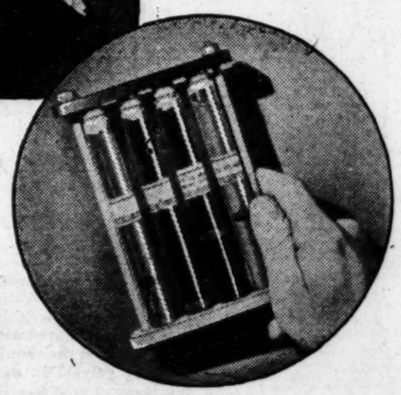
A CLASS ROOM picture, taken at our Whiting, Indiana, refinery during the presentation of the oil cleaning experiment. This experiment proves definitely that New Iso-Vis Motor Oil does not "break down" in the automobile crankcase.



Notice the Color of New Iso-Vis. It is a rich amber. New Iso-Vis is a wholly distilled oil. Its sturdy body is not obtained by adding undistilled parts of the crude.

THE BALL AND BOTTLE TEST shows you the way oils differ in "body". The more "body" an oil has, the slower the little ball falls in the tube. You can see this test at any Standard Oil service station. Notice the difference between used Iso-Vis and any other oil drained from the crankcase. Iso-Vis does not thin out in your motor.

FOR several weeks we have been demonstrating New Iso-Vis Motor Oil in our laboratory lecture room to groups of engineers and others. One of the experiments made is this:

A quart of "used" Iso-Vis oil that has gone hundreds of miles in the crankcase of a car—is strained through a special filter.

In goes the used oil, black with road dust and crankcase dirt . . .

And then our audience generally gets to its feet in astonishment. For out of the filter comes a quart of oil that is exactly the same as if it had come from the refinery. Not just the same clear amber color but the same heavy body, the same oiliness, the same lubricating quality!

Before their eyes is the unmistakable, dramatic proof that science has succeeded in perfecting an oil that does not "thin out" or break down in the crankcase.

We do not recommend that you use New Iso-Vis Motor Oil without changing, beyond reasonable periods, as the dirt which collects in the crankcase interferes with lubrication and should always be removed by draining. With New Iso-Vis, however, you may be sure that the body of the oil itself will not change, from the moment you put it in until you drain it off.

Try New Iso-Vis in your car today. You can get it at any Standard Oil dealer or service station.

New ISO-VIS 30¢ a quart
Motor Oil

The New Polarine is also affected by our new refining processes—giving it a degree of lubricating efficiency which we believe is exceeded only by the New Iso-Vis. The price is 25¢ a quart.

INSTALLMENT I.

PARIS BOUND.

At first sight Catherine did not know what to make of Geoffrey Macadam. Was he excessively shy, or did his unbending manner betoken condemnation of the officious lady who thus dared to plant a complete stranger upon him and shatter the solitude of his young journey to Paris? From the stiffness with which he acknowledged the introduction, eyeing her stonily with a finger between the pages of his magazine, she was inclined to the latter opinion and burned to tell him how ardently she shared his resentment. Then, for a brief instant, she caught in his gaze, embarrassed yet searching, an expression which hinted at some other, quite different cause, a look of curiosity, of—of——

At the moment she was too much annoyed to follow up the thought.

From the expansive Mrs. Hugh Tyler Pope—Mrs. Huge Tyler Pope she was called by some of their fellow passengers—Catherine had vainly fled all the way across the Atlantic, and it filled her with bitterness now when she had believed herself free to find her redoubtable protectress escorting her willy-nilly the full length of the train in search of her seat. Useless to protest that she was well able to look after herself and preferred doing so. Overborne by the pressure of a mighty bust she had been propelled bodily along the corridor, while a voice resembling a corn-crake, richly oiled with kind intentions, shouted, for the benefit of all and sundry, assurances which caused her to writhe with shame.

"Now, if only we'd met you sooner, my dear, we could have had your place reserved along with ours. Such a pity! It's just too dreadful to think of you traveling all this way by your little lonesome! Still it can't be helped now, the train's so jammed. Is this your seat? So it is. At any rate it's a corner one. Porter! Put mademoiselle's bag in that corner. These foreigners don't give a hoot for your convenience, you have to show 'em everything. That's right, dear, don't give him more than ten francs, it's quite enough."

Clogging the aisle with her immense mink coat she had hindered the porter in his exit and endangered several pairs of toes hastily withdrawn from her path. Then suddenly her eye had lit upon the retiring male in the opposite corner, whereupon she shrilled with delight and pounced upon him.

"Why, if it isn't Mr. Macadam! Now, what do you know about that? Been up to Havre on business? Well, well! Catherine, my dear—I want you to meet the very nicest man in all Paris. Englishman. Mr. Macadam, let me present a little friend of mine I've met on the boat, Miss West, from Boston. She's on her way to visit a relative in the Avenoo Henri Martin—you know, Mrs. Harry Belmont Bender, whose husband was killed last year in that awful motor accident in Massachoosetts. So sad!"

It was extremely painful, nor did it end there. Not content with intrusting her young friend to the stranger's care, the well-meaning lady had dragged her victim back into the corridor and bending her head confided a parting message at the top of her lungs:

"Now, wasn't that luck? I want to tell you, that's a young man it'll be nice for you to know. Geoffrey Macadam, junior partner or something in the law firm of Macadam & Langtree. Everybody knows them. This one's charming, a bit reserved like all the English, but such perfect manners. Be nice to him—— Well, au revoir, dear, I'll run back and look after Rozzy and Jim. If I don't see you at the gare, be sure to ring me up and come to my next at home."

"She's only a fool," thought Catherine as somewhat consciously she sank into her place. "Still I must show this poor man I've no intention of forcing myself on him."

Accordingly she returned such scanty replies to his hesitant courtesies that by the time the train had pulled out of the station he had retired behind his magazine, leaving her to pursue her reflections in peace.

Not that her mind was at all calm. Now her journey was so nearly ended she was feeling decided qualms of uneasiness which up till now she had successfully stifled at birth. A question rose before her, at each insistent repetition cutting her breath in twp.

Had she done right to come?

A guilty voice within whispered that she had been altogether precipitate about the whole affair, and might live to regret it.

"Yet why?" she argued stoutly. "Germaine certainly wants me to come. There's no possible doubt about that."

Yes, Mme. Bender's letter, for all its characteristic vagueness, had expressed an earnest desire for her company. So far, so good. She would have thought no more about the matter but for this other, odd epistle now hidden in her bag, a communication she had shown to no one. Ah, there she had done wrong, there was no blinking the fact. She ought to have confided in Barbara and John and secured their counsel. Barbara was her married sister and John her very sober brother-in-law. Since her father's death two years ago Catherine had lived with them, and had always made a point of seeking their advice when she foresaw it would coincide with her own views, though, occasionally, as in the present instance, she had omitted the formality.

The truth was she had been so feverishly eager to leave Boston and all the irksome associations of the engagement she had just terminated. So strongly had she felt she could not walk down Boylston street or across the Common without encountering the injured young man or one of his family, in bitter league against her, that the instant Germaine's letter arrived she had dashed off to secure a passage. When later she had received a second missive, penned by an unknown person, she had lain awake a whole night wondering what she ought to do, and had ended by keeping silent for fear of shipwrecking her plans.

O, well, it was done now, there was no looking back. Besides there was nothing definite in the letter, no fact that one could get hold of, in spite of its emotional tone. Who was this woman, anyhow? Probably some excitable friend of Germaine's, prone to exaggeration. The hysterical note in the contradictory sentences spoke for itself. Naturally that accident last year had dealt poor Mme. Bender's nerves a shattering blow, but there could be nothing worse. She would put the whole thing out her mind. . . .

Why did her vis-à-vis, ostensibly absorbed in his reading, from time to time steal a furtive glance in her direction? The covert survey, always withdrawn before she encountered it, disturbed her preoccupation and made her wonder again about the curious gleam she had noticed at the moment of their introduction. Till now she had managed to ignore him, but the recurring scrutiny, gravely speculative, roused in her a degree of interest.

Without actually looking, Catherine took stock of his appearance. She saw that his eyes were gray and attentive beneath somewhat bushy brows, that his skin was ruddy with health, and his figure wiry and muscular. There was about him an air of quiet restraint extending even to his attire, which was well fashioned but quite unnoticeable. He looked like a man who never would do anything rash. He would never, she decided, rush off across the ocean with a lingering doubt in his mind as to the wisdom of the venture. No, like John, he would give the matter full investigation, weigh carefully the pros and cons, and then, most likely, stay at home. . . .

"I beg your pardon?"

She glanced at him quickly.

"Yes?"

He colored in slight confusion.

"Nothing. I fancied you were about to speak."

"No, I was only thinking." Then she added with a little laugh, "You didn't overhear my thoughts, did you?"

A glimmer of amusement came into his eyes, but he retired again into silence. Not nearly so stodgy as John, reflected Catherine, but rather severe all the same. Still a thaw had set in, and from now on the stolen glances became more frequent and less furtive. Soon she imagined there was something he wanted to say, but that he was having a hard struggle with his reserve.

I SHOULD SAY I DO
IT IS RATHER A GOOD DOCUMENT AND IF WRITTEN BY CODA HIMSELF SHOWS THAT HE HAD LEGAL TRAINING. IT IS WRITTEN PARTLY ON THE TYPEWRITER AND PARTLY HAND WRITTEN, WHY I COULDN'T GUESS.
WHO ARE THESE TWO WITNESSES TO CODA'S SIGNATURE?
WE HAVE INVESTIGATED THEM AND FOUND THEY HAVE BOTH DIED SINCE THE DATE OF THE WILL. RATHER A SUGGESTIVE COINCIDENCE, BUT POSSIBLE. THIS MAN ELBERRY WAS KNOWN TO HAVE BEEN CODAS TAILOR. WE CAN'T FIND THAT SMUCKLER HAD ANY CONNECTION WITH CODA.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

I find this a difficult picture to review.

There is no fault to be found with the acting—as acting, but, somehow, to me, none of it rang true. Things happen; words are said to a sort of stereotyped enter-exit tune. Figuratively speaking, the bright fire isn't hot and the sparkling ice is glass. Scenery, sets, costumes, please, but the "atmosphere" never gets away from the studio smell. Sweep, spontaneity, honest abandon to honest emotion, are lacking. So—"Son of Gods" leaves me—faintly admiring—, but cold.

The story is of the gently bred son of a high caste Chinese gentleman, head of a large Chinese business house in New York. Though honor student in the American college he attends, the boy finds himself humiliated and an outcast and leaves before finishing his courses. His father graciously permits him to travel abroad as a means of completing his education and in Europe he meets Allana, daughter of an American soap king, who, mad for him, and having told him that she would marry him though he had six wives and was a murderer, flogs him publicly upon learning that he is Chinese.

Sam Lee returns to America. His father is dead. He dedicates himself to a life of bitter reprisal against the white race, and, well—enter an ex-policeman Dugan with NEWS and—Allana, again to change the current of his existence. . . .

It has been said that as Sam Lee Mr. Barthelmess surpasses his characterization of Cheng Huan in "Broken Blossoms." A matter of opinion. I do not think so.

Constance Bennett's blonde and brittle loveliness shows off to good advantage and there are moments when you hate her and are sorry for her as Allana. But you don't hate her enough and aren't sorry enough for her. That's the point I'm trying to make about the whole picture. It's like an ethical, but too polite prize fight. So to speak.

Note: In order that you may not rely too much on my opinion of this movie let me say that I saw a trailer on it wherein Mr. Rex Beach who wrote "Son of the Gods" gave utterance to his entire satisfaction with the screen adaptation of his story.

I hope that you will like the piece allee samee Mr. Beach.

See you tomorrow.

Prof. W. H. Johnson Talks on Chicago Plan's Results

An illustrated lecture yesterday afternoon at the Chicago Historical society on North Dearborn street acquainted many Chicagoans with the development of the Chicago plan commission and its part in the building of the present city. The lecturer was William H. Johnson, professor of education at Loyola university, and principal of the Volta school. Dr. Johnson emphasized the utilizing of the lake front and the natural assets of the city's site to the best advantage in the growth of the municipality.

The Ace of Spades

By WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Jim Rutledge, accompanied by Sim Hart, is sent out with a herd of cattle to fulfill a contract made by his father, Chandler Rutledge. On the trail they are overtaken by some men from the Moss outfit, enemies of Rutledge. The Moss men start a stampede and drive off some of the Rutledge cattle. Jim recovers them, but in doing so shoots and injures one of the Moss raiders. The men of the Moss outfit swear to be revenged for the injury and pursue him. Jim takes refuge in a ranch house where he finds Ellen Lawson alone in the house. She hides him when the Moss gang comes to the house inquiring for him and sends them off on another trail, even though she learns that he has injured her brother. Jim rides on into the town, after saving Ellen from the unwelcome attentions of Pete Moss. Shear, the town marshal, threatens to arrest him for the attack on Steve Lawson, but Harrison Pendleton, an old trail driver, arrives on the scene in time to save him from arrest. Shortly afterwards Shear kills Doc Brown, who he claimed had threatened his life. This causes a great deal of excitement in the little cattle town. Jim goes into the local gambling den and is astonished to find Ellen Lawson there. She tells him she has come to speak to her brother Steve. Jim guides her to where Steve is sitting in a poker game with Shear, Buck Roe and others. As they reach the table the lights go out and when the room is again lighted Shear is found crumpled in his chair dead with Jim's knife in him. Ellen's right hand is covered with blood. She had become separated from Jim in the dark and some one had jostled her. In putting out her hand for support she had touched the crumpled figure. Jim and Ellen are questioned by the sheriff, Manders, and Jim is arrested, but is later released. Jim is determined to find the murderer to clear himself. Ellen arranges a meeting to warn him against Dave Moss and Jim learns that Moss is trying to force her to marry his son Pete. He suggests that she marry him and they are quietly married. He goes about his investigation and is led into a trap by the Moss gang. Old Dave Moss tells him he has not long to live. Chandler Rutledge comes to town and when Ellen tells him Jim has been out for some time he and Pendleton decide to go in search of him.

INSTALLMENT LV.

ANOTHER PAGE.

The bodies of the dead outlaws were brought to town. It was found that the left boot of Dave Moss fitted exactly the impression labeled Exhibit I. that Dr. Aubrey had made of the footprints outside the Longhorn.

The evidence against the dead man was overwhelming.

Slim Rogers returned to town and told his story of walking in upon old Dave and his son just after one of them had washed bloodstains from his hands. The missing button, the boot track, the admission he had made to Jim Rutledge, the dying statement of Buck Roe, all tended to fasten the crime upon him. The note of Mamie Dugan to Jim, the forged letter found in Dave's pocket, the words heard by all the posse, "I' kill; you bear the blame," served as contributory evidence.

Under pressure, in order to exonerate his brother Sam, young Pete Moss confessed that he had recognized his father as he knifed Joe Shear and that Dave had slain Mamie Dugan to prevent her from telling what she knew of this.

. . . . . .

Jim returned to Ellen's arms with an emotion surprising to himself. He had counted that he was a dead man, and here he was to love and be loved. For the first time since his childhood he gave himself up to being mothered and could not get enough of it. The fearful nerve strain under which he had been had taken its toll of his strength. The broken collarbone served as an excuse, and he relaxed to let himself be waited on like a sick man.

And Ellen loved it. She had him back again, safe from the terrible perils he had passed through, and she made the most of it. In and out of his room she fluttered, making excuses to be with him and fuss over him. For it was only when her eyes were on him she felt quite sure that the danger was forever past. Those were red letter days for both of them, to be remembered the rest of their lives.

Jim discussed with his father the offer of Dane Sackville to run the Wyoming ranch for him. In the end he decided to accept it. The opportunity was too good to pass.

"Wyoming is not so far from Texas as it was, son," Chandler said. "I've a notion of stocking a ranch of my own up there. Maybe after you get the lay of the land we might go into partnership, you an' I. Or we might all three form a company, we two an' Sackville. We'll see how it works out."

. . . . . .

So Jim and Ellen went to Wyoming. They are there today, and on the Circle R, as he has named his ranch, are a swarm of young Rutledges, both boys and girls, hard riders and good ropers, brown as the sun of the great northwest can make them. Among them moves Jim, their father, with the same light, long stride of his Texas days, still the best rider and roper of the lot.

Ellen looks at them all and smiles happily. She is still young, though a little more buxom than when she was eighteen. Life has been good to her and Jim—and still is.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

Is Justice of the Peace Harrison correct that a bad marriage is better than none?

The Answers.

Mrs. Thomas Kissane, 5428 Augusta street, housewife.—An unhappy marriage is unthinkable. A bad marriage is a tragedy for the parents and for their children It may wreck the happiness of one or both parents for life, and it may even spoil their children's idea of marriage. Consider whether your marriage will be happy; don't rush into it.

A. J. Laverty, 6302 Holbrook street, advertising. — People who cannot be happy together shouldn't be married. I have been happy in our marriage, and we have three children. If a man is not happily married he can not do justice to his work; he is discontented all the time, and it were better were he not married.

Mrs. S. E. Mitchell, 1528 74th street, widow.—No girl wants to be an old maid That's tragedy for a girl. It is the delight of a girl's life to get married and she expects it to be a good marriage—especially if the man has lots of money. If things turn out wrong and the wife has to go to work that's tough luck.

A. C. Churchill, 6054 Harper avenue, salesman. — It's a darned sight better not to marry than to have a bad marriage. I am happily married and I believe I know. An unhappy marriage means ruin for two lives. Even an argument between persons causes dissatisfaction far beyond the importance of the topic that brings the argument.

Mrs. F. A. Nelson, 6051 North Talman avenue, housewife. —A bad marriage cannot be a happy marriage and I would rather remain single than be married and unhappy. There is nothing worse for the children than an unhappy marriage of their parents. At the same time it is inexcusable for anybody not to try to find a mate for whom he or she is fitted.

THE STAGE

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

ONCE a year or so, Howard Thurston arrives with his mystic paraphernalia, his good looking girls, his rabbits, pigeons ducks and roosters, and sets up his booth for exhibitions of the Black Art. He continues an ancient tradition of stage entertainment—the only one, perhaps, that will never be exploited by the camera and microphone.

He follows the trail of Herrman, Kellar, and Houdini, to cite the illustrious names of necromancy, legerdemain and hocus-pocus that are easily remembered by this generation. But if you wish to follow his pedigree to its source, you will come to that passage in Exodus which tells how Aarot outdid the magicians of Pharaoh in the illusion of turning a staff into a snake.

Thurston has pitched his tent at the Erlanger theater, where he will remain, sawing the faithful Fernanda in two, accomplishing feats of levitation by the psychic spells of the mysterious East, snaring pigeons out of thin air, and encouraging small boys to learn parlor tricks, for the next three weeks. He gives an excellent show. His routine has become familiar—but so has that of the circus. You can watch him season after season, and never find a betraying clew to the secret of his mystifications.

His daughter, Jane, has become a featured personality of his program. She is the pretty girl that every magician needs in the show; she has nimble feet and a pleasant way of singing a song; and she also has been trained for the family profession. Jane can manage the disappearing acts with trick boxes as well as her father. As a soubrette she refreshes the eye. So do the auxiliary damsels who serve in the levitations, and dance a little whenever they are not needed for some dark deed of mystery. In fact, the feminine contingent in this program of wizardry would do quite well in the chorus of the "Scandals."

Walter Hampden has closed his season and relinquished his lease on the New York theater which bears his name. His manager announces, however, that this does not necessarily mean he will not appear in Manhattan next season. He is already considering the production of Victor Hugo's "Ruy Blas," in an adaptation by Brian Hooker, who arranged "Cyrano de Bergerac" for his use. Mr. Hampden also contemplates a tour for part of next season, using "Cyrano" and several of the plays he has given this year.

Earl Carroll will add a new "Vanities" to the summer schedule of the Broadway stage. The show will probably open early in July after a preliminary engagement in Atlantic City. Mr. Carroll has also promised a summer show to be called "Midsummer Madness," with W. C. Fields as its star.

The new play which will be staged at the Goodman Tuesday night, April 8, "Kolpak Must Dance," has been acted in more than eighty cities of central Europe since its premiere in Berlin last year. Its author, Helmuth Unger, has written about a dozen dramas that are now in the German repertory. He is also known as a novelist and the translator into German of Eugene O'Neill's "Lazarus Laughed." Hubert Osborne is directing rehearsals at the Goodman. This will be the play's first American acting.

BEG YOUR PARDON

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has received the following letter from Harry F. Sinclair:

"I notice in your issue of March 23 a news article under a Washington date line, in which the following statement is made:

"'. . . he was also bargaining with Harry F. Sinclair, who, seeking a similar lease on the navy's Teapot Dome reserve in Wyoming, passed a total of nearly $300,000 in Liberty bonds to Fall.'

"The foregoing paragraph is not only inaccurate [the Teapot Dome and Elk Hill leases were not negotiated at the same time], but its whole purport is such as to mislead the uninformed reader and bring him to conclusions which are both incorrect and damaging to me. From the context the reader would naturally infer that when I bought a one-third interest in the Tres Ritos ranch, owned jointly by Secretary Fall and his son-in-law, M. T. Everhart, it was an illegitimate transaction.

"This is an error, which was fully revealed by Mr. Everhart's testimony in my criminal trial, and by myself in testimony before the senate investigating committee.

"My purchase of an interest in the ranch was an entirely legitimate transaction—the exchange of value for value, and not the passing of a bribe. There was no connection whatever between this transaction and the Teapot Dome lease."

Stock's Junior Orchestra Has Pleasing Concert

Polish Musicians Play Spirited Program.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Two points developed in the concert of the Civic orchestra at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon. One is that the orchestra, although in theory a student organization, becomes under the ministrations of Frederick Stock an Eric DeLamarter a highly competent and well trained ensemble of musicians. Playing as they did yesterday afternoon there is little surprise that it is drawn upon as it is to furnish the dozens of members that it has given to symphony orchestras around the country.

The other point refers to Mr. Stock's own "Symphonic Variations," which he conducted yesterday. It gives the clew to his unfailing ability in orchestral color in his other compositions. This work was written some twenty-seven or twenty-eight years ago, and apparently he knew much about color then as he does now. Perhaps he would not write in the form of variations now, but then as now, he wrote easily, imaginatively and with fine ideals.

Another orchestra made its appearance at the Goodman theater, the Polish Symphony orchestra, conducted by Casimir Jasinski. Numbering about sixty players, it is an organization deserving of sincere commendation. Its performance is alert, its tone is fine and of good quality. Possibly the characteristics have been developed at the expense of fine shading, but at least there is a capable background for shadings to be traced.

Much of the program was taken up by the solo appearances of the assisting artists. Of these, two were heard. Anna Uszler, pianist, of Milwaukee, was pink and fluffy of costume, but far from either pink or fluffy in performance, which in a concerto by Pierné, was firm, brilliant and commanding to a high degree. Adam Kuryllo, violinist, appeared in the second concerto by Wieniawski playing with a somewhat slender tone but with excellent taste and fluency. The songs of Genia Zielinska [illegible] to be missed, but enough of the program had been heard for the orchestra fully to justify its existence.

Over on the other side of the loop Rudolph Reiners gave a violin recital at the Civic theater, the first number of which was a sonata for violin and piano by Louis Victor Saar where the composer appeared at the piano. It is an extended and fluently written work based upon interesting themes that are developed logically, learnedly and smoothly. Calling less for technical display than forthright sincerity of interpretation, it was given an excellent performance by both. Mr. Reiners continued his program with a group of short pieces and ended with a concerto by Vieuxtemps.

Two pianists added their contributions to the afternoon's music. Beatrice Lerman at the Playhouse classified among the youthful artists with the astounding aptitude, poise, and sympathy that youthful artists sometimes display. Technically she has gone as far as the Schumann G minor sonata and the Moszkowski "Caprice Espagnol:" temperamentally and artistically she has warmth and appreciation that should carry her a long distance in music.

Rita Neve, who has appeared here before, gave another piano recital at the Studebaker. In a group by Chopin she would seem to have placed her personality in advance of other musical considerations, at times even above temhnical corectness. One cannot help but feel that less dependence upon what is sometimes called tempo rubato, and less wayward rhythm generally would have been preferable.

Mexicans Crowd New Clinic During Talks About Health

Hundreds of Mexicans from the vicinity of 840 South Halsted street crowded the health center opened there yesterday afternoon by the Chicago Tuberculosis institute for their benefit. Rafael Aveleyra, Mexican consul, Dr. William A. Evans, Dr. Benjamin Goldberg, and Health Commissioner Kegel gave brief addresses.

Mrs. Theodore Sachs, superintendent of the Tuberculosis institute, emphasized the fact that the Mexican population is more susceptible than other races to tuberculosis. Dr. A. de Gueyara, tuberculosis specialist, will have charge of the clinic. The center is the latest activity of the Tuberculosis institute financed by the Christmas seals.

ottled-Up Energy May Be at Root of Behavior Troubles

GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A list of toys and playthings for children from babyhood up will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-address envelope.

A letter says: "Being confronted th a problem which I find it hard solve. I have decided to ask your vice on the subject. My boy is 8 ars old, going to be 9 soon. Has al-ays showed signs of restlessness, hich I have tried to combat by mak-g him lead as peaceful a life as pos-ble, going to bed at a fairly early ur, etc.

"While he is not really bad, he gets to all sorts of mischief, particularly school, and is a trial to his teach-s, who I know try to be patient with m. I have done everything in my wer to cooperate with them, but thing seems to take effect. It seems at he is either talking out, or turn-g around, or doing something of e sort that he shouldn't.

"I will appreciate it immensely, if u can find the time to answer this tter, and if you will suggest any-ing I can do to remedy the above ndition."

The more I see of boys of this age d the years that follow along into e early teens, the more convinced am that they are in need—really al-ost desperate need—of a great deal vigorous play to get rid of the ex-s energy that piles up in them day day.

Boys usually have—if they are nor-al and in good health—an abounding tality. But especially in the city—d sometimes in the country, too—e routine of their lives does not give em a fraction of the outlet for that tality that they need. And when ey live in apartments without yards gardens, or in some other restrict-d way, it really becomes necessary r a mother to set herself quite de-berately to the task of providing me way for her boy or boys to let steam. What that is, her own case ill have to determine, depending on what is available in the way of rd, park, gym, companions, and me. On Saturdays, Sundays, and lidays the father of the boys can do part, in jaunts, hikes, games to-ther, etc.

It is right that children should lead aceful, well ordered lives, with anty of sleep and good food. But any growing boys are of the active, ely, energetic sort that this boy ems to be, and in order to live at ace with themselves and every one e they have to get rid of that great ysical energy. If no legitimate out-t offers they'll overflow into mis-evousness, disorderliness at school, d restlessness.

Many behavior difficulties come m this very vigor which ferments thin, causing discontent; disobedi-ce or trouble at school. Working off that surplus energy will add to the peacefulness and well orderedness of the whole family.

Try giving your restless, mischievous young sons plenty of opportunity to let off steam. See what happens.

At the Barber Shop.

I left the "L" reluctantly, after a heated argument with my friend about long skirts, to visit the barber shop in a certain department store. I continued thinking of the argument while in the chair.

When asked, "How long do you want your sides?" I replied, "O, about an inch below the knee." Then I realized what I had said, gulped, and said, "I mean an inch below my ear tips." H. T.

Society Turns Toward Europe for Diversion

BY THALIA

The "going abroad" movement is well under way, and you'll scarcely be able to put your finger on any spot of the European map that won't be visited during the spring or summer by fashionable Chicagoans.

Some of the beau monde already have set sail, some of them are at the packing stage, others are going through the disillusioning process of having new passport pictures taken, and still more are consulting steamship schedules and making the all important booking arrangements.

The Gustavus F. Swifts of 1551 Astor street are planning to sail this month for Europe on the same boat the A. Watson Armours and their son, Charles, are going on. The Swifts plan to travel for several months, and the Armours will return in late May, bringing with them their daughter, Elsa, the W. McCormick Blairs' Helen, and Beatrice Kirk, the Walter R. Kirks' daughter, all of whom have been studying in Paris this winter. The girls are all listed among the debutantes for next winter.

Mrs. John E. May of the Ambassador hotel, who is just recently back from a West Indies cruise, plans to be in Europe for the whole summer. Before she sails she will have a long visit with her son-in-law and daughter, the Robert Hall Warrens (Harriet May) of New York City.

And, speaking of European trips, I heard the other day of a novel solution to the bon voyage attentions to departing friends problem. It is a problem, you know, because you never can think of anything different. Flowers usually are in the way and get sent to the dining room, and there is always a quantity of unwanted candy and fruit to bestow on the stewardess at the end of the trip. One ingenious bachelor bethought himself of arranging with the dining room steward (it can be done by telegraphing, too) to have wine served at the first meal served after the 3 mile limit was passed. The scheme was joyfully appreciated by the particular recipients of his "treat," who told on their return what a cute idea it was, and now it is being used again and again with gratifying results.

The Dobbs Ferry alumnæ are to give a tea this afternoon at Mrs. Sterling Morton's apartment at 179 Lake Shore drive for Miss Maude Strayer, who is to show moving pictures taken recently at the Masters school at Dobbs Ferry. Mrs. Henry Rumsey and Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy are to pour.

If you think there isn't going to be a crush at the Arts club tea next Friday afternoon, you just don't know! It is to be given for Thornton Wilder, and the knowledge that he is to be present in person is a mighty powerful attraction, or I'm no judge of social impulses. Why, when it became known that he was to give special and advanced courses in literature and writing at the University of Chicago this coming semester all the fashionable women who have been taking a try at writing lately besieged any likely "connections" to get them into the classes that are barred to those who have not completed the proper credit requirements. But Mr. Wilder is not going to be available for much social lionizing if he can manage it. His schedule will be so strenuous that he plans to stick to his work and evade, if possible, most of the invitations that will assail him.

Mrs. Wesley Dixon and several other members of the Junior league arts and interests committee are going to compose a reception committee for Ellery Walter when he arrives in Chicago next Saturday morning. Mr. Walter is to give the fourth and last of a series of programs arranged by the committee at the Blackstone hotel on next Monday afternoon. His subject is "The World on One Leg," a literal title. Mrs. Dixon, Mrs. Stephen Y. Hord, and Mrs. Louis Sudler are to give a luncheon for him at the Blackstone before his appearance, and after his talk he will autograph copies of his book to be sold for the benefit of the league.

The Parish Guild of the Church of the Holy Spirit is to give an Easter bakery and flower sale on April 19 at one of the shops on the Lake Forest town square. Mrs. Uri B. Grannis, president of the guild, is in charge of the arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Seipp of 2340 Lincoln Park West and their daughter, Pauline, who is at Mount Vernon seminary in Washington, D. C., are at Hot Springs, Va., for Miss Pauline's spring vacation. Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Cudahy and their family, Col. and Mrs. William Nelson Pelouze, Mrs. William Waller Jr., Mrs. Charles I. Pierce and Charles Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes and their son, Nelson Jr., are other Chicagoans at Hot Springs.

A two family group consisting of Mrs. George R. Nichols Jr., her two sons, Frank B. and George R. Nichols III., the boys' grandfather, Dr. Frank Billings, and Mrs. Louise DeKoven Phelps and her son, Hubbard, are in Bermuda for a school vacation outing.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Jennings of 4346 Drexel boulevard announce the birth of a daughter, on March 22, at St. Luke's hospital. Mrs. Jennings was Miss Beatrice Fowler before her marriage.

Plans Lenten Services.

Methodist Church Dedicated.

The new $300,000 Wesley Methodist church at Aurora was dedicated yesterday at special services conducted by Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of Chicago. The new church building replaced the thirty year old Galena Boulevard Methodist church. The Rev. W. M. Briggs is pastor of the Wesley church.

The marriage of Miss Katherine Harrison Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Brown of Evanston, to Robert Lindsay Scott Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lindsay Scott of Evanston, is to take place on June 28 at St. Luke's church in Evanston. The engagement was announced last fall.

Boy Asks Girl to a Show; She Brings Along Five Friends

BY DORIS BLAKE.

What would you do were you a young man of 23 in love with a girl who on your show date evening with her was ready and waiting for you with FIVE girl friends lined up to be taken along?

Grab for your hat and run? Or feel for your purse to see if it were in healthy enough condition to stand the strain?

I say that is taking advantage of a fellow. Especially when he was informed beforehand that there was to be but one extra girl and another man.

Girls are funny that way. They either won't let their girl friends get a look at their beau at all or they are so proud of him that they want to exhibit him to all of them. And good beaux have been lost both ways—by being cornered or being too generously distributed.

In case you are interested to know the outcome of the five plus one girl party, Anthony bore up like a gentleman, took his punishment, and didn't enjoy his evening at all. He must have felt like a gentleman who asks the blonde cutie second from the end to come to dine with him and the whole Tiller troup came along!

Anyway, in these perilous times it doesn't seem like good business acumen to ring in the whole neighborhood. And just to prove that one successful party at your beau's expense insures no permanent solution of your own personal social obligations, Anthony's second experience bears me out. Yes, the girls had such a good time the first evening they tried it again. They must have got the poor fellow mixed up with Anthony of Padua and his reputation as a friend of women.

The second time Anthony called up first. Learning the whole sewing circle was there awaiting him, he said to his girl: "I'll call up again when you are not engaged."

Now what Anthony would like to be reassured on is: Was he not within his rights in asking to be notified beforehand of a possible girl deluge? Also, if it wasn't taking a good deal for granted? Answer to 1—yes. To 2—YES!

The secretary of commerce and Mrs. Robert P. Lamont have as their guests their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Belknap of New York.

The secretary of agriculture and Mrs. Hyde returned today from Boston. Their daughter, Miss Caroline Hyde, is with them for the spring holidays.

Churches Can Redeem Chicago's Reputation, Rev. S. E. Keeler Says

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Chicago's reputation is worth redeeming and it can be redeemed if the Christian churches of the city do what they are expected to do, according to the Rev. Dr. Stephen E. Keeler, rector of St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church, yesterday afternoon. Dr. Keeler spoke before 3,500 members of 179 Protestant churches gathered at the Auditorium theater in a jubilee meeting celebrating the results of the Greater Chicago visitation evangelism campaign.

In extending greetings to the cooperating workers from the various churches the Rev. Dr. Joshua Oden, pastor of the Irving Park Lutheran church, declared the campaign, now officially closed, marks the beginning of a new fellowship heretofore unknown in organized religious work in Chicago. He pointed out the 15,000 decisions to attend churches definitely known to have been made, together with the continuation of the personal evangelistic spirit which will reach out to much greater numbers.

The Rev. Dr. Keeler declared that the campaign marked a revival of first century methods of extending church membership and referred to the New Testament characters, Philip and Nathanael, as examples of the early method of evangelism.

"People may say Philip had the advantage of the presence of Christ to spur on his evangelistic zeal in calling Nathanael," Dr. Keeler said, "but we often forget that today we have the church which is the representative of Christ."

Philips and Nathanaels make up the population of Chicago, Dr. Keeler declared. He pointed out that the Nathanaels can be won, if the churches will get back to their real work.

In the district reports the Rev. James E. Congdon reported 491 new church members in Englewood. Reporting for Hyde Park the Rev. Perry J. Stackhouse gave the number of 344 new members. Edgewater churches gained over 500, according to the Rev. Dr. Asa J. Ferry. The largest gain reported by any one congregation was the Irving Park Lutheran church, of which Dr. Oden is pastor, with 388 accessions. The Edgewater district reports 2,100 prospective church members who are yet to be visited.

3 Cases of Reptiles.

Three large cases of reptiles and amphibians will be added to the collections in Albert W. Harris hall at the Field Museum of Natural History today. Women Voters Place 23 on Roll of Honor

Washington, D. C., March 30.—(AP)—With the late Susan B. Anthony leading, the names of 23 women, memorialized by their home states as leaders in the women's suffrage movement, were announced today as a partial national roll of honor by the Lague of Women Voters.

A $250,000 foundation fund for the league is being amassed with the memorializing of the women leaders. A memorial tablet or scroll also will mark this phase of the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the nineteenth amendment. Definite plans, however, have not been decided upon yet.

The complete national roll of honor is to be announced at the annual League of Women Voters convention in Louisville, Ky., May 1, in a formal report by the jury of award.

The names announced today, with the states to which they are credited, follow:

Susan B. Anthony, Kansas; Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Iowa; the late Dr. Anna Howard Shaw and Mrs. Wilbur Brotherton, Michigan; Mrs. George Gellhorn, Missouri; the late Mrs. Isabelle Beecher Hooker and Miss Caroline Ruutz-Rees, Connecticut; Miss Julia Lathrop, the late Mrs. Florence Sylvester Cheney, and the late Mrs. Katherine Hancock Goode, Illinois; Alice Stone Blackwell, the late Julia Ward Howe, and the late Lucy Stone, Massachusetts; Mrs. Harriett Taylor Upton and Judge Florence E. Whistler and Zorn Etchings Hang Near Rifka Angel's "Art"

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Knoedler gallery opens today an exhibit of extremely fine etchings by Zorn, Whistler, Lefere, and McBey, and lithographs by Joseph Pennell. It is just as well to linger a bit in the first room where these are shown, for the next room will prove something of a shock. The gallery is not limiting itself to an etching exhibit. No, indeed. It is also sponsoring two exhibits of paintings, one by a woman who goes by the name of Rifka Angel, and the other canvases by Ramon Shiva.

Of course, the name Rifka Angel is enough to arouse speculation. When you consider the pictures for which this name is responsible, speculation is a mild term for the confusion into which you are thrown. Is this, then, art? Has painting descended so low that this nonsense can be shown seriously on the walls of a legitimate gallery and be expected to receive consideration? Rifka Angel's pictures are remotely related to the whimsies of Nura, but Nura has imagination and a gorgeous conception of arrangement and drawing and color. Nura is light and fantastic, an Alice in the dress of Columbine, while Rifka Angel comes on clumping feet bringing disorder.

So remarkably futile are these pictures that it is a waste of ink and paper to treat of them. Yet, some people may take them seriously—these figurines for which the aptest criticism is an emphatic "blah" and these wretched animals who roll their eyes in hindered effort at escape with a long "ah" on their muted lips.

From this jungle of incompetency we go into a third room where Ramon Shiva has hung several of his earlier paintings. They come as a distinct relief. The "Easter Lilies" stands out strongly. It is a nude figure of a colored girl, her back to us, her face in profile, standing easily beside a table on which a pot of Easter lilies blooms. The background is a checkered blue. Two other paintings of figures, portraits of young girls, whites, are quaintly restful in an atmosphere of old-fashioned charm. The night paintings possess a great deal of beauty.

Ramon Shiva shows what he was here; in the last room he shows what he stands for today. Of the paintings here the detached, solid, matter-of-fact interiors with Negro women as the piece de resistance are exhibition paintings, pure and simple. The drawing of "Chicago" is rather effective symbolism and the lines are good. The rest are of no special importance. In "going modern" Mr. Shiva has put himself in the way of a real loss.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

This dressy model is just the thing for afternoons, dinner or Sunday evening occasions. The scarf collar is caught at the center front by a buckle and falls softly over the shoulders with flying ends at the back. The flat hips are encircled by a girdle that is shirred at either side as well as the center front, and the circular skirt is shaped with a fitted hipline, widening towards the bottom, where it shows a rippling fullness. Printed silk crêpes, black silk crêpe or a purple-blue crêpe Elizabeth are pleasing suggestions.

The pattern, 3312, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4¾ yards of 39 inch material.

Tiny Short Sleeves and Puffs Require Smooth, Lovely Arms

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Arms are going to be the cynosure of critical eyes a bit later on. Those irresistible puffs ending a few inches down from the shoulder are going to lure a lot of women into revealing their arms this summer.

The sleeveless frock we have with us each succeeding warm spell. But it is the tiny sleeves, the quarter and half length, that are going to show up arms, because the novelty of the sleeve will attract the eye thereto.

Now is the time—not a week or so before, or a day or two after the frock is bought—that one should get busy with arms that need attention. We do not guarantee that you are going to be able to fatten skinny ones in a short space of time. They fatten only when fat is added all over the body. But a thin arm, unless it is cadaverously thin, is never the eyesore that a superfluously weighted one can be.

But it isn't the excessively large arm so much as the kind of skin on it we had in beauty mind today. I understand that certain wide-awake beauty parlors are preparing for the spring and summer onrush. They are broadcasting the importance of massaging the arms as well as the face and throat. The skin will be required to be equally smooth and satin finished on both exposures.

But one can do a whole lot toward offering a presentable arm by the removal of dark shadows due to superfluous hair on the forearm; also by bleaching out a heavy freckle crop, which often shows an exposed arm off disadvantageously.

The superfluous hair surface being, as a rule, of rather wide area, the electrolysis treatment seems rather too expensive for the average person to consider. Depilatories may be used quite safely if the directions are followed carefully. If the growth is not heavy the bleaching process may be sufficient. Peroxide and ammonia or peroxide alone are the usual bleach recommendations. They will lighten the hairs so that they pass practically unnoticed.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Disregard Teasing.

"Dear Miss Blake: The fellow who took me home twice told my friend he doesn't speak to me because the boys and girls tease him. Please advise. "WAITING."

Tell him to disregard what his friends say, and they will soon tire of their teasing.

Superfluous Cousin.

"Dear Miss Blake: When I ask my girl friend to go out with me she says her cousin is coming. "FRANZ."

It seems to me she could arrange with her cousin to come some other time if she were anxious to go out with you.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

D. H.: PEROXIDE, DILUTED with water, half and half, makes an excellent bleach for the elbows. Lemon juice is also good. Massage the elbows with cold cream to remove the dirt and grime.

M. K. R.: THE BEST SOURCES of iron are eggs, especially the yolks, green vegetables such as spinach and lettuce, dried fruits such as raisins, figs and dates, and the whole grain cereals.

Premet's New Cape Meets with Success

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—What goes into the making of an ensemble this spring is just as important as that which goes into the concoction of a cake, for in both cases a delicious lightness is essential. For this reason the new printed stuffs that are a big part of Paris styles are recommended as not likely to fall into unfashionable sogginess.

The most fashionable ensembles of dress and wrap are often made of the new tweed printed flat and transparent crêpes. Paris transfers the chevrons, broken checks, shadow plaids, etc., of tweeds to silks this season, and the Premet ensemble shown in our sketch makes use of a tweed patterned crêpe marocain (crêpe canton in American language) for its newish kind of cape, and of crêpe georgette in the same pattern for its dress.

This Premet cape is having a big success, because it has the romantic grace of the cape, and the stay-put quality of the coat. Such a wrap is easy to make and easy to wear. It is cut in one piece, a big rectangle with a circular ruffle at the bottom. This rectangle is thrown over the shoulders and hangs almost to the normal waistline in front, while it falls almost to the knees—including the ruffle—in back. Ties of the red, white, and black silk attach it at the neck, and a half-sash of the same stuff begins at the sides of the waistline and ties at the center front. The lower cape is attached to this sash.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

The Year Around Pear.

Just the other day the lovely little red cheeked Forelle pear was to be had in the market at a reasonable price per dozen. This pear makes a wonderful spring dessert item, especially for such people as like sweets but who should limit their indulgence in them. The Beurre d'Anjou is also in the market in late winter and early spring. It is a gratifying ingredient for the pear salads or such a combination as the Lorenzo salad of raw pear, cress, and lettuce.

By the way, there is one grave fault to be found with this salad as it is presented at hotels. They use four times as much dressing as is reasonable. The dainty qualities of the ingredients in this salad should not be obscured by a dressing containing such strong elements as the chili sauce.

There is some difference of opinion now about whether a salad should be cut or not. The old theory was that it should not, but when a sprig of cress has been completely immersed in a salad dressing, it is an awkward thing to eat. There is another side to it which is a bit entertainingly presented by Sommerville Storey in his little book, "Dining in Paris."

He says: "Salad should never be cut, so that if one sees a pretty diner convey a leaf of salad to her pomegranate mouth with her dainty, bejeweled fingers, be sure this is much preferable to using hard steel on the delicate green leaf, and more picturesque than trying to stuff it into her mouth whole with her fork, at the risk of greasing her nose!" But her dainty nose will wash, and it is much more disagreeable to grease one's gown because of a too liquid, spattery salad.

If you have never tried eating part of a romaine salad or one of cress plain from your fingers without any dressing at all, or eating a little of the pear that comes to you fresh cut straight from the fingers, before you add a dressing, you have a pleasant experience in store for you. Have the waiter bring your salad dressing separately and experiment a little with the native flavors of the ingredients before you drown them in what may be much too strong a dressing, and especially nibble the pear.

36 PREP TEAMS ENTER U. OF C. CAGE TOURNEY

National Meet Begins Tomorrow.

Thirty-six high school and academy basketball teams begin a five day elimination tournament tomorrow at Bartlett gymnasium in the twelfth annual University of Chicago national interscholastic.

John Reagan High of Houston, Tex., and Linsley institute of Wheeling, W. Va., will open the meet at 11 a. m. Play will be continuous until 10 p. m. Finals will be played Saturday night.

Twenty-six states are represented. Included are seventeen state champions and three runner-ups, as well as several Catholic schools and academies. The entry is four less than last year.

Several States Declined Invitations.

Several states had to decline invitations because of the national federation's ban on interscholastics, but the inclusion of Catholic and academy teams makes the tournament as representative as those of other years. South Dakota, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Arizona, Ohio, Utah, and Colorado were the states unable to compete.

It was planned to limit the entry to 32 teams, but last minute requests ran it to thirty-six. A place had been saved for the Wyoming champion, as a state-wide subscription raised funds for the local winner. Wheatland defeated Casper for the title by one point in the final game, after Casper had administered the first defeat of the season to Wheatland the day before. Casper civic leaders pleaded that the runner-up be accepted and Nelson Norgren, manager of the meet, acquiesced.

Northwestern Military academy of Lake Geneva, Wis., with a team that has lost only one game, and Mount Carmel of Chicago, which lost a one point decision to De La Salle, the national Catholic champions, rounded out the field.

Four Chicago Teams Compete.

Three other Chicago teams are competing, Central Y. M. C. A. Day school, Morgan Park High school, city runner-up, and Morgan Park Military academy. Mount Carmel will be the first of this quartet to go into action, meeting New Brunswick, New Jersey champion, at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Morgan Park High drew Burlington, Vermont champion, for an 8 o'clock game tomorrow night.

Morgan Park Military academy plays Durham, North Carolina titleholder, at 2 o'clock Wednesday, and the Y. M. C. A. Day school drew Robert E. Lee of Jacksonville, Florida champion, for a 5 o'clock game the same day.

The usual consolation tournament will be held for teams defeated in the first round. All but three of the games in the championship and consolation brackets will be played in Bartlett gymnamium, three of the first round consolation tilts being scheduled for the Y. M. C. A. college gymnasium Wednesday afternoon. First round pairings:

Waitresses Risk $1.50; Win $12,000 in Race Lottery

New York, March 30.—[Special.]—Three waitresses who toil over sloshy tables in the Hollywood coffee shop on upper 2d avenue chipped in 50 cents each to buy ticket No. 11,942 in one of Grand National lotteries operated in England. Then they forgot about it and didn't even read who won the steeplechase classic in England Friday.

But today one of the waitresses, Bubbles Jobe, 21, received a cable telling her ticket, No. 11942, had won a $12,000 prize. That means $4,000 each for Bubbles, her sister, Sophie, 19, and a waitress named Margaret, whose last name is unknown to the sisters. Margaret left the Hollywood coffee shop shortly after the girls bought the ticket.

The Jobe sisters seemed more puzzled than happy today. They said they thought they'd buy their widowed mother a home in their native Chicopee, Mass., and go back there to live. But until they have the $12,000 in hand the girls will continue to mop up coffee stained counters.

Canadiens Beat Rangers in Playoff; Meet Bruins

New York, March 30.—(AP)—Les Canadiens of Montreal defeated the New York Rangers, 2 to 0, tonight to go into the final round of the Stanley cup playoffs with their second successive victory over the New Yorkers. The victory qualified them to meet the Boston Bruins, present holders of the world's championship trophy.

Les Canadiens had taken the first game, a long overtime struggle, in Montreal Friday by a 2 to 1 score.

FOUR SOX HIT HOME RUNS, BUT N. Y. WINS, 10-8

Spring Series Now Even at 5 Games Each.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Dallas, Tex., March 30.—Capt. Travis Jackson of the New York Giants this afternoon made a home run with the bases full in the first inning of the game with the White Sox, and Teddy Lyons doing the pitching, too. All of which should have been enough to wreck the ball game. But it didn't, though the Giants eventually won, 10 to 8. The affair turned out to be the most exciting of the spring series.

The Sox made their eight runs after the Giants had enjoyed a 7 to 0 lead. In the eighth Donie Bush's boys scored three runs, had the tying run on third and the marker that would have put them in front on first. In the last of the ninth, after the Giants had added two runs in the first half of the inning, the Sox staged another rally which netted a run and had the bags full when the contest ended.

A sad factor in the collapse of the two rallies was the fact that in each Bill Kamm stood with his bat on his shoulder while the third strike was being thrown past him.

Series Now Tied Up.

The trimming our nine took today brought the count to five games won and five games lost in their series with the Giants. The two outfits will not clash again until April 7, when they meet at Evansville.

Aside from the two rallies the American leaguers got a mite of consolation by acquiring four homers, one each by Cissel, Harris, Jeffries, and Jolley. Red Faber, making his first appearance of the spring, knocked a two base hit and Shires got a double also. Shires' two bagger with Harris on first missed being a homer by inches. It came in the eighth inning rally and Harris was thrown out at the plate. Shires, however, scored the third run of the inning, going to third on Watwood's single and coming in on Blackerby's single.

Having skipped hither and thither in setting down the foregoing items, we'll now start at the beginning and tell you about the wicked way the Giants acted in the early part of the afternoon.

Fisher walked, but Reese flied to Harris and Leach fouled to Clancy. Terry singled and Fisher stopped at second. Ott walked, filling the bases. Maybe Lyons hadn't heard it, but in National league circles it is considered fatal to pitch inside to Mr. Jackson. Anyhow, Ted gave Mr. McGraw's captain one designed to graze his belt buckle. Whereupon the batsman stepped back and smacked it into the left field bleachers, scoring Fisher, Terry, and Ott ahead of him. Then Jeffries threw out Marshall.

Faber Starts Third Inning.

Lyons came back the next inning and retired the side in order, but that was his last work of the day, for Red Faber was sent in at the start of the third inning.

The Giants didn't treat old Red very nice, either, during his initial pitching. Reese singled to center and scored ahead of Leach when Freddie knocked the ball over the right field screen. Terry singled to center and Ott did likewise, putting Terry on third. Jackson rolled to Kamm, who threw to Riddle. Riddle ran down Terry between third and home, but tossed the ball past third trying to get Ott coming into the base. Ott ran home on the error. Kamm threw out Marshall and O'Farrell was out, Clancy to Faber.

In the Sox third Faber doubled, Jeffries flied out to Ott, and Cissell knocked a homer, scoring Faber ahead of him. Reynolds walked and was forced by Jolley, after which Harris walked. But the inning ended when Kamm lined to Leach.

McKain Goes to Slab.

The Giants made a run in the fifth after a double play had been executed by Faber, Jeffries and Clancy. Ott walked and was driven home by Jackson's double. Marshall rolled out to Clancy.

Harris' homer gave the Sox a run

Spring Baseball Training Seems Just a Dull Chore

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 30.—Next to a tournament for the class B flycasting championship of the middle Atlantic states, the most monotonous sport assignment that I can imagine nowadays is that of covering the so-called news of a baseball team in one of the so-called training camps down south.

PRIMO CARNERA.

In the first place, no ball club ever goes into a camp for training and consequently there is no camp life with which to adorn a dispatch. The clubs take quarters in very commonplace American hotels, most of they called the Royal James Arms, Princess Emma, or the New Park hotel, and the athletes are to be distinguished from the rest of the guests chiefly by their social inertia.

Sensitive Natures Guarded.

This trait of the players nowadays is due in part to the enforcement of the advanced ideas of industrial efficiency, forbidding them to frequent the local speakeasies, gamble for money, or stay out beyond half past ten p. m., or play tricks on the new boys lest their sensitive natures be wounded and their careers blighted with a consequent loss to the management of the amount paid down on the purchase price.

Few of the players have any conversational gift, so at night they go to the moving pictures, or sit in the hotel lobbies with an occasional visit to the cigar counter for a few words of banter with the lady presiding there, who will have it understood that she is a respectable married woman and not to be kidded beyond the bounds of innocent, gentlemanly fun.

In the morning before the baseball writers are yet awake, the ball players will be at the practice ground going through precisely the same gesticulations which precede every one of the 154 ball games of the league season, to wit: Infield practice, outfield practice, hitting practice, bullpen work and pep work, all accompanied by forced cries of "Hi, boy," "Atta boy," "Let's go," and "The ol' pepper, boy."

Then Come the Injuries.

In the afternoon while the baseball writers are at their golf, there will be another round of the same until the club, after two or three weeks of this begins to play practice games with the other teams quartered in the same general vicinity. But, in the meantime, there will have been two or three cases of split finger, charley horse and toothache, all of which will be treated by the club trainer, whose name, of course, will be Doc.

He will let it be known that the cure was wrought by his own liniment which is now being produced on a commercial basis, in response to popular demand, and due mention will be made of this magic remedy, to be duly deleted by the copy desks.

Presently, to offset the cost of the baseballs used in practice and filched from the road secretary's trunks by the athletes to be handed out as souvenirs to admirers who never even heard of them before, the club will break camp, as the phrase goes, and take to the road to barnstorm its way home.

Sometimes for the purposes of this tour, two major league teams will go together to play one another day after day, weather and railroad schedules permitting, but generally a team goes its way alone, crossing the trails of various other teams, meeting on the field, in railroad stations, on isolated sidings late at night, or in hotel lobbies as one club moves in and the other moves out.

There will be hearty yells of greeting as the boys pass, like traveling drummers, but of course nobody is surprised at meeting anybody else because the ball clubs canvass the southern country very thoroughly in the spring.

Why Criticize Primo?

I have been hearing some very disparaging remarks about Primo Carnera's American campaign and was of a mind to twit him some myself, but it must be admitted that he has a very respectable precedent in the spring baseball exhibitions of the major league ball clubs.

Primo has been knocking over some pathetic setups for the entertainment of the rustics way out yonder and way down yonder, but it strikes me that if the New York Yankees may pick on a class D ball club in Jacksonville, Fla., charging admission at the turnstiles, then Primo need not apologize for leaning his weight against old Farmer Lodge, Jim Sigman, or Jack McAuliffe.

The Yankees frankly state that these contests are not to be taken seriously but I don't believe Primo or any of his imported or domestic managers will claim the heavyweight championship of the world on the strength of anything he has been doing to the class D boys up to date.

Primo is simply out barnstorming like the Yankees, Giants, and White Sox and, if it be fair enough for ball clubs, prohibition debaters and other native American barnstormers to play for the gate, the same privilege should be accorded the guest artist of the roped arena.

Come Home Wearily.

After two or three weeks of this prowling through the minor leagues, the ball clubs arrive at their respective bases, pretty well done up. The men will have been sleeping in Pullmans and eating in lunch counters to save a few quarters out of their per capita allowance of $3.50 per day and those who aren't taking pills for heartburn, will be taking quinine for the flu. It is the end of a tedious, wearing journey following a month of blank monotony in the Royal James Arms, the Princess Emma, or the New Park hotel. They now look forward to fresh vegetables and to cream instead of canned milk for their cereal in the morning.

The baseball reporter then goes out to cover the opening game of the regular season and as he sits in the press coop, blowing on his fingers to warm them and looks down at the familiar figures on the field, he sees, what? He sees the boys at infield practice, outfield practice, hitting practice, bullpen work and pep work, all accompanied by forced cries of "Hi, boy"; "Atta boy," "Let's go," and "The ol' pepper, boy."

Cubs to Prepare Today for Renewal of Angel Series

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 30.—The Cubs can have tomorrow to themselves except for about two hours in which Boss McCarthy is going to give them a workout at Wrigley field. On Tuesday they resume their schedule with the Angels.

The Pirates moved out of California immediately after today's game. They play at Tucson, Ariz., tomorrow in the first of a series of arguments on the kerosene lamp circuit.

Root got a bit peevish over being hit on the arm by Brame in the third. Just to show he didn't like the treatment he knocked down several of the Pirate batters in their half of the same inning.

Brickell staged a great diving, rolling catch of Grimm's fly in the eighth, but gave his left leg so severe a twist that it was necessary for him to retire. A moment later P. Waner raced to the foul line to accomplish a back handed catch of a long fly off Hornsby's bat.

The attendance today was 20,164 of which there were more than 17,000 paid. The figures for the previous three games were 23,000.

Pie Traynor, the Pirates' star third sacker, started for Pittsburgh today. He is going there with hopes that a specialist can correct the eye trouble which threatens to keep him out of the game indefinitely.

REPLACES ROOT ALLOWS 2 HITS IN SIX INNINGS

20,000 See Final of Four Game Series.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 30.—The champion Cubs today proved there is something to the old adage about sticking to a job until you master it. For three days their old friends, the Pirates, had treated them shamefully, but this afternoon the Chicago title holders made partial amends by thumping the ball and taking the finale of the pre-season series, 13 to 7, before 20,000.

As a means of demonstrating their dissatisfaction over the previous battles of the series, the Cubs rolled up fifteen hits. A half dozen of these blows, among them a homer by Cuyler, were crowded into the third inning, when, with the assistance of errors, seven runs were scored. These tallies, however, were only enough to balance what the Buccos scored in three rounds off Charley Root, but from there to the finish the Cubs continued to be active, whereas the enemy was stopped cold by the relief hurling of Guy Bush.

Only 2 Hits Off Bush.

Root's first appearance of the spring against serious opposition was a dismal appointment. He yielded seven hits in his three innings of toil. One of these was a homer with two on in the second by Brame, the hostile starting pitcher. But the hilarity conducted at Root's expense ceased the instant Bush appeared in the fourth. He handcuffed them fast balls and curves until they had them groping blindly in the cloud laden atmosphere. Only two singles were eked from his delivery in all six rounds.

The business of scoring in a big way began in the second when a chapter of three runs was picked off Root's delivery. Suhr started this affair by singling to right. Mosolf was retired on a pop to Hartnett, and Bartell on a lofter to Wilson. Hemsley renewed the disturbance by lining a single to right. Then Brame, who is a real hitter even though a pitcher, slapped a homer into the right field bleachers for three runs.

Hartnett Starts Rally.

The Cubs didn't hesitate about getting back the runs and a few more for good measure. Hartnett tripled with one out in the third. Brame's fourth pitch to Root hit the Cub star on the right arm, and he strolled to first. A pass to Beck loaded the sacks. Grimm bounced to short, and there should have been a double play, but Engle, in his haste to get the ball to first, lost Beck by failing to touch second. Grimm, however, was out, Hartnett scored on the play.

Hornsby continued the attack by singling to score Root and Beck. Wilson also singled, and when Waner fumbled, Hornsby headed for third. Clark let Waner's throw of third roll to the dugout, and Wilson moved down to second, while Hornsby remained at third. Cuyler stepped up at this point with greetings of the season to his old boss, Barney Dreyfuss. Kiki hammered the ball into the farthest point of the bleacher in center, driving Hornsby and Hack home. Then a double by Stephenson and a single by Blair sent across the seventh and last run of the chapter.

Stephenson Muffs Fly.

An error by Stephenson helped the Pirates to the four runs with which they brought about a 7 to 7 tie in the second half of the third. Root started the session by walking Engle, after which P. Waner singled. Both scored on a triple off Clark's bat. Clark hiked home while Suhr was being thrown out. Then Stevie committed a two base muff of a fly by Mosolf, who scored when Bartell doubled.

McCarthy's men responded with two runs in the fourth as a means of shattering the tie. The rally began when Danny Taylor, batting for Root, doubled against the bleacher. Beck fanned, but Grimm punctured left with a single, D. Taylor counting. Hemsley let the throw to the plate elude him, so Grimm took second. He scored on a two bagger by Hornsby.

The Cubs kept on going with a pair scored by a simple process in the fifth. Blair opened the session with a single, and Hartnett followed with a homer. The sixth was equally productive. Wilson doubled and Cuyler walked. Stevie uncorked a hit to center Hack to the counter and Cuyler was third. The latter registered when Stevie was being forced on Blair's grounder.

Detroit Man Owns Grand Prize Victor.

Champion Ardmore Keepsake, a Scotch terrier owned by Robert McGinvin of Detroit, wan grand prize in the Chicago Kennel club's 29th annual dog show at the First Regiment armory, which closed last night. In winning the John C. Eastman trophy the Detroit entry was judged superior to 800 other canine aristocrats which have been on display for the last three days.

Prospector of Walnut Hill was rated best of the cocker spaniels. He is the property of Mrs. Harkness Edwards of Lexington, Ky.

Highest honors among the Irish terriers went to Kenowis Cary Miles, owned by Kenowis kennels of Barrington, Ill. Best of the doberman pinschers was Champion Vigaro V. Signalsburg, entered by Glenn S. Staines of Detroit.

Champion Toto, a French poodle, owned by Mrs. William Jacobs of Highland Park, was judged best of the nonsporting group. The competition for toy dogs was won by a fluffy fawn colored Pomeranian named Champion Lady Bellba, which is the property of Mrs. Nat Goldstein of St. Louis.

Hawks Start Barnstorming Trip to Coast

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Eight of the fighting Blackhawks, who finished second in the National Hockey league, left Chicago yesterday on a barnstorming trip before they scatter to their summer occupations.

The first stop will be at Tulsa, Okla., for a game with the Oilers of the American association, followed by games in Oakland, Los Angeles, San Francisco and the more northern cities of the Pacific Coast league.

Personnel of Squad.

The eight making the jaunt under the management of Coach Dick Irvin are Chuck Gardiner, goaler; Teddy Graham and Helge Bostrum, defense; Tommy Cook and Vic Ripley, centers, and Johnny Gottselig, Frank Ingram, and Earl Miller, wings.

Meanwhile, for the next six months, Maj. Frederic McLaughlin and Bill Tobin, president and manager of the Hawks, will be trying to make trades to improve next year's team. In all probability—this is this writer's guess—Bostrum, Stewart Adams, Frank Ingram, Ty Arbour, and Teddy Graham won't be wearing the black and white next year.

Rumor Names New Coach.

Rumor has it that Dick Irvin is to be superseded as coach, while the others may be traded. One rumor is that Emil Iverson, present coach of the University of Minnesota, is to coach the Hawks next year.

Among the possible replacements are McNeill, star defense man of the Edmonton Juniors, while a collegiate ziggie may be added should Danny McFayden, Marquette university star, decide to turn professional. Marty Burke, defense man of Les Canadiens; Harold Darragh, Pittsburgh wing, and Laurie Aurie, Detroit wing, are among those mentioned in talk of trades.

NEWPORT, KY., TEAM WINS IN K. C. PIN MEET

Bowie Meeting Opens Eastern Turf Season

New York, March 30.—[Special.]—The eastern racing season will begin Tuesday when the first race is run at Bowie, the plant of the Southern Maryland Agricultural association, midway between Baltimore and Washington. About 1,000 horses are at the course, among them many good juveniles and a large sprinkling of the better class handicap horses which have been brought along rapidly for the opening day stake, the Inaugural handicap. This is a seven furlong sprint for a purse which includes $5,000 in added money.

Eleven days will be the duration of the Bowie meting, and on April 14 the scene will shift to Havre de Grace. The metropolitan New York season opens at Jamaica April 21.

Several Other Stakes.

During the Bowie meeting there will be several stakes which have attracted the attention of trainers and turf followers. In addition to the Inaugural handicap, the outstanding races are the $5,000 James Rowe Memorial handicap, which replaces the Capitol handicap; the $2,500 Bowie Kindergarten, and the $5,000 Prince George handicap, closing day feature. In all, about $175,000 in purse money will be distributed.

Harry Payne Whitney has a string of more than a score which will carry his colors. Other stables which will be represented are the Dixiana stud Edward B. McLean, H. Teller Archibald, E. P. Summerfield, George W. Loft, Dorwood stable, C. C. Smithson Chick Lang, and C. R. Fleishman.

Expects Representative Field.

Racing Secretary Joseph McLenan is confident that a representative field will go to the post in the Inaugural and already has announced receipt of the entries of Dinah Did Upset, Paul Bunyan, Genuine, Rapid Transit, Bocaratone, Wellet, Inception, Corporal Searger, and Royal Stranger. He expects the entries of Night Life, Balko, The Heathen, Prometheus, Star o' Morn, Sun Forward, and My Sis.

Giants Defeat Sox, 10 to 8; Square Series

in the sixth and Jeffries gave them another in the seventh. In the same inning the Giants were shut out, likewise in the eighth. Then came the Sox eighth. Reynolds was safe on Jackson's error and scored ahead of Jolley when J. Smead drove the ball high into the left field bleachers. Kamm was called out on strikes. Harris was out at the plate, Fisher to Marshall to O'Farrell, when he attempted to score on Shires' double off the right field screen.

Watwood batted for Riddle and singled off Reese's chest, Shires taking third. Blackerby batted for Garland and singled to center, scoring Shires, Blackerby going to third. Jeffries forced Blackerby, Jackson to Marshall.

With the score 8 to 7 in favor of the Giants, McKain went in to pitch the ninth inning. He walked Reese, who moved to second on Leach's sacrifice bunt. Terry walked. Hogan batted for Mostil and singled, scoring Reese. Jackson struck out. Marshall grounded to Cissell, who booted the ball, Terry scoring the last Giant run of the day. O'Farrell then fanned.

The ninth inning rally started with a single by Reynolds after Cissell had bounced out. When Jackson bobbled for the second time Jolley was safe and Reynolds sprinted to third. Harris followed with his third straight hit, a sizzling single to right, scoring Reynolds. Kamm again in the vital spot repeated his performance of the previous round by gazing helplessly at a third strike. Shires was safe on Terry's fumble to fill the bases. But with the tying and winning runs aboard, the best Berg could offer was an easy roller to Jackson, retiring the side.

Cleveland, O., March 30.—[Special.]—Sykes Thoma and Frankie Kartheiser of Chicago rolled into a tie for fifth place with Eddie and Jack Benton of Detroit in the doubles of the American Bowling congress tourney today.

The Chicago pair rang up 400, 463 and 431 counts to total 1,294. Thoma contributed games of 185, 201 and 223, totaling 609, while Kartheiser shot 215, 262 and 208, for a 685 total.

L. Heaney and C. Warczak of Cicero just missed landing among the ten doubles leaders when they mauled the maples for 399, 410 and 438, totaling 1,247.

Chicago will pin its hopes on the Henderson Plasterers and Duffy Florals to top the team division tomorrow night.

The Duffys as a team never have annexed an A. B. C. title, though all its members, Hank Marino, Dominick, Devito, Eddie Krems, Bill Brennan, and Phil Wolf, have won national tourney championships in either team, doubles or single events. The Hendersons, leaders of the Randolph league, are made up of Ben Bernicchi, Billy Goldammer, Bjorn Peterson, Eli Marcich, and Wally Freitag.

Bobby Scores 69; Recovers His Putting Touch

Augusta, Ga., March 30.—(AP)—Bobby Jones showed a 69 in a practice round over the Forrest Hills-Ricker course here today and thus served notice on the contingent of professional shooters that the Atlanta amateur was ready for his second battle of the year with the cash players.

Jones' card was just one stroke above the record for the course held by Ernest Ryall, professional at the club, who is also entered in the two-day $5,000 southeastern open golf tournament which starts here tomorrow. Virtually all of the more than three score golfers who plan to participate in the tournament engaged in practice rounds over the courses.

The first 36 holes tomorrow will be over the Hill course at the country club where 72 represents par for the rolling links. The championship rounds are to be fought Tuesday.

Lack of a putting touch cost Jones the victory in the Savannah open in February, but the Atlanta golfing barrister has his carpet shots rolling true and is ready for the fray. He went out in 35 and came back in 34 for his low score, collecting three birdies on the way and sinking several difficult putts of more than 20 feet.

Tulsa and Kansas City to Play for Hockey Title

Tulsa, Okla, March 30.—(AP)—Tulsa gained the right to meet Kansas City for the American Hockey association championship by defeating Duluth, 2 to 1, here today in the fourth and deciding game of their playoff series.

Birds on Golf Courses Earn Their Upkeep

BY BOB BECKER.

Golf and country clubs in Chicagoland can with little effort attract a large number of useful and ornamental birds to their courses and thus secure hundreds of unpaid workers that will wage a constant war on the insect foes of their greens and fairways.

In the east there is a growing movement among country clubs to encourage and preserve the bird life on their properties and some clubs virtually have turned their grounds into sanctuaries. In taking this step a club not only gets the economic benefit from the activities of numbers of birds that feed on weed seeds and insects but also secures plenty of music and feathered life on the course.

Birds Like Fairways.

Golf courses, without special treatment, present several features that are attractive to birds. The broad expanses of short grass on the fairways furnish excellent feeding grounds for robins, meadow larks flickers, and other species. When we were in Florida a few weeks ago we found the golf courses down there literally crowded with meadow larks which frequented the fairways.

The long grass and weeds which you find in the "rough" on golf courses, as well as the scattered trees and shrubs, also produce lots of food for our feathered friends. If the course has many thickets several species of birds will find nesting sites in them. Inasmuch as most courses have water hazards in which birds can drink and bathe it is not even necessary to erect bird fountains.

Must Have Water.

However, if water is scarce on a course a few fountains placed in view of rest benches will not only be a great boon to the birds but also entertain the players while they ponder how to make par on the next hole.

Protection, food, and water are usually present in some degree on most golf courses, but nesting sites are invariably lacking, especially for those birds taking cavities. Therefore we suggest that nesting boxes be distributed over country club grounds. The result will be surprising, because purple martins (indefatigable killers of insect pests), bluebirds, house wrens, flickers, red headed woodpeckers, chickadees, and other useful and entertaining species will come to enliven and benefit the golf course. These boxes should be in position right now because the migrants are beginning to come out of the south.

Catholic Prep Quintet Beats City Leaguers

A picked team of Catholic high school stars defeated a similar quintet of the City league basketball players, 21 to 20, at De La Salle gym last night. Free throws in the last two minutes gave the parochial players victory after they had trailed throughout the second half.

The public school boys held a 7 to 5 edge at the first quarter, but the score was 9 all at the half time. At the third quarter mark the winners trailed, 14 to 13.

Baskets by Kopyzski of Lane and Custard of Englewood and a free throw by Feibenberg of Marshall increased the losers' lead to 19 to 14 in the final quarter. Angsten of Loyola and McGuff of St. Mel then scored baskets for the Catholic leaguers, bringing the score to 19 to 17.

A few minutes later Bocek fouled McGuff and the latter made both free throws to tie the score. Boland of De La Salle fouled Custard and the Englewood star gave the City league a 20 to 19 lead. Then Custard committed a personal and technical foul, on which Angsten and McGuff made the winning points. Lineup:

A free throw by Johnny Conrad as a result of Rivers' foul, committed almost simultaneously with the final gun, gave St. Sabina, south division, a 16 to 15 victory over St. Monica, north section, and the championship of the Catholic Order of Foresters Basketball league, before a capacity crowd of 1,200, at St. Rita's High school gym yesterday.

In defeating St. Monica, last year's league champion, St. Sabina ended the five year stretch of championships registered by north division teams. It also marked the first time the south division has won the title.

Pal Moore vs. Bobby Allen [10].
Ever Hammer vs. Sid Conn [8].
Walter Madey vs. Bud Doran [6].
Bud Hammer vs. Herb Peterson [6].
My Boy Kelly vs. Cleveland Woodson [4].

Bobby Allen will attempt to demonstrate this evening at the Ashland boulevard auditorium that youth always is served in the boxing ring. Which proposition has been proven many times, but on this occasion Pal Moore, 36 year old veteran, is authority for the statement that he is one step ahead of the youthful Allen.

This youth vs. age contest is double barrelled. In the semi-windup tonight Ever Hammer, former lightweight, is matched against Sid Conn, a Canadian welterweight. They will fight eight rounds, or less.

Walter Madey and Bud Doran, Chicago boys, are scheduled for a heavyweight affair of six rounds. The remainder of the card offers Bud Hammer and Herb Peterson and My Boy Kelly and Cleveland Woodson. The last is a four round bout.

Record Breaking Crowd Visits Displays.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

From 10 o'clock yesterday morning until 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, 15,000 Chicagoans crowded the fourth annual garden and flower show at the Sherman hotel. The attendance broke all records for a single day. The exhibits were open until 10 o'clock last night.

Not content with making the most of Old Mother Nature's choicest offerings, landscape experts have gone the old lady one better. Completion of the exhibit of formal gardens revealed tropical growths, a profusion of temperate zone flowers, and even Alpine plants neighboring each other in perfect harmony in the exhibition hall. The ensemble was one of exquisite beauty.

Various Gardens Shown.

Spectators found themselves in an avenue arched overhead with greenery on entering the hall. Gardens of every style from the dignified formality of the Italian to the pleasant confusion of the old-fashioned American lined either side. Flowers wild and cultivated were assembled with studied artistry.

Kenneth W. Banga, landscape architect for the show, was heartily congratulated by visiting professionals on the garden exhibit. H. W. Wolcott of Jackson, Mich., who designed Henry Ford's Alpine garden, yesterday completed the similar garden he designed for the show.

Receive President Hoover Roses.

Among novelties received yesterday by air mail were some of the new President Hoover roses. L. B. Coddington of Murray Hill, N. J., is the grower of the rose, which is of a color entirely new to the rose family—a salmon pink approaching orange. It has unusual size and keeping qualities, it was announced.

One of the features of today's program will be the initial radio talk of Mrs. Henry Ford, to be made over the NBC chain through KYW. She will speak on the national garden bureau program, in her capacity as president of the Women's National Farm and Garden association. A receiving set will be installed in the grand ballroom of the hotel.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra, Frederick Stock conducting, through W-G-N, 2 to 3 yesterday, gave another magnificent concert.

Deems Taylor's suite, "Through the Looking Glass," for strings and piano, was delightful. In this number the prominence of the piano part was unusually attractive. Honnegger's symphonic tone poem, "Pastorale d'Ete," was another number. Korsakow's "Flight of the Bumble Bee" brought the concert to a close.

The theater orchestra concert, from New York through KYW, 1 to 2 o'clock, was another pleasant program of the day. A suite by Purcell was very charming. Strauss' "Death and Transfiguration" was impressive.

Sigrid Onegin, contralto, was the soloist on the New York concert through W-G-N, 8:15 to 9:15. Only once before, to my knowledge, has this excellent concert singer and Metropolitan opera star appeared in radio. Her program included Swedish, German, French and English songs of widely diverse character.

There was a peach of a concert by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra from 7:45 to 8, the selections being Gounod's "Ave Marie," played as a violin solo with orchestra accompaniment, and an arrangement of Schubert's "By the Sea" and the "Volga Boatman" song.

WILD OIL WELL IN OKLAHOMA IS ALMOST TAMED

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 30.—(AP)—With a master gate in place and the gusher reported about two-thirds shut in, victory late tonight seemed within the grasp of workmen who were battling to control the wild oil well in the Oklahoma City oil field. Oil operators expected the well to be under complete control by tomorrow.

Although its first production last Wednesday was dry gas which roared at a heavy volume, the well has developed into the field's largest oil producer with a flow estimated by oil men at 2,000 barrels an hour, with gas estimated at 200,000,000 cubic feet daily.

The well, the No. 1 Mary Sudik, is owned by the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company.

OFFICIAL FOR 20 YEARS DIES; FIND 'HE' WAS WOMAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, March 30.—The police are busy investigating the circumstances surrounding the death of an official of the ministry of public works. Raul Suarez, whom death disclosed "him" to be a woman. Suarez' "wife," with whom he lived for more than three years, declared she was unaware of the sex of her "husband." He appears to have been decidedly masculine in character, having bestowed sound beatings upon fellow employés of the ministry of public works on several occasions.

Suarez enjoyed a reputation as an exemplary official during the 20 years he was employed in the ministry of public works. He held citizenship papers and voted regularly at the elections.

In private life he was a pleasant companion. He smoked and drank freely with his friends, though at times he was irascible and inclined to fight at the slightest provocation.

GERTRUDE REBER, IN SAME HOUSE 65 YEARS, DEAD

MRS. GERTRUDE REBER.

Mrs. Gertrude Virginia Farrell Reber, 79 years old, a resident of Chicago since 1853, died yesterday at her home at 4037 Ellis avenue, after an illness of two years. She had lived in the same house since it was built by her father 65 years ago.

Mrs. Reber came to Chicago from Peoria, her birthplace, when she was 3 years old. When her family moved 11 years later to the house in which she died, the region, then known as Cleaverville, was sparsely settled and the shore of Lake Michigan was only a short distance east of the house.

Two years after settling there she was married to Dr. A. S. Reber, a young physician, who died 57 years ago, when Mrs. Reber was 22 years old. After their marriage they had continued to live with Mrs. Reber's family and their three children were born and grew up in the same house.

One of her daughters, Mrs. Violet Richardson, the wife of Dr. Joseph H. Richardson, still resides in the family home, the oldest house on Ellis avenue. Besides Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Reber is survived by one other daughter, Mrs. Louise Whalen, and one son, Dr. William F. Reber; nine grandchildren, and seven great grandchildren.

Mrs. Cresson E. Smith, Wife of Movie Executive, Dies

Mrs. Cresson E. Smith, wife of the assistant general manager of the United Artists corporation, with offices at 814 South Wabash avenue, Chicago, died yesterday in New York after a protracted illness. Until Mrs. Smith went to New York recently for medical treatment, she and her husband resided at the Medinah Athletic club. In addition to her husband, Mrs. Smith leaves a daughter, Mrs. Richard Lang of Pittsburgh, and a son, Cresson E. Smith Jr.

MISS KATHERINE SMITH; DAUGHTER OF GENERAL, DIES

Miss Katherine Smith, 54 years old, daughter of the late Gen. George W. Smith, died suddenly of heart disease Saturday night in her apartment at the Churchill hotel.

Gen. Smith, who died in 1898, was a well known Chicago lawyer. He entered the civil war as colonel of the 88th Illinois volunteers. Kinney Smith, secretary of the Continental National bank, who died in October, 1929, was a brother. A sister, Mrs. Robert Stevenson Jr., 1349 Astor street, survives.

Funeral services will be held from the Holy Name cathedral at 10 a. m. today. Interment will be private.

A. Stanley Lucas, Head of Paint Company, Dies

A. Stanley Lucas, president of the Austin Lucas Paint company, died Saturday at his home at 1618 Wesley avenue, Evanston, after a long illness. Mr. Lucas is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ethel Hamilton Lucas, and two daughters, Mildred and Louise.

PENNSY SHOWS BIGGEST GAIN IN ROAD'S HISTORY

Hauls 233,106,956 Tons in 1928.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The public service performed by the Pennsylvania railroad last year was equivalent to carrying one ton of freight about forty-nine billion miles and one passenger approximately six billion miles. In this graphic way is shown what the big carrier accomplished in the annual report issued by President W. W. Atterbury last night.

Over its 11,550 miles of road the Pennsylvania hauled 233,106,956 tons of freight and 113,713,797 passengers, which was about 10½ per cent of the country's total freight traffic and over 19 per cent of the total passenger traffic.

"The business of the year, as reflected by operating revenues, while greater than in 1928, was not so large as in the record years of 1923 and 1926," President Atterbury says. "But the net increase exceeded that of any year in the history of the company.

Emphasizes Policy.

"This satisfactory result is due in part to, and emphasizes the wisdom of, the policy for many years of investing in capital account a portion of earnings to furnish additional and improved transportation facilities without issuing securities therefor, and to continued efforts to conduct the business expeditiously, efficiently and economically."

Last year net capital expenditures for road and equipment amounted to $53,869,776. Investment in road and equipment on Dec. 31, 1929, was $2,542,579,964 and $298,492,429 was invested in marketable securities. Against this total of $2,841,072,393 there were securities outstanding in the hands of the public of a par value of only $1,614,939,722.

Net income for 1929 was $101,378,518, equivalent to $8.82 a share on the $50 par value capital stock outstanding, and surplus after dividends, etc., was $48,925,596, bringing total surplus to $230,834,073. Net income for 1928 was $82,426,194, or $7.35 a share. The capital stock was increased by $13,082,450 late last year, bringing it up to $574,756,400. An additional $89,836,050 of stock was issued recently in a refunding operation and the stockholders at the annual meeting will be asked to increase the authorized issue to $870,000,000.

Reports Record Income.

The report says the Pennsylvania had 196,119 stockholders at the end of 1929, a new high mark, and approximately 183,000 employés.

Record sales and profits are revealed in the annual report of the Outlet company. Net profit for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1930, after depreciation, amortization and federal income tax amounted to $1,063,913, equivalent after dividends of $169,760 paid on first and second preferred stocks to $8.94 a share on 100,000 no par common shares. In the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1929, net income was $979,671, or $7.77 a share.

Sun Life Co. Increases Common Stock Holdings

An increase of $54,682,084 in common stock holdings, selected largely among the securities listed on the New York exchanges, is shown in the annual financial statement of the Sun Life Assurance company of Canada, regarded as the largest corporate investor in common stocks in the world. With investments of $460,479,021 at the close of business Dec. 31, 1929, as against $346,345,040 in 1928, the added holdings of Sun Life includes several substantial blocks of American industrials.

ORGANIZE FIRM TO TAKE OVER UNITED GAS CO.

New York, March 30.—(AP)—The United Gas corporation, a new company, organized under the laws of Delaware, tonight announced agreement by the companies involved on its plan to acquire securities of the present United Gas company, several of the latter's subsidiaries. The Louisiana Gas and Fuel company and the Palmer corporation of Louisiana.

The consolidation under contemplation was described as being one of the largest gas mergers in the world. The operating gross revenue of the companies involved was approximately $22,000,000 in 1929 from the sale of natural gas alone.

The announcement said that in the meantime the present United Gas company has financed and, through its subsidiaries, has completed the purchase of the properties in Texas and Louisiana formerly owned by Magnolia Gas company. Louisian Gas and Fuel company is at present a subsidiary of Electric Power and Light corporation and the Palmer corporation of Louisiana is a present subsidiary of the Louisiana Gas and Fuel.

TAKE FIRST STEP IN WEST COAST UTILITY MERGER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 30.—The first step has been taken in a plan to effect a $650,000,000 consolidation of public utility companies serving the greater part of northern and central California, through a merger of the North American company's operating properties in California with the Pacific Gas and Electric company, one of the largest independent companies in the United States, it was announced today.

The transaction is subject to the approval of the California railroad commission, with which an application is being filed by the parties involved. If the deal is consummated, the North American company, through its subsidiary, the Western Power corporation, will become the largest stockholder in the Pacific Gas and Electric company through ownership of more than 32 per cent of the total outstanding common stock.

The service will be available thereafter from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily. Radio Corp. Net Equivalent to $1.58 Share

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 30.—The Radio Corporation of America reports for 1929 a net income of $15,982,562 after reserves and federal taxes, equal after preferred dividends paid during the year to nearly $1.58 a share earned on 6,530,375 common shares outstanding on Dec. 31, 1929. On the basis of annual preferred stocks outstanding at the close of the year, net income was equal to more than $1.59 a share on the common stock.

This is the first annual report to be issued following the merger with the Victor Talking Machine company, so that comparison with reports of previous years is impossible. The Radio corporation reported for 1928 a net income of $19,834,799, equal after preferred dividends to $15.98 a share on 1,155,400 shares, or to about $3.20 a share giving effect to the five for one split up of February, 1929.

Gross income of the Radio corporation of America and subsidiaries from all sources totaled $182,137,739 in 1929, comparing with $101,851,603 in 1928 for Radio Corporation and $54,032,113 for Victor Talking Machine, or combined gross incomes of $155,933,716. This indicates an apparent gain of more than $26,000,000 of the combined business in 1929.

Net earnings after expenses and depreciation amounted to $19,644,615 in 1929, comparing with $23,661,990 for the Radio corporation and $8,200,019 for the Victor company in 1928, or a combined total of $31,862,009 for the two years. The decline was due to a gain in expenses and depreciation, the aggregate total in 1929 being $162,493,124, against $75,189,613 for Radio and $45,882,094 for Victor in 1928, a combined total of $124,071,707.

The surplus after dividends in 1929 was $10,386,852, bringing total surplus to $29,690,244 at the close of the year, against $19,303,392 at the end of 1928 and $7,029,622 on Jan. 1, 1928.

Railroads Seeking Means to Revive Passenger Traffic

BY SCRUTATOR.

Railroads are trying to maintain or increase their freight revenues by increasing rates. With their passenger revenues they are attempting something different. No efforts are being made to raise the basic level above 3.6 cents a mile; on the contrary, there is a well defined movement to make passenger traffic greater by more attractive rate levels.

The peak of passenger travel on American rails was reached in 1920. From that year until 1929 there was a drop of 37 per cent in number of passengers, of 34 per cent in passenger miles, and of 32 per cent in passenger revenues. In long haul traffic the rails have held up best, although at the same time bus lines have had a considerable growth in their long distance business.

Try Excursion Rates.

In the hope of reviving the train riding habit, the railroads in the past have tried excursion rates. Some have tried out the savings bank idea, where prospective travelers were persuaded to bank their funds with the carriers in anticipation of vacations. This did not work out any too well. A later idea was to allow the transportation of an automobile to a winter resort for the price of three rail passenger fares.

The latest experiment, which will be tried by one of the largest railroads in the country, is a combined bus and railroad trip between New York or Philadelphia in the east and Chicago or St. Louis in the west. The passenger will do his daylight riding in the bus and his night travel on Pullman cars. The total cost is to be approximately the bus rate, or some $8 cheaper than the all rail rate.

This service is to be inaugurated at once. The bus-rail trip will require about eight hours longer than all rail, and about eight hours less than all bus.

Admittedly, the aim is to attract to the trains a class of passengers who are not inclined, for economic reasons, to ride trains. Competent railroad men hold that the long distance bus lines have not taken their patronage from the railroads, but have developed their own by furnishing a service that corresponds to third class on European roads; not so fast, not so comfortable for such distances, but cheaper.

In this theory, it is maintained that the bus riders would not ride at all unless they could ride cheaply. The railroads, seeing that their high speed, de luxe trains over long distances are still fairly profitable, are trying to get some of the poor folks to patronize them, too.

Classified Service Next?

The next, and a logical step, would be a really classified system of passenger service. Authorities hold that ordinary day coach service could be given profitably for less than 3.6 cents a mile and would not interfere with the present revenues of fast trains, provided a distinction in comfort and social levels were made marked enough between the classes. Still less would it interfere with the higher priced parlor car and Pullman services.

The railroads are hitting at the right spot for passenger traffic in reaching toward thin pocketbooks, even though the bus lines beat them to the idea. Their attack on the freight problem is to try for constantly higher rates. It is as logical to expect volume from lower freight rates as from lower passenger rates.

MILDLY BULLISH NEWS BOLSTERS WHEAT MARKET

Southwest Crop Scare Stirs Speculators.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

April marks the real starting of the crop scare period in winter wheat, and one is already on in the southwest, with a prospect for a good sized one in the middle west.

The latter is due to winter killing and Hessian fly over a large part of the soft winter wheat sections east of the Missouri river. In the southwest it is too dry in some sections for hard winter wheat, and unless rain comes soon, deterioration is to take place.

There is always more or less rain in April, and the size of the crop in all sections, particularly in the southwest where the big surplus of hard winter wheat is raised, will depend largely upon the amount of moisture secured in the next thirty days. Prices have advanced on buying credited largely to shorts and to speculators who regarded the scattered crop reports that came in late in the week as materially bullish.

The market has changed from an oversold to a moderately bullish situation, although the position as regards export clearances and foreign buying has not been in evidence to the extent that would warrant accumulation of extensive holdings.

Private Reports This Week.

Expectations are that private reports on winter wheat due within the next few days will suggest conditions around 81 to 83. One report out Saturday made it 81.7. A year ago it was 82.7 and the ten year average is 83.9. In December it was 86. Private reports in April last year showed 81.1. With an abandonment estimated at 8.5 per cent and an estimated acreage for harvest of 39,337,000 acres, the crop was estimated at 500,000,000 bu. The government report estimated the abandonment in the Canadian returns at 6.4 per cent compared with 25.1 per cent in 1928, and a ten year average of 10.5 per cent. No estimate was made of production or abandonment in April returns, but in May a crop of 595,000,000 bu was suggested. Final harvest returns were on 40,162,000 acres with a crop of 578,000,000 bu. In 1928 the crop was 579,000,000 bu.

Unless farmers change their intentions to plant a smaller acreage of spring wheat than indicated by their April returns given out by the government report last week, there will be about as much bread wheat area seeded as last year, while the durum wheat acreage will be cut 15 per cent. The bulk of durum wheat is raised in Minnesota and the Dakotas. It is harder and withstands black rust better than bread wheat, but unless there is a large foreign demand it sells at a discount.

Southwest Needs Rain.

Winter wheat conditions in the southwest have reached the point where unless good general rains come within the next week or two deterioration is expected, although there is said to be more subsoil moisture than a year ago. Present returns suggest that prospects for a bumper wheat crop in the southwest have gone, but a good average crop might be raised. An average crop in Kansas is 116,000,000 bu. Last year it raised 138,000,000 bu, and in 1928 set a record of 177,000,000 bu. In the Texas panhandle prospects are good for around 29,000,000 bu, and there are claims of as high as 51,000,000 bu, which are believed to be out of line, according to one of the best informed Chicago statisticians.
